ANNA MOFFO

Diller Saturday, Moffo Sunday

A portly old rascal will take center stage at Brevard Music Center the weekend of August 9th - 11th.

On Friday night, Aug. 9th, the Opera Workshop will present Verdi's "Falstaff," an operatic version of episodes from Shakespeare's "Merry Wives of Windsor" and "Henry IV."

Also in the spotlight on Sunday afternoon will be beautiful Metropolitan Opera prima donna Anna Moffo.

The Friday night opera is about a mischievous old knight named Falstaff who is seeking to better his fortunes by wooing two wealthy matrons, Alice Ford and Meg Page. He sends love letters to both ladies and they soon discover that they have received identical epistles. Outraged at Falstaff's misbehavior they resolve to punish him. They enlist the help of Dame Quickly who assures Falstaff that both women return his ardor and that Alice has agreed to meet him at her home. Alice's husband hears of Falstaff's passion and declares he must avenge his honor.

In the meantime, Alice's daughter, Nannetta, and her lover Fenton are having problems of their own as Nannetta's father has promised her to someone else.

How the ladies extract themselves from their predicament and show Falstaff the error of his ways makes for a merry romp in the best Shakespearean tradition leavened by Ver-

Music Center Artists To Hold Autograph Party

An autograph party celebrating the release of a new recording by Joan Yarbrough and Robert Cowan will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday, August 10th at the Austin Art Shop, 11 East Main St., Brevard.

Mr. and Mrs. Cowan teach piano at the Brevard Music Center. Cowan is the head of the piano faculty there.

The couple have concertized widely as a duo piano team and have performed twice on the Music Center stage this summer. "Modern Music For Two Pianos" is their second album.

On the recording are their performances of works by three Twentieth Century American composers: "Variations for Two Pianos" by Wallingford Riegger, "Sonata For Two Pianos" by Vincent Persichetti and Nicolai Berezowsky's "Fantasy For Two Pianos."

Winners Of Music Center's Contest Will Perform Wednesday Evening

Classical and contemporary concertos for a variety of instruments will super charge the atmosphere at Brevard Music Center on Wednesday, Aug. 14th. Solo performers will be the six winners of the Center's annual concerto contest.

Richard Alston, Pamela Ohlandt and Walter Pate, piano; Carl Polk, trombone; Kim Stirzaker, flute and Julie Vaverka, clarinet, were chosen, after highly competitive auditions, to solo with the Transylvania Symphony Orchestra under Emil Rabb.

The competition is strictly voluntary. A notice is posted in the cafeteria and students who wish to accept the challenge sign up. Auditions are scheduled and each student is judged by faculty members in their own field. The auditions must be finished performances. Each contestant has to be ready to go on stage with the orchestra at the moment they compete.

Alston, a 17-year-old incoming senior at Clifford Scott High School in East Orange, N. J., will present the last movement of Tchaikovsky's "Piano Concerto." Miss Ohlandt, a 20-year-old student at Converse College from Charleston, S. C., will play the first movement of "Piano Concerto II" by Brahms. Bartok's "Piano Concerto III" will be presented by 23-year-old Walter Pate, a Maryville, Tenn. student at Catholic University.

Arizona State University student, Carl Polk, a 20-year-old from Atlanta, Ga., will

County Commissioners Will Order Sheriff's Department To Report

The Board of Commissioners will hold their first meeting in August on Monday, 7:30 p. m. in the Courtroom.

The most interesting item on the agenda will be a resolution ordering the Sheriff to report to the Commissioners. The Times was informed Monday morning that County Manager Epley has again requested a report from the Sheriff but unless an affirmative reply to the request is received by Monday, the Commissioners will be offered a resolution making this request an order. County Manager Epley received a letter from the Attorney General last week clearly stating that the Sheriff must report to the Commissioners upon their request.

County Attorney Bill White is expected to have a resolution in order for the Commissioners to pass on. This resolution would permit a Region B study to be made of the long - range water and sewer needs of the lower end of the county including Brevard and the outlying areas.

The usual monthly reports will be heard from the Tax Collector, Tax Supervisor, and other department with in-

YDC Announces

Second Annual Trout Festival Is Scheduled For August 24th

An unusual assortment of fishers, politicians, gourmet trout cooks and possibly stray cats, will gather here August 24th, for an event that already has its sponsors worried.

It's billed as the Second Annual Transylvania County Trout Festival, an outdoor celebration that will combine a half-day fish fry with performances by mountain singing groups.

The county conceived of the festival as a way to promote the eating of mountain trout (commercial trout production is a fast growing industry in this part of the state), and things have been getting out of hand ever since.

With Sen. Sam Ervin, Jr. as the guest speaker last year, the festival was a great success.

The festival is designed for maximum participation by the public (tickets are only $4 for the meal and entertainment), but special invitations have been sent to all state elected officials. According to festival sponsors, a large number of them plan to attend.

Response last year was so good, that the festival has been made an annual event. Right now, though, the county is having to rush its preparations to keep pace.

The Transylvania Y.D.C., which was placed in charge of planning and running the festival, said that several thousand trout have been ordered and more will be available if they are needed.

It was expected the festival would attract people from surrounding counties (trout seems to be the favorite fish in these parts). A lot of people coming from down state will be paying at the gate, but the exact number, of course, is not known, so that means the county must be ready for almost anything.

Adding to this is the fact that Brevard is a popular vacation spot, and in the cool mountains, August is the biggest month for visitors.

The festival is being held at the Brevard Music Center so space and weather will present no problem. For overnight accommodations, though, some people are being placed in nearby Asheville and Hendersonville, as well as Brevard. The whole idea is to provide a chance for people to come and enjoy a good trout dinner and to meet and talk with their elected representatives.
