THE CIVIL RIGHTS BILL.

The decision recently made by the United States Supreme Court, declaring the Civil Rights Bill unconstitutional, is but another strong manifestation of the fact that Radical partisan legislation will not bear the searching light of clear legal reasoning and judgment. Unfortunately, the Civil Rights Bill, like a good many other Congressional enactments framed by the same men, and passed under the same political regime, was conceived in malignant passion, more with the aim to punish a political and "unreconstructed" foe than to do justice to an oppressed race.

This bitter legislation has had its legitimate effect. It is true, it wrought some humiliation in the South, and evoked some bitterness, for its manifest injustice. But, none the less, the "curse" have come home to roost—"foul brood that they are; and at the door of the Radical party lies the responsibility for this enormity which even a subsidized Republican Supreme Court had too much grace and dignity to countenance.

How must all but the 'bummers' and 'shysters' of the Republican party writ and shrink under this recent decision—all those able men who have become ashamed of their "bloody shirt" fights in Congress that made such a thing as the Civil Rights bill possible—ashamed of the arbitrary and tyrannical course toward the subjugated States which made the South solidly Democratic!

It is a significant fact that more vociferous abuse of the operations of the Civil Rights bill has come from our Northern friends than from the people of the South. It was an insidious blow at our whole social system, which we bore in the main with patience and moderation. Except when some irresponsible repentant apostate like W. W. Holden rushed into print to 'out-herod herod' with intemperance of language and virulence of sentiment, Southern writers and speakers were silent and forbearing. They knew—if the North did not—that social equality could not be forced.

LATE NEWS.

GENERAL OUTLINES.

The Butler Democrats of Massachusetts have nominated S. A. B. Abbott, a young man, for Lieutenant Governor; The Democratic Boston papers say it is a creditable selection. In 1882 the Presbyterians had $23,800 members; in 1883 they number 27,712—an increase in half a century of about 200 per cent. J. S. Grinnell has been nominated for Lieutenant Governor by the Democratic State Regular Committee of Massachusetts. Severe shocks of an earthquake were felt last week at Agram and in several districts of Western Croatia. Cholera is on the increase in Egypt. Last week the Marquis of Lansdowne was sworn in with great pomp as Governor of Canada. The cotton crop, in sight, amounts to 1,461,000 bales. A hurricane along coast of Cuba, last Saturday, did great damage to coasting vessels. Southern Spiritualists (Lord help us! Ingersoll and a whole lot more are coming!) met in Convention last week at Chattanooga, Tenn. The Ku-Klux of Banks Co., Ga., of which we made mention last week, were convicted; ho! for the bloody shirt of 1864! A negro who murdered a policeman in New Orleans was killed by the son of his victim while on his way to court. Cotton was dull in New York last Saturday at 10 1/2 @ 10 3/4; spirits turpentine dull and easier at 32 cents.

STATE OUTLINES.

The meeting of the Methodist church at Louisville last week had 16 converts. Col. L. C. Jones, Superintendent of the Carolina Central, offers a reward of $300 each for the arrest and conviction of parties who have been stoning the trains at different times. There are now 83 boarders at the Salem Female Academy, one of the best colleges in the South. The Lutherans and admirers of Martin Luther will appropriately celebrate his 400th anniversary at Concord, on the 10th of next month. Wilmington Star commencing to brag about fresh fish, especially mullets. Receipts of cotton in Wilmington last Saturday, 822 bales.

Randall the Protectionist.

