New Jail, School Bonds, Landfills Head Agenda At Commissioners Meeting

Public Hearing On New Jail Is Main Item

There are many items on the agenda for the meeting of the Board of Commissioners next Monday evening, including the major item, the public hearing on the sale of bonds to construct a jail.

The Commissioners are expected to authorize $750,000 worth of bond anticipation notes to pay final costs on the three schools now being constructed. Commission Chairman Bill Ives said he hopes his fellow Commissioners will agree to sell bond anticipation notes rather than bonds at this time, because the interest rate is so high.

The best advice from bond experts in New York persuaded Mr. Ives that interest rates should drop in 1975 and that would be a more favorable time to market long-term bonds.

County Planner Mike Epley will present the Commissioners with his views on whether or not the county should operate the landfill at Calvert or contract it out to a private company.

County Attorney Bill White will have the final lease with the State Road Department to be approved for the landfill. Mr. White is also expected to have the final agreement with the Rosman Rescue Squad to operate a county-owned ambulance in the upper end of the county.

"Freudian Slip" To Be BLT's First Production Of 25th Season

"The Girl in the Freudian Slip" will be Brevard Little Theatre's first production of the current season, it was announced last Friday evening at the organization's Kick-Off covered dish supper.

"Any Wednesday" is scheduled for December 6 and 7 and "The Spiral Staircase" is slated for January 10 and 11.

an attractive literary agent who is a former patient.

A fourth production is also being planned for May 9 and 10.

Try-outs for "The Girl in the Freudian Slip" were scheduled Monday and Tuesday evenings at Silvermont. If a third session is required it will be announced via WPNF for Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. at Silvermont.

Production dates will be Thursday, October 10, and Saturday, October 12, at the Brevard High School auditorium.

"The Girl in the Freudian Slip" is a fast-moving comedy by William F. Brown and concerns a rather staid New York psychiatrist, his wife and daughter, a bachelor author as a friend, a wildly hung-up young man as his principal patient and Tia Landon gave a report to the group at the Kick-Off event on the progress of the membership campaign thus far. "The interest in Brevard Little Theatre is most encouraging, for the sponsorships and patronships, as well as single memberships, are beginning to come in," stated Mrs. Landon, "but we need many more." "Our membership provides the financial backbone that makes it possible to put on at least three plays during the year," she concluded.

Music Faculty At College To Give Recital Thursday

The Brevard College music faculty will appear in recital on Thursday evening, September 12, at 8:15 p.m. in Dunham Music Center auditorium. The entire faculty will be performing works that span all periods of music history.

tends that "such performances not only enhance the career of the individual musician, but also provide the student with a new perspective toward his art.

Dr. Blocker goes further by saying that "the student is taken out of the classroom and put on the stage with such events - he can see and hear his teacher doing what he teaches! Furthermore, recitals and concerts add a new dimension to college and community life."

According to Dr. Blocker, performing will assume a new place of importance in the music department at Brevard College.

The music faculty recital is open to the public at no admission charge. For further information regarding this and other events, call the Fine Arts Division, Brevard College.

See Off Community To Be Judged In Contest Friday

Judging to select the communities in Western North Carolina that have done the most outstanding work on beautification and improvement of physical environment in 1974 is being done on September 11-13th.

The occasion is the annual area judging of the Beautification Contest of the Western North Carolina Community Development Program.

The program is sponsored by the WNC Development Association and the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

A total of 82 organized communities participated in the special year-round beautification project this year. Fifteen county winners are competing in the finals and will be inspected by the judging team, including See Off Community of Transylvania.

Purpose of the beautification contest is to encourage communities in Western North Carolina to carry out organized clean-up and beautification projects. Awards are provided to recognize those doing outstanding work.

The area winners will be announced at a luncheon meeting of the WNC Community Development Program steering committee on September 26 at 12:00 noon at Bailey's Cafeteria, Westgate Shopping Center, Asheville.

First prize of $300.00 is sponsored by the WNC Development Association.

Chamber Of Commerce Holds First Meeting In New Quarters

Directors of the Brevard Chamber of Commerce held their first meeting in new quarters Tuesday night as they met in the Council Room at the Brevard Municipal Building.

The Chamber recently moved its office from the Transylvania County Library building where it had been meeting for years into the old city hall building right next to the Municipal Building.

The change was necessitated by the move of the library into new facilities at the old Brevard Post Office building. The old library building will be renovated into additional county offices.

Harry Corbin gave a brief report to the Chamber on the Brevard temperature averages last week were 74 and 58 for each day, with more than an inch of rainfall also during the period.

Highest temperature reading was 82 on both Monday and Tuesday, while the minimum reading for the week was 55 degrees on Friday morning.

Extended forecast for North Carolina for Thursday through Saturday: Fair except for scattered showers in the mountains. Highs mostly in the low to middle 80s. Low temperatures in the 60s.

Brevard weather data for the week was as follows:

Date	High	Low	Prec.
Sept. 4	74	58	0.22
Sept. 5	68	57	0.00
Sept. 6	65	55	0.87

To Our Readers

This issue of the Transylvania Times has a new look, since we are now printing the entire paper by the offset method. This means that our pictures will look much clearer, our type will be easier to read, and our ads will take on a much more individual style. Most of our make-up work is still done here, but the actual printing of the paper is being done on the huge press at the Waynesville Mountaineer. It might take us a while to get all the kinks out of this new (to us) system, but we hope that it will make your reading of the Transylvania Times a much easier and more enjoyable event.

report to the Chamber on the status of the three new school buildings in the county, stating that all three should be ready for occupancy within the next several months.

He also stated that bids on the additions to Brevard and Rosman High Schools will be let in November.

Dr. Robert Davis noted that Brevard College had opened with an increased enrollment over last year, and that the College was anticipating one of its best years ever.

The membership committee reported that the Chamber's membership was slightly ahead of last year. Total membership now stands at 183, one more than the 182 of this same time last year. To date, sixteen new members have joined the Chamber this year.

Bill Ives made the motion that the Chamber encourage the Transylvania County Board of Education to consider naming the new Brevard Middle School after the late John I. Anderson, who had been such a staunch supporter of better schools here for many years. The motion passed unanimously, and the Board of Education will be so advised.

Several other brief committee reports were heard during the meeting, which was presided over by Chamber President Charlie Russell.
