

FROM THE EDITOR'S CORNER

By
EDITOR JOHN ANDERSON

Our neighborhood has been a happy place this week.

Bobby Sinaard arrived home after another tour of duty in Vietnam.

He looks good, has lost a little weight, but says he feels wonderful.

It's good to have him back home, and we're delighted that thousands of other young men will be getting home from Vietnam for Christmas.

When we see boys like Bobby it makes us feel good inside.

If all young Americans had his spirit of patriotism, we wouldn't have campus disorders, rioting and other violence that makes you sick.

But you feel good to know that the majority of our young people are like Bobby. They want to do their part for America. And more!

If you haven't done so, look over the list of servicemen in The Times-Du Pont sponsored page, section two, page four, and pick a few names.

They will enjoy receiving a Christmas card from you.

And if you know of other men serving overseas who are not on the list, mail their names and addresses in and we'll publish them next week.

For a real treat, hear "The Tar Heel Voices" Thursday night.

The University of North Carolina Glee club comes to town and will give a concert that evening in the auditorium of Brevard College at 8:15.

Everywhere they have sung, they have received standing ovations.

Incidentally, Gary Himes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Himes, is a member of the group.

We recall very fondly our days with the Glee Club at Carolina, and we are looking forward to hearing them this Thursday.

Come on down. It's free for nuttin' . . .

If some countries ever get tired of their national anthems, here are some suggestions: For an Arab nation: "Dancing Sheik to Sheik." For Switzerland: "Climb Every Mountain." For Germany instead of the goose step: "The Turkey Trot." For Cuba: "Sugar in the Morning, Sugar in the Evening, Sugar at Supper-time." And for Okinawa to sing the U. S.: "I've Grown Accustomed to Your Base."

Borrowed . . . You can never get ahead of anyone you're trying to get even with.

A good woman inspires a man; a brilliant woman interests him; a beautiful woman fascinates him; and a sympathetic woman gets him.

Opportunity knocks. Tempation kicks the door down.

Swallow your pride occasionally. It's non-fattening.

An old-timer says there are three signs of old age. One is the loss of memory, and he can't remember the other two.

Capital punishment is having to live in Washington, D. C.

Joke of the week . . .

The old inebriate thought he would sober up a bit, so he weaved up to a coffee machine and dropped a coin in the slot and pressed the button. No cup was dispensed, but the nozzels went into action, pouring out coffee cream and sugar. After it went down the drain, the machine turned off.

"Now thash what I call automashion," said the drunk. "The darn thing even drinks it for you."

And we also like . . .

A little boy strayed away from his father at the fairgrounds and cried to a policeman that he was lost.

"What's your father like?" asked the cop.

"Women!" came the prompt reply.

age, may vote in the election if his farm is eligible to participate in any of the ASCS programs administered in his community. Others who may vote are: A wife who actively operates a farm with her husband, a minor who supervises or conducts the farming operation of an entire farm; a legal guardian who manages a farm for a child, and a person representing a legal entity such as a partnership or corporation.

Producers who have farm interests in more than one community may select the community in which to vote, but may vote in only one community in the County.

Ballots should be voted and then sealed inside the plain envelope. This envelope should then be placed inside the one addressed to the County Office.

This procedure insures the secrecy of each vote. The certification on the election envelope must be signed and dated before being returned to the County Office. Voters who certify their ballots with an "X" for a signature must do so before a witness and obtain the signature of the witness in order for the ballot to be counted.

A list of known eligible voters is open for inspection at the County ASCS Office. Any person who believes he is an eligible voter but is not listed, or has not received a ballot in the mail within a few days after Nov. 18, should inquire at the County ASCS Office as soon as possible, Whitmire said.

five performances annually.

parably damaged.

Due to the efficient action of the fire department, no damage was done to nearby buildings. No one was injured in the fire.

Community Action personnel report all records were destroyed in the fire except those in file drawers and these were badly scorched. No decision has been made by Community Action officials as to where the offices will be moved.

The building also served as a Teen Center and was available for group meetings. It belonged to the Transylvania Community Center, Inc.

"We are, of course, heartbroken to see this beautiful old building destroyed," says William White, Brevard attorney and President of the Transylvania Community Center. "But we hope this will serve to add impetus to our Transylvania youth program. A great deal of work is needed and this adversity should only encourage all of us to work harder for a better youth program."

DESTROYED BY FIRE — A Brevard landmark, the old First Methodist Church on the corner of Gaston and Probart Streets, was destroyed by fire early Wednesday morning. In use as the Transylvania Community Center for the last several years and owned by that organization, the building was used as a Teen Center in the Transylvania youth program. It also housed the Western Carolina Community Action offices, many of whose records were destroyed in the fire.

Each farmer may vote for not more than three candidates in the ASC election. He may select up to three of the candidates listed or he may write in his choice on the lines provided at the bottom of the ballot.

In each of the eight ASC communities in the County, three community committeemen and two alternates will be elected. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes becomes chairman; the second highest, vice chairman; third high, regular member; and fourth and fifth highest become 1st and 2nd alternates who serve on the community committee if regular members are absent or if a permanent vacancy occurs. All election ties will be settled by lot.

ASC community committeemen are elected for one-year terms, to begin January 1st. Mr. Whitmire said, "It's very important that farmers elect representatives and qualified farmer-neighbors for community committee posts. These community committees elect the County ASC committee and choose its officers. They also help keep farmers in their communities informed on how individual farm operations will be affected by farm programs administered by the County ASC Committee.
