of college life were discussed at the interesting session.

To Observe World Day Of Prayer Here On March 3rd

Church Women United in Brevard will observe World Day of Prayer, the international celebration of faith and unity among Christian women on Friday, March 3rd, at 10:00 a. m. at the First Baptist church.

The theme, to be used in similar gatherings in 169 countries, is "All Joy Be Yours."

Since the first small gatherings in the United States 85 years ago, the idea of united prayer by women around the world from sun to sun has increasingly captured the imagination of community groups. Today, World Day of Prayer can be described as the most important ecumenical occasion during the year. This celebration is the most widely observed activity of Church Women United, which is the ecumenical expression of Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic women who wish to mobilize around common goals and channel their energies into effective action.

The goal of Church Women United is to form a visible fellowship of believers in Christ, and move in every community and nation as instruments of reconciling love. There are 2,300 units of CWU in the United States.

The preparation for the celebration is an internationally far-reaching as the participation in it. Liaison officers from each national committee from a sponsoring International Committee. This committee, which meets every three or four years, met in Bangkok in 1970.

Chairman of the International Committee is Gudrun Diestel of Germany, who also compiled the material which was developed into a service for the 1972 celebration. Women from at least ten eastern and western European countries contributed material. The service is adapted by the national committees to fit the individual needs of each country.

As the women of eastern and western Europe chose what petitions should be included in this year's worldwide prayers, they were aware of three problems affecting the whole world: the plight of displaced peoples, the strained relationships between the generations, and the unsettling effect of the technological revolution.

This year's theme, "All Joy Be Yours", is designed to raise the consciousness of the participant that the joy found in Christ is transcendent, permeating all of life no matter what conditions prevail. Just as the joyful reality of God's faithfulness and care can break through the dismal or oppressive conditions that exist in the world, so Christ's coming as man can breakthrough the barrier between the sacred and the secular. "Breakthrough" was the theme of the National Ecumenical Assembly held by CWU in Wichita, Kansas, in April, 1971. The implications of God in Christ making a radical breakthrough in history were explored there and church women will continue to seek out what their faith compels them to do in the midst of the radical breakthrough in technology and social patterns.

The World Day of Prayer offering goes into a fund called Intercontinental Mission — the process by which CWU participates in a ministry to people all over the world. The people and places to whom funds are granted include women and children in need of education and better nutrition, mi-

Panel Discussion At The College

Members of the administration, faculty, and student body will participate in a panel discussion on Feb. 17th at 7:30 P. M. on the second floor of the Student Union. The main topic of discussion will be "The Christian College and Its Role in Our Society."

After the members of the panel have responded to several questions, the floor will be open to members of the audience.

Minority women in new careers, thirteen women's colleges in Asia and the Near East, international students, American Indians and Spanish-speaking people, migrants, refugees, people on vacation in National parks, future church leaders interested in ecology, and women leaders in Africa and Latin America. The work accomplished by the use of these funds includes the training of health and nutrition workers who then hold workshops in villages, the training of rural women overseas to participate in the social and economic development of their own countries, the preparation of indigenous literature in countries where many people are newly literate, the subsidizing of minority groups seeking self-development and self-determination, and peace building through cooperation with the United Nations and international conferences.

The Rev. Ernest W. Barnes will bring the message, "Pathways to Joy".

Thinking Of Planting Seedlings? Call North Carolina Forest Service

"For the past 44 years, the North Carolina Forest Service has been growing forest tree seedlings which are sold to landowners in the State at cost. Since our first nursery was opened in 1928, the production of tree seedlings has expanded greatly and we are now operating four nurseries in order to keep up with the increasing demand," according to County Ranger Clark Grissom. "This year the N. C. Forest Service nurseries grow their one billion seedling."

"On an average we grow more than 50 million seedlings each year for planting in North Carolina," Grissom said.

"Many people here in Transylvania County have planted trees on their unused farm land. Others have improved their woodlands by placing them under a program of forest management and planting new trees where scrub brush once grew."

According to the N. C. Forest Service, 57 million seedlings were grown for transplanting during this winter. Although many of the seedling types have been sold out, there are still seedlings available — specifically in the loblolly, longleaf, and slash pine varieties.

"People who have land they are not sure what to do with or if they have considered planting it in trees, now is a good time to give us a call,"

said County Ranger Grissom. "We will be happy to look over a landowner's property and discuss with him the best course of action. Like our name implies, we are here to provide a service to the people of North Carolina."
