Hard to Get Out.

An English woman who has been traveling in Russia seems to have found it easier to get in than to get out of the exar's country. She sent her passport to the authorities before starting all manner of things that's the matter in order to have it vised and then blithely made for the frontier.

Arriving there, she was immediately detained and taken before the powers that not only be, but also do, at the Russian frontier. Here she was informed that her passport did not permit her to leave the country and that she would be obliged to make herself comfortable while the police found out all she had done while in the country.

At first she was rather pleased at the thought of how she would tell her friends about it when she got home. But when she found that she had to pay not only for her room, her meals, service and all that sort of thing, but also for long telegrams which the authorities were exchanging in regard to her case, her pleasure dwindled as rap-filly as her funds did. She finally got off, however, but without receiving any apology or any MARKET STREET, STREET, According to a feeting on Siam delivered recently to London by John Bartlett, that country has more than its share of priests. The population of Siam, he said, amounted to about 6,000,000, and a curious feature was of Man. It is cultected from the steamthe large prepomlerance of Chinese, more especially in Bangkok. The Chlnese practically controlled all the trade and commerce of the place. There were hardly any Sinniese merchants. priesthood. He find traveled up river through the main terratory of Siam for a distance of 350 miles, and during the journey it had been absolutely impossible to get out of sight of a temple. In each temple there were from 10 to 300 priests, supported entirely by the people. Of the 1,000,000 priests only 200,000 were actively engaged. The remaining 700,000 were passing through the priesthood.

Paper and String.

Franklin's time benoved and cumulative adage, "For want of the nail the shoe was lost, for want of the shoe the horse was lost, for want of the borse the man was lost," should have the addendum of twine and paper bags put to it to make it complete.

Few things are more aggravating than to be ready to tie up a package and find no string, or to carry a few apples, oranges, eggs or bulbs a short distance and find no bag to hold them. Strings should always be wound in a ball and kept ready for immediate use where the family may find them, and paper lags, as soon as emptied, should be folded neatly and laid in a drawer for use as needed.

The Paregorie Flend.

Down the village street, getting one foot before the other with a combination of a jerk and a drag, came a shriveled, tremulous figure.

"See him?" a villager inquired of the summer resident, pointing a shoulder paregoric fiend. He swallows more paregorie than all the bables in the village put together. How'd he get in the way of taking the stuff? Well, you know, there's some old women in our town that think paregoric good for had pains from eating too much his wife dosed him with paregoric, an the first thing she knowed he couldn't get on without it. He's worse'n a drunkard now, an you can't get within ten feet of him without smellin the stuff. He had a stroke a spell back, an the doctors tried to scare him about using paregoric, but it wasn't no use. He'll never stop now till he stops breathing."-Exchange.

Gold and Silver Signs. Nearly $100,000 worth of gold and over $200,000 worth of silver are left out of doors, anguarded, every night the year round in Greater New York. A Man of Nerve.

The most curious feature in the case of a miner imprisoned for nearly 70 hours in the Gaylord coal mine at Plymouth, Pa., was his peacefully falling asleep in his tomb as soon as he realized that he was likely to be rescued. It would be difficult to imagine a more serene nervous system. There were pleaty of chances, too, that the miners might not get the poor fellow out alive. When finally he did emerge, he behaved himself as a hero ought to behave-quietly, with less thought of himself than of his distracted mother, who at the moment was at home praying for him.-Collier's Weekly.

first symptoms of Eczema, but it is not long before the little redness begins to itch and burn. This is but the beginning, and will lead to suffering and torture almost unendurable. It is a common mistake to regard a roughness and redness of the skin as merely a local irritation; it is but an indication of a humor in the blood—of terrible eations of ointments, salves, etc., applied to the surface. The disease itself, the real cause of the trouble, is in the blood, although all suffering is produced through the skin; the only way to reach the disease, therefore, is through the blood.

Mr. Phil T. Jones, of Mixersville, Ind., writes: "I had Eczema thirty years, and after a great deal of treatment my leg was so raw and sore that it gave me constant pain. It finally broke into a running sore, and began to spread and grow worse. For the past five or six years I have suffered untold agony and had given up all hope of ever being free from the disease, as I have been treated by some of the best physicians and have taken many blood medicines, all in vain. With little faith left I began to take S. S. S., and it apparently made the Eczema worse, but I knew that this was the way the remedy got rid of the poison. Continuing S. S. S., the sore healed up entirely, the skin became clear and smooth, and I was cured perfectly."
