Edenton Social

Class Day Program
The Senior Class of the Edenton high school held its annual class day exercises Tuesday evening on the steps of the school. The columns and steps which were covered in my former a lovely background for their colors of pink and green.

The program opened with the sophomore song to the seniors, who carried instead of the proverbial daisy chain, lengthy sticks encircled with variegated spring flowers, which formed an attractive arch for the seniors to pass under and take their seats on the steps. The seniors then responded with a song. The president of the class, Miss Mable Ruth Harrell, gave the welcome address, which was followed by a welcome song by the seniors. The prophecy, an original and humorous one, was given by Miss Marguerite Hollowell; the Gifforian, Miss Pearl Winchard, caused quite a bit of laughter by her presentation of gifts to the various members of the class. This was followed by the singing of the class song by the seniors. An interesting Last Will and Testament was given by Miss Frances Dail. Then a lovely class poem, written to the class, was given by Miss Hattie Williams. Statistics by Edward Bass and "Eulogies" by Wendell Copeland. The program ended with the farewell song of the seniors.

Everyday Movies By Denys Wortman

Caroline Chatfield Says

Husbands have as many pockets in their lives as they have in their suits. Wives have only one. This is why they howl when they lose their husbands.

A gentleman of the jury would like to know why it is that so many more wives than husbands set up wolf howls over their marriage disappointments. He's quite sure that as many husbands as wives are disappointed, suffer and are sad when love lies a-bleeding. Thus he concludes that men are better sports in defeat than are women.

He's all wet as every woman knows and we can tell him why. Maybe husbands are as frequently disappointed in wives as wives in husbands, but the men don't take it so hard. A man's life, like his suit of clothes is full of pockets, big and little, round and square and when he reaches into one and meets with disappointment, he has a dozen others to forage in. The poor wives have only one pocket in their lives and if they reach in and find it empty they are desolated. It's the same old story that Lord Byron put in a quick pill dose:

"Love is of man's life a thing apart
This woman's whole existence."

When a man discovers that the little woman is not the person he took her to be he has a swell time finding diversion from his disappointment. The field is large: business, hobbies, men friends and if he is too keenly cut there will soon be some woman friends and perhaps a bottle or two. It isn't his nature to sit down and grieve about what he can't help. It isn't his nature to talk volubly or weep copiously over his sorrow. He goes out to look for gladness.

But to the poor wife is whipped when she discovers her loss. Her sense of humor goes out like a light. She can think of nothing else, talk of nothing else and when a female's thoughts are sad they automatically open the faucet. Tears and talk are her meat, day and night. She's been pretty dependent upon that husband and still is; for support, for approval, for affection, for appeasement of her vanity. If he doesn't come through nobody or nothing can divert her until she has talked herself black in the face and cried her eyes red.

Besides she has no office to go to where she meets many men of many minds, to say nothing of some swishing petticoats. She has no planning with the partner to beat the competitor, no business trips to make new connections and foster old ones. It isn't her nature to go out and hunt up diversion. It isn't her nature to drown her sorrow and try to be gay. She's born a griever and she grieves.

It's a hard hearted man that resents the wolf howls of the women when they stand by the corpses of dead loves.
CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

PARIS STYLES

By MARY FENTRESS
United Press Staff Correspondent
Paris, (U.P.)—The newest beach clothes from Paris are in shantung and washable silks instead of the cotton prints and piques which have been popular for so many years.

Slacks are out of the picture and have been transplanted by beach pajamas and wrap-around apron skirts. Trouser suits with fitted tailored jackets are considered equally smart.

Beige shantung is used by Molyneux for a pair of beach pajamas worn with a sleeveless, backless top of rainbow striped crepe. The short little shantung jacket with accompanies the costume is long-sleeved, fitted and beltless.

Another costume for the same house is in red and white dotted silk. It consists of a long wrap-around skirt, made very full and worn with a sleeveless and backless top of bright red silk. A pleasant color contrast is achieved with the addition of a scarf sash in almond green. The beach hat is a broad-brimmed, floppy affair in white straw trimmed with almond green flowers on the broad brim.

Pale pink shantung is used for a third beach costume from Molyneux which has full, pleated shorts and a matching jacket. This is worn with a sun-back top of silk in which heavy stripes are printed in all colors on a white background. The beach hat is of the same wavy striped material and is made with a shallow crown and a stiffened visor-like front brim to shade the eyes.

White silk crepe is used at this house for a long beach coat made with short cap sleeves and embroidered with bright green thread. It is worn with a big green straw hat over shorts of white silk.

Circle Meeting
The Rosa Powell Circle of the Missionary society of the Baptist church met Monday night with Mrs. W. T. Elliott at her home. Mrs. Charles Johnson had charge of the program, the topic being "The Slave." The meeting opened with the group singing of "O Zion Haste" after which Mrs. T. E. Raper read the scripture, taken from Cor. 1-13, and was followed with a prayer by Mrs. Raper.

Mrs. C. O. Fowler and Mrs. W. E. Hoffer gave interesting talks and the circle members followed with the singing of "I Love to Tell the Story." A poem was read by Mrs. L. B. Sitterson and Mrs. Harry Broughton led in prayer. Minutes of the last minutes were read and approved and new and old business was discussed. After a short business session Mrs. Iva Strange dismissed with prayer.

A very pleasant surprise awaited Mrs. T. E. Harrell, Sr., formerly Mrs. Mary Parker; the society members gave her a shower and she received many useful gifts. Mrs. Elliott, assisted by several of the members, served ice cream and cake.

Members attending were: Mrs. Charles Johnson, leader, Mrs. Madames Tommy Miller, C. O. Fowler, Lula Lane, Iva Strange, Allen Perry, Nate Medlin, George Chappell, L. B. Sitterson, V. A. Holden, Pesse Campen, Jr., H. C. Perkerson, Martha Riddick, E. A. Byrum, Jesse Lane, and Mrs. Elliott. Visitors were Mrs. I. A. Ward, Mrs. D. S. Dempsey, Mrs. T. E. Harrell, Jr., Mrs. Milton Dail, Mrs. Harry Broughton and Mrs. Johnny Broughton.
