Memories Of Christmas

By - Ruth Ewing McSorley

Thoughts of home and friends and childhood Gleaming snow and azure skies, Winds across the Blue Ridge Mountains Frozen nose, and misty eyes.

Mama working in the kitchen Papa in his easy chair, Grandma dozing by the fireside Children running here and there.

Long-leaf pine tree—popcorn garlands Candy canes, paper bells, Strung across the verdant branches Youthful hearts with pleasure swelled.

Mantel hung with Christmas stockings Kitten basking by the fire, Blinking as the sparks fly upward— Upward in a golden spire.

Family gathered in the parlor Sang of hope and love and cheer, Papa playing on the organ Youthful voices ringing clear.

Smell of turkey slowly roasting Country ham and apple pie, Gingerbread and 'Lassies cookies Filching fingers sneaking by.

All these things—nostalgic longings Memories of days gone by, Fond recall of childhood pleasures Under a much younger sky...

Our youthful hearts were calm and trusting For us the future held no fear, Oh! to be in Carolina Now that Christmas-Time is here!

Laugh Corner

Hard At Work

Six-year-old Ralph had been taught that Sunday is not a day of play, but one Sunday his mother found him in the backyard flying his model airplane.

"Ralph," she said reprovingly, "you mustn't fly airplanes on the Sabbath."

"Oh, it's all right to fly this one," he said. "This isn't a pleasure plane—it's a missionary plane going to the jungle."

Trim Figure

Overheard: "My husband sent away for one of those new weigh reduction belts. But he's going to have to take off about 10 pounds before he can get it on."

Bright Boy

Charley Booe of Frankfort is eight and he's always had the ability to express himself in a way that's a bit different. For instance, when he was four he came running in from play.

"I beated a snake. I beated a snake!" he shouted excitedly.

"Did you beat it with a rock or a stick?" he was asked. "No," Charley replied, "I beated it running."
