

THE MAGIC LAMP.

"With a month's sky in the days gone by,
As the halloo of old relate,
When a lad was old and his lady shy
He would wait at the postern gate,
For she would as he strove for a drowsy
ly
He would wait the stars that slept;
So she fastened her casement, hid in spray,
And out to the postern crept.
Now I know not that postern gate of yore,
I see not the casement nor the drowsy
ly
But I've watched with the crowd at the dingy door
That leads to a stage boight.
The hoofs of the manager's horse stamp,
For they long for the fat man's "Home!"
While the others must wait by the guttering lamp
Like the poor at the gates of Rome.
The fairy who danced in the spangled dress
Must change, for the night wind's cold,
Though I fear me she loses her condition,
In her overcoat warmly rolled.
It's sometimes a mother that waits this same
Great goddess who charmed the shrine,
And you hear with a shudder her Christian name
Pronounced as "Maddis Jine."
And it's sometimes a youth with a big cigar
And a hat at an evil rate,
It's a youth who is feared by Matilda's "mak,"
Hence she comes for Matilda's sake,
He is dressed in a vast Newmarket "sack,"
Where the seamstress is overlaid,
And the goddess familiarly calls him "Jack,"
For she isn't a bit afraid.
And it's sometimes a dear little gallery boy,
Who dreams in his dizzy heights,
It is to be the hope of his highest joy
To speak to the girl in tight.
But the painted curtain falls, alas,
And the dancers fade from view,
As he waits in the glare of the stage door gas
To watch till his girl comes through.

A BLOOD STAINED HORSE.

The Effect It Had in Subduing a Party of Buffoons.

For sheer, cool nerve and absolute, inspired genius in dealing with men, comment is due to Clarence King, the geologist, if a story that is told about him be true. Mr. King, the tale runs, was in the field all one summer with a government expedition. The field happened to be in the far west, and the men he was compelled to employ as assistants were a band of cheerful ruffians, half breed desperadoes and "greasers" scamp. Bad as they were, they worked well, and they were indispensable.

One night one of them deserted. Mr. King knew what that meant. It meant a stampede and an empty camp if the deserter were allowed to go unpunished. He chose a companion on whose silence he could depend, mounted and took the trail. On the third day the deserter was overtaken, captured and landed in a convenient fort. The runaway had subsisted for the three days of his liberty on such game and birds as he could kill. His horse was white, and as he rode off with prey slung to the saddle, the animal was streaked and stained with blood.

The man being in safe keeping, Mr. King and his companion rode back to camp leading the crimson streaked horse, with all the deserter's belongings strapped to his back. They spoke no word of the missing man to his former companions, but dismounted in grim silence. The men endured the pangs of curiosity as long as they could. Then they sent a committee to Mr. King to make inquiries about the fugitive. Mr. King gave a meaning glance at the blood stained horse and made answer briefly.

"He is gone," he said impressively. "He is gone where anybody else who tries to desert will go too."

Half breeds and "greasers" gasped, and from that day on no one of them all ever tried to desert.—Washington Post.

WOOD COMPRESSED BY WATER.

"Have you ever seen a bit of wood that you couldn't burn?" said an old sea captain to me the other day.

"Why, lots," I replied, "the briar root, for instance—at least, if it's good—ironwood, too, and one or two others."

"I don't mean those," he said. "But have you ever seen a bit of common deal that if you had a lot of it you could pull from its pocket a morsel of what looked like white Norwegian deal and handed it to me. I was surprised at the weight. 'Put it in the gas flame,' he said.

I did so, but beyond a blackening of the surface there was no effect.

"That bit of wood," went on the skipper, "was part of the gunwale of one of my boats. We were whaling in the South seas and harpooned a big right whale off the Cape of Good Hope. The creature sounded, the rope fouled and the boat was carried down. Probably it was taken half a mile or more below the surface. The whale rose again and was killed, and a portion of the boat was recovered from the line which still hung to it. It was the pressure of the water hardened it like that."

AN ANCIENT EGYPTIAN USED TO FISH WITH CATS ON THE NILE.

The animals were trained to enter the water and seize the fish, which were then taken away by the fishermen.

