LOCAL NEWS.

Muddy streets and scarcity of money is no news to the people in and around Elizabeth City, but when the streets are paved nicely mud will be done away with. Ward & Evans, the new grocery firm, 38 Main street, have done away with high prices, thus preventing the scarcity of money. Call and examine the quality and variety of fancy shelf goods, heavy groceries, etc. Phone 66.

The wife of Representative Davis, of Hyde county, departed this life in Raleigh, last week.

The Currituck Shooting Club has presented a fine bald eagle to the State Museum at Raleigh.

Mrs. K. R. Pendleton, of Edenton, departed this life at her residence in that town on Thursday of last week.

Turner, the artistic photographer, left town on Monday for his home in Portsmouth, Va., to be absent for a few days.

All over North Carolina the thermometer was monkeying around zero on Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Our oyster houses have been running on full time and are paying out a considerable amount of money to the laboring classes.

The slay bells have been tinkling so long on our streets that they have almost lost their tinnitulum of happiness and hilarity.

The trains of the Norfolk Southern Railroad were considerably behind schedule time on Monday and Tuesday, owing to the heavy snow fall.

Jack Alexander, colored, was hauled in out of the snow by Officer Sedgwick on Saturday night for profaning the streets with ugly cuss words.

Ash Wednesday was celebrated in Christ Church on Wednesday morning and during the Lenten season morning and evening service will be held in the church.

A four horse sleigh with a merry group of rollicking men and maidens was a happy sight in the dreary waste of chilling snow, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mr. Claude Williams, son of Mr. L. Williams, of this town, departed this life on Monday, of pneumonia, aged 21 years. Our sympathies are with the sorrowing household.

Mrs. Pool, we learn, will be assisted in the new administration of the Postoffice, by Messrs. Paul Cobb and J. P. Overman, and Misses Marcie Albertson and Minnie Cartwright.

Any young lady who expects to go to school during the present year may find it to her interest to write at once to Rev. J. M. Rhodes, Littleton, N. C., who can give a few some special work now.

Lumbermen, members of the N. C. Pine Association, were to have met in Norfolk, Va., on Tuesday, to revise the somewhat body which was organized in 1889. It was organized for the purpose of regulating this trade and maintaining stability in prices. The depressed State of the business in 1893, contracted the demand and the prices fixed by the association were ignored and its power broken.

Twenty five years ago, and continuously since, we have been urging our city fathers to have pecan trees set out on each side of some of our prominent streets. They gave no heed to our suggestion, on the ground that they would be a temptation to bad boys. We always said that the revenue derived from the nuts would protect them. Planting pecans is now a fad everywhere. We think as much of the idea now as ever. It would make this town the prettiest in the State. The young trees can be purchased from the nurseries at fifteen cents each.

"Side Tracked" at the Academy to-night.

L. C. Guirkin & Co., wholesale and real grocers, made an assignment on Wednesday.

The restaurant firm of Dawson Bros., on lower Main street, have dissolved copartnership, the senior partner, Mr. W. C. Dawson, being now the sole proprietor.

Mr. A. J. Scott, who has been employed by Mr. W. J. Woodley for several months, has accepted a position with the Continental Tobacco Company, and will soon leave for his new position.

We received the subjoined courteous invitation from the graduating class at West Point on Tuesday: "The class of ninety nine United States Military Academy requests your presence at the Graduating Exercises on Wednesday morning February the 15th 1893, at half past ten o'clock. West Point, New York.

"Side Tracked," which appears at the Academy to night, promises to be one of the finest attractions of the season. Dr. Lowry has secured this company under a heavy guarantee and unless it is liberally patronized he will lose money. Let's show our appreciation of Dr. Lowry's efforts to secure first-class attractions, by giving "Side Tracked" a packed house.

Elizabeth City needs a new Hand Book, showing the industrial progress of the town, with engravings of its most conspicuous public and private buildings, with picturesque scenes of natural scenery by land and water. A Hand Book, well gotten up, would induce immigration, enhance the value of property and make our town the most conspicuous centre of population and business in Eastern Carolina.

Wiley H. Grandy, of Pasquotank county, and Persey W. McMullan of Perquimans county, were admitted to the practice of law in the courts of North Carolina, together with 18 other successful applicants. There were 55 applicants and only 20 passed a successful examination. The examination was from 60 written questions and a correct answer to 44 was required in order to get license.

