Awards Increased For 1972 In Community Development Program

Plans for a record $6,450 in area awards for 1972 in the Western North Carolina Community Development Program, along with stepped-up emphasis on youth programs and roadside beautification efforts, have been announced by Karle Lehman of Asheville, president of the Asheville Agricultural Development Council and Jack Krause of Rutherford county, area chairman of the annual improvement contest.

The program of competition among organized rural areas covers 18 western counties and is sponsored by the Agricultural Development Council in cooperation with the agricultural agencies in each county and local sponsors. Its purpose is to encourage the people in individual communities throughout Western North Carolina to organize themselves into community clubs and work together to improve their areas.

The awards provided for youth activities in 1972 will total $1,000. These have been doubled. Roadside improvement awards have also been doubled and will amount to $800. The awards for overall community improvement will remain the same at $4,650. These will be presented next December to participating communities judged to have made the most progress during the year.

The scorecard for judging the communities has also been changed to give more credit for youth programs. Overall community projects will count for one-third, youth programs for one-third and management for better living, one-third.

The communities that participate in the program during 1972 will enter and be judged in three divisions, according to the number of full-time residents of the community. These are Division A — less than 75 families; Division B — over 75 families and less than 150, and Division C — over 150 families. This is the same as in the past year.

Any area that is actively engaged in an organized improvement program, including villages and small towns, is eligible to enter the Community Development Program. Deadline for entering is May 15, 1972. Entry blanks and information on the program can be obtained from the Agricultural Extension office in each county.

According to Krause, "The community development program has had great influence on the rural areas of Western North Carolina since it was started over 20 years ago. It has brought people together to solve local needs. It has resulted in better communities in which to live. One only has to look around to see the many community centers, attractive roadsides, recreation areas and many other evidences of what has been accomplished. These results bear out the slogan of this program—"There is no limit to what a community can do if it wants to."

Awards and sponsors for the communities of less than 75 families are: first prize, $400, Sears - Roebuck & Company; second prize, $300, The North-western Bank; third prize, $200, Ivey's of Asheville and fourth prize, $100, Gerber Products Company.

Honorable mention awards of $50 each in Division A are: Arbor Acres, Asheville, Lowe's of Asheville, K-mart, Matthews Motors, FCX, Inc., Biltmore Dairy Farms, Cherokee Historical Association, Rose's-Westgate and American Thread Company.

For the communities of 75 to 150 families, the sponsors are: first prize, $400, American Enka Company; second prize, $300, J. C. Penney Company; third prize, $200, Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of Asheville and fourth prize, $100, Sealtest Foods. Honorable mention awards of $50 each will be sponsored by: Gerber Products Company, Belk Stores, Sky City, Cherokee Historical Association, the Man Store, Pearlman's Home Furnishings Center, Sears-Roebuck & Company, First Union National Bank and Western Carolina Telephone Company.

For those communities with 150 or more families, including towns and villages, the sponsors are: first prize, $400, Asheville Citizen-Times Company; second prize, $300, Champion Papers-Drexel Enterprises; third prize, $200, General Electric Company and fourth prize, $100, Moore's Super Stores. Honorable mention awards of $50 each by: K-mart, Belk Stores, Free Service Tire & Appliance Company, Sealtest Foods, Parkland Chevrolet Company, Cherokee Historical Association, Mason's Department Store, American Thread Company, First-Citizen's Bank & Trust Company and Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Company.

Youth awards amounting to $750, with a first prize of $250, will be provided by the James G. K. McClure Educational & Development Fund and Ball Corporation to the organized communities that carry out the best overall youth programs during 1972.

Five special merit youth awards of $50 each have been added this year for the first time. These are sponsored by French Broad Electric Membership Corporation, Marshall; Haywood Electric Membership Corporation, Waynesville and Rutherford Electric Membership Corporation, Forest City. Purpose of these will be to recognize youth for outstanding effort in some particular project.

Top award in a special roadside improvement contest, which is open to all community clubs in the overall competition, will be $300 this year and is sponsored by ADOA Corporation, Biltmore. Second prize of $200 is provided by Coca-Cola Bottling Company of Asheville; third prize of $100 by Ivey's and Moore-Robinson Associates, Asheville and four honorable mention prizes of $50 each by Gerber Products Company, Asheville Federal Savings & Loan, Ingle's Markets and Wachovia Bank & Trust Company.

Top winners of the 1971 area program, which were announced at the annual awards meeting last December were Snowbird, Cherokee Indian Reservation (Graham County), in division A; Avery's Creek, Buncombe County in division B; and Little River, Transylvania County in division C. Ashford community, McDowell County took top honors in the youth program.