WHETHER IT BE VULGAR OR SOME OTHER OBSERVING, MEDITATIVE FRENCHMAN WHO SAID, "ALL FRENCHMEN ARE ACTORS, AND THE WORST ARE USUALLY ON THE STAGE," DOES NOT PARTICULARLY MATTER FOR THE SUBJECT IN HAND. WHILE WE HAVE REASON TO BE SURE OF THE CORRECTNESS OF THE FINAL PART OF THE APHORISM, WE HAVE NOT TIME TO SHOW WHY WE DO NOT AGREE WITH THE LAST. IT IS NOT A SCENE AT THE ASSIZES THAT WE ARE GOING TO DESCRIBE, ALTHOUGH SCENES WORTHY OF THE OPERA COMIQUE ARE CONSTANTLY PRESENTED THERE. IT IS A SNIFF.

A well dressed gentleman descended the Quai des Tuileries and, seating himself beside a man who was fishing, lit a cigar. He then offered one to his neighbor and plunged into the river, cigar, cane, silk hat and all. The fisherman, who was quick to recover from his astonishment, plunged after him, but the first struck out and swam away. The other regained the bank in disgust.

The former shortly returned and, while treading water before his temporary acquaintance, tossed him a handful of goldpieces. At the approach of a number of persons the strange man produced another handful of coins, which he swallowed and, diving under the water, did not reappear. His body was found five hours later, and, as there was nothing discovered by which to establish his identity, it was taken to the morgue.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

GRIGGS & SON, DR. J. E. WOOD AND CITY DRUG STORE.

Birds, we know, are sometimes trained to fire off pistols, as well as to perform other unusual feats, but it is not often that a wild bird in the woods shoots a man with his own gun, as related in "South American Sketches" by Robert Crawford.

A pavo del monte, a bird of Uruguay not unlike the turkey, had been winged by a hunter. It fell to the ground, but was once on its feet and ran away.

Throwing his gun hastily aside, the hunter started in pursuit, and a game of hide and seek ensued.

In one of his doublings and turnings the bird passed over the gun, which was lying on the ground, and its foot chanced to strike against the trigger of the undischarged barrel, the hammer of which, in the hurry of the moment, had been left at full cock.

...here was a loud report, followed by an exclamation of pain from the man. The bird escaped, and the luckless hunter had an ugly wound in the fleshy part of his leg to remind him for weeks afterward of the adventure.

No Jay Rows in Theaters.

The reason why Washington has no street letter J is perfectly to be understood, for J and I are written so much alike that endless confusion would result. There is another place where the letter J is slighted, and not at all because of its similarity to I. None of the plans of the house to be seen in box offices shows a row of seats lettered J. Theater patrons don't mind sitting with the gods in the gallery, nor yet in row 13, but sit in the "jay" row they will not, and for that reason there is no row marked with that letter.—Washington Post.

"I went to Paris," says an Englishman, "staying at the Hotel de Lille et d'Albion. Never having been before, I lost my way and could not find my hotel again, because I neither spoke nor understood French. Thinking some of the people I met might understand written English, I went into a stationer's shop and bought a large card, on which I wrote, 'Please tell me the way to the Hotel de Lille et d'Albion.'

Again I sallied out, showing my card to several, but still to no purpose. At last a man read it and silently beckoned me to follow him, which I did as silently for a mile or more. Then he pointed, still silently, to the sign of the hotel, and when I saw it I broke the silence by exclaiming, 'Thank you.'

"What," he replied in amazement, "are you an Englishman? So am I, but I took you to be deaf and dumb."

The Power of Money.

"What," said the visitor to the village of his childhood, "what's become of the one boy I hated—Willie Hawker, the sneak? In prison, no doubt. He bore that fate on his face."

"Hush," said the old inhabitant. "He is now Mr. Hawker, the famous millionaire."

"What!" cried the visitor. "My dear schoolmate, a millionaire? I must call on you to show a million-dollar face!"

WINE OF CARDUI

THE NEW WAY.

WOMEN used to think "female diseases" could only be treated after "local examinations" by physicians. Dread of such treatment kept thousands of modest women silent about their suffering. The introduction of Wine of Cardui has now demonstrated that nine-tenths of all the cases of menstrual disorders do not require a physician's attention at all. The simple, pure

PASSING OF THE NIGHTCAP.

Our Catarrhal Troubles Are Largely Due to Its Abandonment.

"If the American people would only stop on nightcaps when they go to bed, there would not be near so many cases of catarrhal trouble as there are now," said a Chicago physician. He continued: "It is well known that as a nation the percentage of catarrhal complaints is greater among us than in any other nation in the world and that there are more cases among men than among women. The reason for this disproportion is the absence of nightcaps and the habit of smoking in the open air. Women, if they smoke at all, do not do so in the open air, and if they do not wear nightcaps they are in a measure protected by their heavier heads of hair. Men, on the contrary, habitually wear their hair close cut, are careless about the temperature of the rooms in which they sleep, and while all the rest of the body is carefully protected the head may be exposed all night to a zero temperature and that at the very time when nature is at its lowest ebb and can do the least to protect itself. If we would begin by nightcapping all our children and induce them to keep up the habit in later years, within a generation or two catarrh would be a comparatively rare disease in the United States."