Mr. Jason Bell, a prominent and popular citizen of the Snowden section of Currituck county, departed this life at his residence on Thursday, Feb. 9th, aged 63 years. Mr. Bell was kindly in his disposition, warm in his friendships, generous and charitable in all his conduct, and his exemplary life made the world better for his living in it. He will be greatly missed in his neighborhood and in the county of Currituck, for no man in it was more public spirited, sympathetic and friendly.

Mrs. Sarah Selig, the beloved mother of Mr. Louis Selig, of this town, departed this life in Norfolk, Va., on Monday. The Virginia-Pilot in noticing her death says: "Mrs. Sarah Selig, relict of the late F. Selig, died at her home, on Fenchurch street, after several weeks' illness, in the 70th year of her age. The deceased was the sister of Mr. Moses Frankfurt and the mother of Mrs. A. Adler and Benjamin Selig, of Norfolk; Louis Selig, of Elizabeth City, N. C., and Joseph Selig, all of whom, except the last named, were with her at the time of her demise. Mrs. Selig was a lady of charitable disposition and was never known to turn a deaf ear to the appeal of the deserving poor."

In consequence of the severe weather for the past week, Dr. Albert Newton, oculist optician, of Boston, will remain until Feb. 24th and can be consulted in the parlor at Hotel Central. Those unable to call can be visited at their residence by leaving notice at the hotel office.

Great Snows.

The snow which commenced at 4 p. m. on Saturday and snowed continuously on frozen ground until 7 p. m. on Monday, is the third snow in magnitude and duration that has occurred in this section in a hundred and two years. In all three of them the cold was excessive, and all our sounds and rivers were frozen. One of these occurred within living memory in 1857, Pasquotank river froze over and parties of skaters skated from Newbegun Creek bridge to Elizabeth City. Tom Gilliam crossed Albemarle sound from Plymouth to Edenton. Gunners were out in every direction. Game was abundant, and became so cold and starved that they could almost be knocked down with the butt end of your gun.

They were without food and without water, and their food and water famine drove them up into the field ditches in quest of water, and finally their desperation so overcame their timidity that they came into the house yards and fed with the domestic fowls. In great glee, they were knocked down with sticks, and when brought on the table they were nothing but skin and bones, with a few spots of flesh that were completely tasteless. Firewood could not be hauled from the woods and beautiful yard shade trees were in some instances cut down for firewood. In many places under the snow had melted, the bones of large covets of partridges were found all huddled together on the ground where they roosted and were covered up by the falling snow during the night, and were buried alive. One of the most beautiful passages in our literature was written by N. P. Willis about the death of the pretty Bob Whites in 1857. It was full of the most natural pathos and tenderness.

The earliest great snow was in 1797, and was a tradition in our earliest manhood. It snowed with great fury, and tradition furnished no precedent of its unparalleled bitter coldness. Parson Charles Pettigrew came across Albemarle sound on foot from the Tyrrell shore to the town of Edenton. The citizens of Edenton had a public barbaque on the ice in Edenton Bay and they roasted an ox on the ice, around which the belles and gay cavaliers of the town danced around the steaming spectacle. Dr. James Norcom, a young physician of Edenton, afterward the head of the profession in North Carolina, and an honor to that learned fraternity, who had spent much of his early life in Philadelphia, and was a skillful skater, was the most conspicuous actor on the festive occasion. He was Edenton's ready man on all public occasions, a graceful speaker and writer, and an elegant gentleman.

This chronicle of the great snow and barbaque on the ice in Edenton Bay in 1797 was given us by Dr. Norcom.

You can have your eyes examined and fitted with the Axis Cut Crystal Lenses at Hotel Central, instead of going to a large city and pay a high price for an inferior article. Dr. Albert Newton has visited the South for the last thirty two years. That is a guarantee of itself.

N. C. Bar Association.

The meeting in Raleigh of members of the Legal Profession to organize a Bar Association, was a gratifying success, in the large attendance of lawyers, in the array of distinguished men who have illustrated the honor, the dignity and the patriotism of the State, and in the harmony of the meeting in accomplishing its purposes. Every citizen of North Carolina who appreciates the law profession and its priceless service to North Carolina, or who has at any time been connected with it, will be delighted at the prospect of usefulness that will follow this organization of our State's foremost men.

