Temperature averages in Brevard for the past week were 60 and 35, reflecting the cooler weather of late fall. This cooler weather had been at least two weeks overdue in the area. Precipitation was a minimum.

The outlook for North Carolina for Wednesday through Friday calls for a chance of showers Thursday. There will be variable cloudiness with a warming trend Wednesday through Friday.

Lows should be in the 20s during the first part of the period, and in the 30s during the latter part. Highs will be mostly in the low 50s in the early part of the period and then mostly in the 60s as a warming trend sets in later.

Highest reading last week was 71 last Wednesday, the low was 25 on Monday morning.

Weather data for the week was as follows:

	High	Low	Prec.
Nov. 17	71	36	0.00
Nov. 18	70	33	0.00
Nov. 19	60	51	0.00
Nov. 20	62	31	Trace
Nov. 21	55	33	0.00
Nov. 22	43	25	0.00

Teen Center Is Seeking New Location

The Teen Center is looking for a temporary location.

Anyone having a house, a store building or other facilities that would be suitable is urged to call John Higgins at 883-4167 or Mrs. Clifton Sneedon at 883-3575.

The Teen Center was completely destroyed by fire last Wednesday morning, and a temporary location is needed immediately.

The Teen center was located in the Transylvania Community Center on Gaston street.

The two Boards of Directors have met and are making plans for the future.

But at the moment, the most pressing need is a temporary location until decisions about the future are formulated.

Deer Hunting First Day Is Reported Good

Dear hunting was fair to excellent throughout Western North Carolina on Monday, the first day of the two-week gun hunting season in the 18 westernmost counties. And although bone-chilling temperatures gave hunters an unpleasant welcome at sunrise, the turnout was heavy, except for the high elevations, and many of the more persistent gunners either got a look or got shots at venison if they failed to take any home.

Thanksgiving Will Be Quiet In County, Stores, Schools Close

and was named All-WNC during his junior year last year. He follows a long line of outstanding Blue Devil gridders who have been invited to play in the Shrine Game, which annually sends the finest senior players from North Carolina against a similar squad from South Carolina. The game will be played at Charlotte Memorial Stadium on Saturday, December 4th. (Times Staff Photo)

The Times Is Out Early, Roundup Made

The Transylvania Times is out early this week in order that the staff may join thousands of other Transylvania families in a quiet Thanksgiving at home.

Readers, too, will have their copy of the paper, both those who have it delivered and those who receive it by mail, in time to catch up on the Thanksgiving Week news before the big day.

Schools Closed

County schools will be recessed Wednesday afternoon until Monday, Nov. 29th. Brevard College students will enjoy the same recess from their studies.

Banks and most Brevard businesses will be closed also in observance of this national day of Thanksgiving for the countless good things so many of Americans enjoy.

The Post Office will be closed for window service and both local and rural delivery, but special delivery and perishable mail which comes in will be delivered.

Police, Fire and Emergency Rescue service will operate as usual.

The License Examiner's office at the Court House will also observe Thursday as a holiday.

Town and County offices will be closed only the one day, Thursday, for Thanksgiving.

Sales Tax Revenue Is Still Running Ahead Of Expectations

A check for $21,654.95 will soon be sent to Transylvania and her municipalities for sales tax collections during September, according to the State Department of Revenue.

This is the third month since the sales tax of one percent in the county began July 1st. The tax on July sales was $21,148, and August sales were $21,911.39. The total of the three checks is $64,714.34.

The figures are for net collections, according to I. L. Clayton, Commissioner of Revenue, who reported them.

According to the collections so far, the total will exceed expectations and estimates of several months ago.

It has not been announced how the distribution of the money will be made to the county and the municipalities in Transylvania.

A big push will be made in Transylvania county between now and December 1st for citizens to raise the United Fund goal of $55,266.

According to President Earle Johnson, Transylvanians had pledged $49,222, as The Times went to press on Tuesday.

This is about $6,000 short of the goal.

"But if all of our solicitors will complete their rounds, we can reach the goal," Mr. Johnson declared.

He reiterates this year's slogan: "If you don't do it, it won't get done!"

"If you have not been contacted and given an opportunity to make a pledge, please write or call Charles Du Laney, the Executive Director, in the Bryant Building. That telephone number is 883-2319, and Mr. Du Laney will have a solicitor call on you immediately," President —Turn to Page Seven

"This is a made to order opportunity for professional thieves and a strong temptation for amateurs.

"Ladies are particularly bad about leaving their pocketbooks in cars," says Chief Rowe. I once walked four blocks on Main Street and counted 9 handbags left in plain sight in cars.

"We strongly urge everyone to follow a few simple precautions to avoid having their holiday season ruined by thieves:

"One, never leave handbags in sight in a vehicle—locked or unlocked. A handbag, with its promise of cash, is good reason for a break-in.

"Two, put all packages, or any other attractive items such as cameras, radios, and such, in the car's trunk and lock it. Out of sight removes the temptation and the —Turn to Page Six

Election Last Week

Olin Employees Vote In Favor Of Union By 1,141 To 486 Votes

Olin Corporation employees at Pisgah Forest have voted in favor of representation by the United Paper Makers and the Paper workers (AFL-CIO).

There were 1,141 in favor of representation by the UPP, and 486 votes against the Union. Three votes were challenged and five were declared void.

Shortly after results of the election were known, the General Managers of Ecusta Paper and Film Division, advised employees that by law the UPP will represent all hourly production and maintenance employees on an equal basis regardless of whether they join the union or pay dues. They assured the employees that management would bargain in good faith.

The election last Wednesday and Thursday was the seventh election in eight attempts to organize employees at the Pisgah Forest Plants and was the first successful union effort in the 32-year history of the plant.

To Meet New Law Requirements, Measles Clinics Set In County

Approximately 380,000 school children and 173,000 preschool children need vaccinations against red measles in order to comply with changes in the immunization law enacted by the 1971 General Assembly, according to John Irvin, head of the N. C. State Board of Health immunization program.

The law requires measles immunization by two years of age and before admission to school. However, Mr. Irvin said, the vaccine is not ordinarily given before 12 months of age.

According to a recent interpretation from the state Attorney General's office requested by educators and health officials, the school admittance protection of the new law applies to all children enrolled in school through age 12, not just entering first graders.

This law will be enforced at the beginning of the 1972 school year; in other words, all children entering grades one through six must have certified evidence of having received measles vaccine.

In Transylvania County, it is estimated that 1,330 children ages one through 12 have not been vaccinated against measles, while an ever larger number have not been immunized against rubella ("German" measles). In addition, it has recently been found that infants receiving measles vaccine prior to a year of age, or given gamma globulin in conjunction with measles vaccine, are not adequately protected; hence, a booster is now being recommended.

To fill the need quickly and completely, the State Department of Health is providing free a combined vaccine (measles and rubella), and recommending that all children between ages one and 12 be immunized or re-immunized as the case may be.

Local public health nurses are giving the jet-gun injections through the elementary schools the week of November 22th, and clinics for pre-school children are being scheduled for Sunday, December 6th, according to Dr. John Folger, local health officer.

There will be no charge for the vaccine.