Englishmen and the people of the continent know an American by two things—his liberality with money and his habit of hawking and spitting. They cannot understand the latter, as catarrh is an unusual complaint abroad. But nightcaps are not. They are a recognized part of the night toilet throughout Europe, and to this is due the freedom of the people there from a distressing complaint.

"Who ever sees a nightcap in this country? But in England it is so much a matter of course that its great writer, Dickens, frequently mentioned it in order to give the proper touch of realism to his creations."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

BERMUDA ONIONS.

Reasons Why They Are So Popular in American Markets.

"Nowhere perhaps in the world are onions grown to such a state of perfection as in the Bermudas," said a wholesale produce merchant to a writer recently. "The balmy climate and rich soil of these islands, together with the careful methods of cultivation, have combined to produce an onion that, for size and flavor, is peerless. The vegetable will average from one-half pound to one pound and a half in weight. It is always so sound, juicy and crisp, and of such quantities are so well appreciated by Americans that about 800,000 crates of the onions are annually shipped to the United States."

"Preparations to supply the markets of this country every spring with the vegetable are made early in January, and when gathered in March and April the onions are carefully selected and packed in crates, weighing, when filled, 160 pounds. The onions are then taken to the general receiving wharf, where they are subjected to a rigid inspection by government officers. If the quality of the produce is not good and any imperfect or decayed specimens are found, the farmer is made to pick the goods over and replace them. The onions are then passed by the inspector, and when the crates have been closed and marked by the shipper they are loaded on board a steamship, which, after a voyage of 48 hours, lands them, principally in New York. Here consignments of from 4,000 to 5,000 crates, each containing 150 onions, are received semi-weekly. The vegetable is usually sold by the weight and is worth about 5 cents per pound retail."—Washington Star.

3c Failed to Pass.

General Benjamin F. Butler was one of a commission to examine young applicants for admission to the bar, and before him came a youth who failed miserably on all that pertained to jurisprudence, case law, civil law, summary law, unwritten law and due process of law. Finally Butler, who rather liked the chap and wanted to see him through, asked: "What would you like to be examined in? You have failed in everything we have suggested."

The reply came, "Try me on the statutes; I'm up on them."

Butler shook his head solemnly. "My young friend," he said, "I'm afraid you won't do. You may be ever so familiar with the statutes, but what is to prevent a fool legislator from repealing all you know?"

Kerosene on the Carpet.

If you spill kerosene on the carpet, don't leave it to "evaporate." Cover the place an inch deep with bran or cornmeal and set enough hot irons to cover the spot. Let stand until the irons are cool, then sweep off the meal, and usually there is no trace of the spot. If there is, repeat the operation. Unless the oil is removed the dust settles into it and makes a bad looking place in the carpet.

Financial Advice.

"Here's a man," said the old citizen, "who lost $5,000 in a bank which he put it for safe keeping. Bill, don't you ever take no risk like that. Ef ever you gits hold of any money, do like your father before you done—bury it, an' spon' the rest of your life settin' over it with a shotgun!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Careful estimates show that each year there are interested within the limits of the city of London about 180,000 human bodies.

The habit of reading at the dining table is strongly condemned by L'Hygiene Moderne, though it thinks looking over the paper at breakfast is comparatively harmless.

WEATHER FROGS.

Small Living Barometers Which Are Imported From Germany.

Attached to a glass-sided box seen in a bird store window was a placard marked "Weather Frogs." Within the box, perched on two long wooden rods, placed lengthwise of it and nearer the top than the bottom, like the higher perches in a birdcage, were a number of the weather frogs themselves. Some just then were brown, and one was green. They were little tree frogs of a kind found through Europe, those in the window having been imported from Germany.

When full grown, these tiny tree frogs may be little more than an inch in length. They take the color of whatever object they may be resting on—brown for wood, green if on a leaf; placed in a blue glass jar they will become blue. They may be heard but not seen, so closely in color do they resemble whatever they may be perched upon. They are called weather frogs because at the approach of rainy or changeable weather they jump into the water, at the approach of clear weather they come out again.

