

82nd Airborne Division Band To Play Friday Night At Brevard-Hendersonville Grid Game

The 82nd Airborne Division band, one of the finest in America, will be in Brevard Friday night for the Brevard - Hendersonville game.

The band is being brought to Brevard by the local Monroe Wilson post of the American Legion, the Lewis Earl Jackson post of the VFW and the VFW auxiliary, according to Principal Bill Stanley.

Legionnaires and VFW members are asked to wear their veteran caps to the game and stand along the sidelines during the halftime show.

The band will play before the game, during the game and at halftime.

Of all the many Army bands, few have had as colorful and exciting a history as the 82d Airborne Division Band. From North Africa to Europe in combat, from Texas to New York on maneuvers, and from Miami to Cleveland on parade, the 82d Airborne Division Band has served proudly during war and peace.

The band was activated on April 27, 1942 at Camp Clairborne, Louisiana, one month after the activation of the 82d Infantry Division. It was originally designated as the 82d Infantry Division Artillery Band. After the division obtained airborne status, the band was redesignated the 82d Airborne Division Artillery Band on August 15, 1942. It was not until March 1, 1945 that it was again redesignated as simply the 82d Airborne Division Band. In its early months of organization, the unit consisted of only 23 musicians.

During World War II, the band followed the division. The musicians played for the troops when the occasion arose while performing many other details, such as prisoner guard and litter bearers for the medics. The group operated not only as a marching unit, but also a concert band and sometimes a dance band to help in boosting troop morale. The unit officially participated in four campaigns - Naples - Foggia, Rhineland, Ardennes - Alsace, and Central Europe. During the occupation of Berlin, the mission of the division necessitated the frequent appearance of the band at guards of honor and other special functions.

While in Africa during the war, the band played for Generals Eisenhower, Patton, Clark and Spaatz. In Germany, Generals Ridgeway and Dempsey were among its audiences as well as Marshals Zhukov and Montgomery. Since the war, the unit has included General Douglas MacArthur, Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain and President John F. Kennedy among its audiences.

In May 1965 the band joined the rest of the division during the disturbance in the Dominican Republic. It served there for approximately five months, being widely used to present programs for the Dominican people in conjunction with the Civil Affairs program. It also performed in many Washington, D. C. schools during the civil disturbances in April 1968.

Today the band is consolidated with Headquarters and Headquarters Company of the Division Support Command. As the only band on Fort Bragg, it is widely used for division and post functions as well as in community relations activities. It supports an average of 100 musical activities per month, including furnishing combos for social functions and buglers for military funerals. In addition to play at military changes of command and at honor guard ceremonies, the band has given programs in area high schools and elementary schools. It has also performed at the Azalea Festival in Wilmington, the Carolina 500 auto race in Rockingham, the Boy Scout Jamboree, ROTC balls and in numerous parades.

The band is composed of 42 enlisted men and one warrant officer. Members are carefully selected based on their musical background. They also must obtain a minimum score during an audition. All of the members have a wide range of musical experience, some having a professional background.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

A Diabetic Is No Invalid

DIABETES does not run in our family. Yet our 22-year-old daughter was just found to have it.

There are questions we are afraid to think, much less to ask. What are the prospects for her longevity, and of living a normal, happy married life?

Mr. and Mrs. B.B.N., R.I. Dear Mr. and Mrs. N.: My answer may at first seem harsh when I say that I am glad you discovered your daughter had diabetes.

Certainly, it would have been better if she did not have it. But since she has diabetes, what is vital is its early discovery and active treatment.

Far too many people delay medical examination and live as mild diabetics without knowing it, without being treated. They eventually find it hard to control the diabetes and its complications.

The prospects are great for the longevity of today's diabetic. With proper diet, and insulin when necessary, the life span of the diabetic is almost as great as it is for the person without it.

It may, in fact, even be greater, because the diabetic is more conscious of health. He usually keeps his weight down, does not smoke, and avoids the fatty foods thought to lead to atherosclerosis.

