

Cedar Mountain Hit By Heavy Snow Storm, Awards Lunch Set

By - Mrs. Nancy Logan

CEDAR MOUNTAIN — "Ole Man Winter" hit Cedar Mountain with a blast this past week. Everywhere you looked it seemed there was snow and more snow. However church services were not cancelled and no one really suffered any bad effects. Oh, yes, the children were the happiest of all. Well its back to school now!

Many Cedar Mountain residents will be attending the awards luncheon in Asheville on Saturday. Very high hopes are going with them that some of the prize money will be brought back to Cedar Mountain.

All Boy Scout and Girl Scout Troops are hard at work on special Christmas projects. They are making gifts, tray favors, decorations and most anything you're looking for. Keep up the good work, Scouts!

Two news items that were left from past weeks are: The Cub Scout Pack meeting was held at the Community Center on November 23, with all Cub Scouts and parents in attendance. Mr. and Mrs. McElphrang were special guests of the meeting and gave special instructions in scouting. The new Cub Scout Master, Mr. Edwin M. Morrow was announced at this time. Two scouts, Jeff Corn and Danny Maybin received their Bob Cat Badges. This proved to be a very good meeting and everyone enjoyed the delicious refreshments.

The other item of news was the annual Thanksgiving supper. There was a large crowd in attendance for the supper and everyone sure enjoyed all that good food.

Play practice will be held at Rocky Hill Church on Sunday at 2:00 p.m. All those in the pageant are urged to be present. This is a very important practice.

Mrs. Ruby Skerrett, Rita and Ameran and Mrs. Rosa Robinson spent Thanksgiving in Jacksonville, Florida visiting Mr. and Mrs. Butch Skerrett and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Hamby and children of Charlotte visited with Mrs. Lottie Hamby for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Our get well wishes are sent to Mr. Tony Whitson who underwent surgery at Margaret Pardee Hospital last week. Hurry and get well, Tony!

Our deepest sympathy goes to the family of Elisha Gravelly, who passed away over the weekend. He was a member of our community for a number of years. We will be remembering all of you.

"MISS FIRE FLAME" — Charles "Doc" Lance, left, was crowned "Miss Fire Flame" at Rosman high school recently by Mrs. Edith Osborne, the Mayor of the Town. This contest is held annually to raise money to support the Volunteer Fire Department. This year the money is to be used to help pay for the new Fire Truck. The Fire Department and the Auxiliary wish to thank all those who participated in the program to help make it such a success. They also thank the American Thread Plant for their big donation to the "New Fire Truck Drive."

William Combs Has Florida Art Exhibit

Two artists have been chosen to exhibit at the Naples Art Association Gallery, 984 Fourth Avenue, South, Naples, Florida, for the month of December.

They are Claire Stanley and William Combs, both of whom are well-known, locally and nationally.

William Combs began his art training with two years at Brevard Junior College, Brevard. He attended Ringling School of Art, Sarasota, Florida, and the University of the South, Seawane, Tennessee, where he studied print making under Bruce Beal of the East Washington State College in Spokane and sculpture under Bill Barrett of New York.

Mr. Combs is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Neill, of Route 2, Brevard. He has exhibited in national and local juried shows for the past four years.

Still Looking For Location, Teen Center

The Transylvania Youth Association is still looking for a temporary location to use as a teen center.

Since fire destroyed the Community Center, the teen center has not been able to operate.

Anyone who has a suitable building or house to rent or donate should call Jack Hudson at 883-4167.

Too many happy holiday seasons go up in smoke for too many people. Be sure your house has no fire hazards present, warns Liberty Mutual Insurance Company. The Christmas season should be one of festivity. Do not make it one of sorrow.

If the Shoe Fits-

BY Pat Patterson

Where do feet expand?

Two pairs of feet can measure the same at rest, but be distinctly different in size when supporting the body.

When bearing weight, the foot expands in all directions, the toes stretch forward and fan out a bit, the heel extends backward, and the ball of the foot widens. More of the foot in every part comes in contact with the ground — at the heel, ball, toes, arch, outer border,

All this is important in proper shoe fitting. Some feet will expand and stretch more than others due to foot weakness, or a hereditary condition or, perhaps due to body weight, or physical type of foot.

This makes shoe fitting a highly individual matter, even between the left and right foot of the same person. Both shoes should always be fitted and walked on before purchase.

Journalism Book Is Added To Jones Library

The American Newspaper by William H. Irwin has recently been added to the expanding stacks of James Addison Jones Library. Appearing first as a series of fourteen articles in Colliers, a weekly magazine, from January to July, 1911, it was a forerunner in the analysis of the power of the press. As the author examines journalism from the historical, ethical, and academic viewpoints he breaks down such high-minded theories as that the newspaper can, not be considered a true news-dispensing agency.

Sixty years later, with screeching cries from political leaders and investigations by senatorial committees, newspaper editors and journalists must again examine their purposes and decide if they are to inform the public of unpleasant happenings regardless of national security or personal reputations.

The student of journalism should consider this a must in his reading in the near future. Others will find entertainment in browsing through the 1911 advertisements.

Reynolds Is Fatally Injured In Auto Accident In Shelby

John Anthony Reynolds, 33, of Route 1, Pisgah Forest, died Saturday night in a Cleveland County hospital as a result of injuries received last Friday evening in an auto accident in Shelby.

Mr. Reynolds, a machinist by profession and a veteran of the U. S. Air Force, was a native and life-long resident of Transylvania County.

Surviving are: the mother: Mrs. Marjorie Reynolds, of Pisgah Forest; one son: John Anthony, Jr.; one daughter: Francis Jane Reynolds, both of Hendersonville; one brother: Wayne D. Reynolds, of Columbia, South Carolina; and the maternal grandmother, Mrs. Geneva Riddle, of Brevard.

Funeral services were conducted at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon Tuesday in the First United Methodist church.

The Rev. Orion Hutchinson and the Rev. Nelson Adams officiated and burial was in the Gillespie-Evergreen Cemetery.

Moore Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

We're spending $89,000,000 to protect the environment.

This is another reason electric rates have to be increased.

We want clean air and water, too. And we're doing something about it.

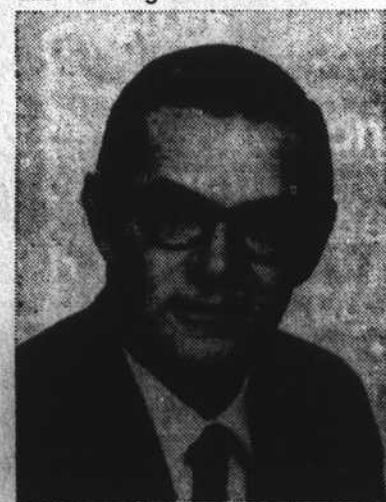

For example, we're installing gigantic electrostatic precipitators at every one of our large coal-burning generating plants. When the job is completed, it will have cost about $50 million—but 99% of the smoke will be gone.

In addition, over $39 million is being invested in water pollution control facilities to maintain the high quality of water in our lakes. Our staff scientists—chemists, biologists, physicists and others—are working on various environmental research projects to develop new ways to make this a better place to live.

The high cost of this vital program is another reason electric rates must be increased. If you have any questions about this, write to me at P.O. Box 2178, Charlotte, N.C. 28201. I'll be pleased to answer them.
