Council Plans For Coming Year

HS Student Council is getting under way. A few tentative plans for the coming year are becoming activities, school improvement, and creating a sister school unity.

Plans for Homecoming include presentation of the Homecoming Court early in the week Oct. 8; a bonfire Thursday night; float judging, the annual parade and football game Friday.

As a part of its school beautification project, Council plans to place letters reading "Home of the Blue" (or something to that effect) on outside rear wall of the auditorium above the administration building.

A new section of sidewalk connecting the math wing and walkway between the gym and gym was paid for by last year's Council. A new section of sidewalk was provided at no cost to the school by some of the senior classes.

A school improvement project is to be a promotion "school unity" through cooperation between various clubs.

Improvements on old projects is also a part of Council's responsibility: the juke box in the cafeteria is one example of this. Plans to add additional speakers in the proper locations throughout the cafeteria have begun to take effect.

ords in the juke box changed are requested to place suggestions in Buddy Whitmire's box in the office.

The juke box has provided Council with an income of about $35 per month.

This early in the year, Council has not had opportunity to begin full action, but committees are now in existence and Council is about to begin full functions. "We just ask that the students back us," says Mrs. Joan Ideker, one of Council's faculty sponsors.

Cedar Mountain Residents Are Pleased Over Winning Contest

By Mrs. Nancy Logan and Mrs. Ruby Skerrett

CEDAR MOUNTAIN — A great feeling of satisfaction was felt all over Cedar Mountain as they were told you're number one in the District Roadside judging.

The Club was awarded $150 as first place winner in Asheville last Friday. We want to thank everyone who had a part in this program and to say without the cooperation of all residents these awards would not be possible. Our motto to all of you is, "Working together for a more beautiful community!"

Plans are in process for the County Community Development judging. We are asking the help of everyone in getting ready for this judging, by cleaning around your homes, letting the Scrapbook Committee know of any improvements you have made and picking up along roadsides near your homes.

Work continues on Saturday at Rocky Hill church and all who can are asked to help. The ladies are responsible for the lunch.

There will be a general clean up of the community next Wednesday afternoon. All Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts and 4-H Club are urged to take part in this most needed project, immediately after school.

The W.M.S. of Rocky Hill Baptist church will meet at the church, October 6th at 1:30 p.m. All ladies are asked to be present for this special meeting.

A special class in upholstering was taught to some of the ladies of the community by Mrs. Margaret Burns of Greenville and Cedar Mtn. The class was taught at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. Alvin Jones, where the subject was covering a sectional couch and chair. The ladies thank Mrs. Burns for such an interesting class.

Our prayers and get well wishes go to Miss Heidi Hamby who is a patient at Memorial Mission Hospital, following a serious car accident. We hope she will soon be back here in Cedar Mountain with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heeter had as dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. George Lade, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Crider of Brevard. The dinner was in honor of Mrs. Lade's 84th birthday.

Visitors of the George Lades last week were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Hayworth of Rosman, formerly of Bradenton, Florida.

Mrs. Bonnie Jones was a guest of the Harry Heeters and enjoyed supper with them.

US Forest Service, What's In A Name?

Today we are concerned with some new names or terms when discussing natural resource management. Economy, and environment are two names used extensively today. Conservation and Preservation have been used for some time.

Many times these terms are used interchangeably or in some cases they are used completely wrong. A good example is Ecology—it is a branch of biology that deals with the relationship between living organisms and their environment.

Environment is the total of all the conditions, circumstances and influences surrounding, and effecting the development of, living organisms. So we see by these definitions that ecology is the study of the relationship between living organisms and their surroundings (environment).

The misuse of these terms comes when people talk about saving the economy, etc. Land managers do not effect ecology, they can only effect the environment.

Now we come to the word Conservation. It is the wise use of forest land, benefitting man while perpetuating the resources for future generations. On the other hand preservation is maintaining forest land without using any of the resources or affecting any change within the forest.

National Forests are managed under the principles of Conservation — wise use — which uses ecology to determine the best land management to provide a quality environment for man, wildlife and plant life.