In captivity the weather frog is kept in a glass jar or globe, which is covered at the top with a wire screen. Water is put in the bottom of the jar, and at a convenient height is placed something for the little frog to jump up on. The weather frog in captivity is fed on flies in summer and in winter on meal worms. Its food must be alive. Weather frogs sell here at retail for 20 cents apiece. Considerable numbers of them are brought to this country.—New York Sun.

IS NOT APPY SAFE TO TALK IN PARABLES TO THE YOUNG.

As the following school board story shows: A correspondent states that one of his pupils caused him some annoyance by unchastity of speech, dirty words, and so on, so says our correspondent: "I drew a verbal portrait for the class of the man who did not shine in the world of polite society. 'You cannot fail to know him,' said I, 'for he never cleans his boots nor washes before meals. He speaks and drinks when his mouth is full and generally uses his knife in place of his fork.'"

"Gradually the lad whom this story was designed to prof showed an awakening interest and put out his hand to speak. In reply to my query, 'Well?' 'I know him,' said he. 'He's our lodger!'"—London Chronicle.

SOUND OF THE VOICE.

In experimenting with the compressed air pipes of Westphalian coal mines Mr. H. Schab has found that the greatest distance to which the sound of the voice could be conveyed in a straight pipe was between 1,500 and 1,700 feet. For moderate distances a pipe of about 20 inches in diameter gave the best results, a slightly larger one being better for long distances.

A Free Translation.

"And you say the idiot of a teacher told you that you had an extravagant soul of a father?"

"That's what he meant."

"But what did he say?"

"He said it was criminal folly to waste money on the education of such a chump as I am."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The term "infantry" soldiers originated with the Spanish and was first applied to the military force employed by an infant, or young Prince of Spain, to rescue his father from the Moors.

An Assyrian tablet in the cellar of the British museum has on it a representation of the hanging gardens of Babylon according to Herr Bruno Meissner. If he is right, this is the first testimony to their existence found among the cuneiform inscriptions.

Hidden Beauty

In Egypt the custom is for Princesses to hide their beauty by covering the lower part of the face with a veil. In America the beauty of many of our women is hidden because of the weakness and sickness peculiar to the sex. If the Egyptian custom prevailed in this country, many sufferers would be glad to cover their premature wrinkles, their sunken cheeks, their unhealthful complexion, from the eyes of the world with the veil of the Orient.

Bradfield's Female Regulator

brings out a woman's true beauty. It makes her strong and well in those organs upon which her whole general health depends. It corrects all menstrual disorders. It stops the drains of Leucorrhoea. It restores the womb to its proper place. It removes the causes of headache, backache and nervousness. It takes the poor, debilitated, weak, haggard, fading woman and puts her on her feet again, making her face beautiful by making her body well.

RAW AS BEEF FROM ECZEMA!

No Torture Equal to the Itching and Burning of This Fearful Disease.

Not much attention is often paid to the first symptoms of Eczema, but it is not long before the little redness begins to itch and burn. This is but the beginning, and will lead to suffering and torture almost unendurable. It is a common mistake to regard a roughness and redness of the skin as merely a local irritation; it is but an indication of a humor in the blood—of terrible Eczema—which is more than skin-deep, and can not be reached by local applications of ointments, salves, etc., applied to the real cause of the trouble, is in the blood, although all suffering is produced through the skin; the only way to reach the disease, therefore, is through the blood.

Mr. Phil T. Jones, of Mixersville, Ind., writes: "I had Eczema thirty years, and after a great deal of treatment my leg was so raw and sore that it gave me constant pain. It finally broke into a running sore, and six years I have suffered untold agony and have given up all hope of ever being free from the disease, as I have been treated by some of the best physicians and have taken many blood medicines, all in vain. With little faith left I began to take S. S. S., and it apparently made the Eczema worse, but I knew that this was the way the remedy got rid of the poison. Continuing upon S. S. S., the sore healed up entirely, the skin became clear and smooth, and I was cured perfectly."

Eczema is an obstinate disease and can not be cured by a remedy which is only a tonic. Swift's Specific—is superior to other blood remedies because it cures diseases which they can not reach. It goes to the bottom—the cause of the disease—and will cure the worst case of Eczema, no matter what other treatment has failed. It is the only blood remedy guaranteed to be free from potash, mercury or any other mineral, and never fails to cure Eczema, Scrofula, Contagious Blood Poison, Cancer, Tetter, Rheumatism, Open Sores, Ulcers, Boils, etc. Insist upon S. S. S.; nothing can take its place.

Books on these diseases will be mailed free to any address by Swift Specific Company, Atlanta, Georgia.