Platt D. Walker, of Charlotte, was elected President, with a Vice-President from each of the Judicial Districts. W. D. Pruden, Esq., of Edenton, was appointed Vice-President of the First District, and a better selection could not have been made. The bar of the First District was well represented by its ablest members. The admission fee is $5.00 and the admissions with the amount in the treasury of the Association will give the new Association a fine financial send off.

No charge will be made to examine your eyes if you want spectacles. You will not be imposed on and will receive what you pay for, Hotel Central parlors.

Death of a Distinguished Native of Edenton.

Hon. John Manning, L. L. D., departed this life at his home in Chapel Hill, N. C., on Sunday night, February 12th, aged about 70 years.

Dr. Manning was one of the most distinguished and most esteemed citizens of North Carolina and had served the State with honor and usefulness in many important positions. During the reconstruction period he was in Congress one term, where he made an impression of ability, and devotion to his State in that desolate period of her history. He was a member of the Legislature from Chatham county for several sessions, a member of the Constitutional Convention of 1875, and a member of the Code Commission that revised and codified the State laws in 1881. Upon the death of Chief Justice Pearson, we think, he was offered the place of Chief Justice by Governor Vance, which offer he declined, being unwilling to give up his large and lucrative practice on the Pittsboro circuit to go on the Supreme Bench.

When the University was revived after the war he was appointed to the law professorship, which he held until his death. In the discharge of the duties of that congenial office his kindness, his learning and his dignified and gentlemanly deportment made him the able instructor, counsellor and friend of a large number of North Carolina's most promising young men, and many eyes of his old pupils will be liquid with grief as the sad news of Dr. Manning's death spreads over the State.

Dr. Manning's lineage is intimately identified with the old historic town of Edenton, and all of the family have been distinguished for intellectuality, integrity and manly sturdiness of character. His grandfather, Capt. Joseph Manning, the founder of the family, came to Edenton from Currituck in the early years of the century. He commanded a volunteer company in the war of 1812, and we have heard, was at the battle of Craney Island, near Norfolk. In Edenton, he was conspicuous in that community for many years, when it was the social and judicial centre of the Albemarle. In person he was large and imposing; in disposition, kind, grave and sincere, and his influence in the community was known and recognized everywhere. The blood of Capt. Manning has always risen to leadership wherever any of his descendants have lived. The father of Dr. Manning was a Commander in the U. S. Navy. His mother was Tama Leary, of Chowan, a family distinguished for intellectuality and force of character.

Colonel, I want you to just say for the benefit of some of my friends at this place, that I did not write that article just before election, from South Mills, in which it seems to some that the beautifully portrayed political horizon of some one purporting to be living here. I am and have always felt it my duty when writing on a subject when I think a man's character is the least at stake, to sign my name, to refrain from and not in any wise point to any one whom the accusation might fall on, and cause who are friends to have any suspicions whatever.

That letter, of course, in the light that I looked cast it, no insinuation whatever upon any single individual, as no names were used. I regret very much that such hard things should materialize from such an insignificant source. I can't see for my life why any man, with any degree of intelligence, could term me with no more evidence than was against me. As to my position in politics I am truly thankful there never was a day I was ashamed to face any man with them, and no one knows better than my friends how I am always quick to defend my party.

If only hope, my dear Col., you will in this issue state as to whether I am the author or not.

The work on the canal still moves on and we are patiently waiting for the first appearance of steam boat. The managers cannot themselves tell just when its gates will be thrown open for the reception of boats.

[Again, we assure our friends that the letter above referred to was not written by Mr. J. F. Foster—Ed. ECONOMIST.]

Dr. Albert Newton, Oculist Optician of Boston, Mass., will be at Hotel Central parlor for ten days. Call and see him.

Resolutions of Respect.

WHEREAS, it has pleased an all-wise Providence to remove from our midst, our worthy friend and esteemed member, Mr. Claude Williams, we, the Social Club, do resolve, 1st. That in the death of our brother we have sustained an irreparable loss; modest, polite and obliging, his presence will not only be missed by the members of the Club, but by the community at large in which he lately resided.

2nd. That we tender our sympathies to the heart stricken parents and relatives of the deceased.

3rd. That the members of the said Club wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

4th. That a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of the said Club, and a copy thereof sent the parents of the deceased.

5th. That these resolutions be published in the Economist and the Fisherman & Farmer.