Regular visits to the doctor play an important role in the detection of other conditions that may arise, thus maintaining a better level of health throughout life.

Infections were once the dreaded complications of diabetes. Today, antibiotics and sulfa drugs have reduced these.

Your daughter, with continued treatment, can expect a full life in marriage, and with children, unmarred by her diabetic state.

It is important to her emotionally that she knows clearly there is no need for her to go through life in the role of an invalid.

I have had a swelling at the base of my spine all my life.

Now, at the age of 46, it's beginning to bother me. I have been told that I need surgery. Why would this be necessary after so many years?

Mr. E. J., Mich. Dear Mr. J.: Your story suggests the possibility that you may have a "plonidal" cyst. If that is it, you can be sure that it is not a dangerous condition.

These cysts are the result of some defect in development while still in the mother's uterus.

They rarely cause symptoms until adult life. Usually, an infection in the cyst makes it flare up after it has lain dormant many years.

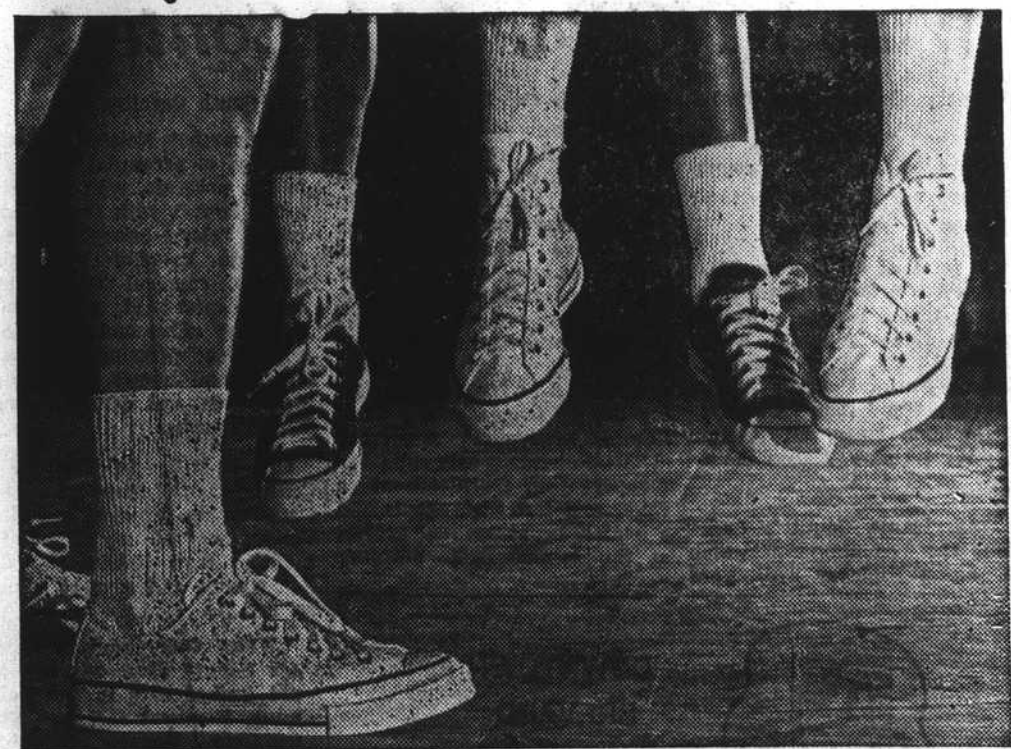

Surgery is very successful and is far less complicated than it was years ago. If surgery has been suggested, don't delay. Time tends to invite unnecessary complications.

Just because the U.S. Olympic Team will wear Converse basketball shoes, should you?

Darned right! OK, so you're not Olympic material. You call basketball shoes "sneakers", and you use them as much for knocking around as for playing the game. Do you rate Converse? Think of it this way. More collegiate and professional athletes wear Converse basketball shoes than any other brand. Obviously, when you wear them, you have a lot more going for you! And why shouldn't you have the best?