Defeated at the polls both North and South, the monopolists cast about for some way to prevent the reopening of the Tariff issue. There was no way in which this could be done in the teeth of the Free-trade majority, except through the Speaker and the capture of the organization of the Ways and Means committee. They turned to Samuel J. Randall with one accord. Randall was "a safe man." Randall had saved them before, and to Randall they naturally looked to save them in this emergency. The very short-coming and duplicity of the man as Speaker and politician made him the more eligible now. He was a Protectionist, and as such identified soul and body with the interests of Pennsylvania. So the cry "No tinkering with the tariff!" was raised before the real contest over the Speakership was fairly under way. Randall, as keen on the scent for office as he is unscrupulous in his use of it, saw his opportunity and began his canvass. Secure in the support of the Protectionists, he began by turning his efforts to the more timid of the liberal tariff men. He took the ground that the interests of the party demanded that the Tariff, however iniquitous it might be, should be left as it is. He adopted at once the extreme views of Judge W. D. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, and advocated the entire abolition of the entire revenue system. With other high tariff men, he saw with alarm that the large surplus in the Treasury would endanger the Protective system by re-opening the question of the reduction of taxation. As a Protectionist, Randall is now in full accord with Kelley and the rest of the Republicans of Pennsylvania. He is consequently their man.—Washington Cor. Charleston News-courier.

Rocky Mount Fair.

At the Annual Fair at Rocky Mount on the 25th, a special dispatch to the Raleigh News-Observer says:

Senator Z. B. Vance delivered the Annual Address. He was introduced by Gen. W. R. Cox. The audience numbered ten thousand of the representative people of this section and was most enthusiastic in its reception of North Carolina's favorite son. The Senator's speech was masterly, worthy of him, the occasion and the audience.

Col. J. A. Sloan, of Washington, D. C., also addressed the audience. The Fair is a success, despite the weather. The racing events have been notably interesting. For tomorrow a brilliant programme of races has been arranged.

Call of Primary Convention.

HOUSE OF BISHOPS, PHILA., October 23d, 1883. To the Clergy and Laity within the limits of the new Diocese in North Carolina:

DEAR BRETHREN: The division of the Diocese of North Carolina having been ratified by the approval of both Houses of the General Convention, it now becomes my duty, agreeably with the provisions of Canon C, section 1, title III, to summon the primary convention of the new Diocese. I therefore hereby call such convention, to meet in Christ Church, Newbern, on Wednesday, December 12th, at 10 o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organizing the new Diocese and electing a Bishop for the same.

T. B. LYMAN, Bishop of North Carolina. State papers please copy.

Not True.

Some two weeks ago a paragraph, from some exchange paper, was copied in the Home-Democrat, stating that Mr. H. A. Gudger, the proprietor of Warm Springs Hotel, had been arrested for permitting liquor to be sold at his bar-room on Sunday, and also prosecuted on the charge of permitting, or having, a gambling establishment in his Hotel. Mr. Gudger wrote to the Home-Democrat on the 6th of October, denying the correctness of all the charges, and requesting a publication of his note, but it was mislaid, and the correction was not made. We therefore, now, take pleasure in stating that facts do not sustain the charges made against Mr. Gudger. He keeps the Warm Springs Hotel, but has nothing to do with the Bar-Room on the place—that is separate from the management of the Hotel. In regard to gambling, Mr. Gudger has no special room for that purpose, and if the law is violated in that way, it is by individuals who use private bed-rooms, and without the consent of the manager of the Springs. But to make the matter short, Mr. Gudger has not been arrested on charges of any sort.—Charlotte Home-Democrat.

A FAITHFUL OLD NEGRO.—An old colored man died on Messrs. George and Albert Parrot's plantation last Monday, who was a slave before the war, and when he was made free he lived on with his old master till he died, and then lived with his young masters up to the time of his death. His name was George Parrot, and he was 79 years old. He was a foreman on the farm at 18. He never worked for anyone except a Parrot, and died within 200 yards of where he was born.—Kinston Free Press.

THE C. F. & Y. V. R. R.—Our countymen in western Chatham will soon be in full railroad communication with the rest of the world, and have easy access to market for their products. As announced last week, the track has been laid to Ore Hill, and the passenger trains will run to that station in a few days.—Pittsboro Record.

WONDERFUL COTTON.—Last fall Mr. O. O. Vollers, of Point Caswell, sent us the most wonderful cotton boll we had ever seen. It was raised by Mr. Owen Savage, of Pender county, and contained 13 cells of a beautiful staple, all of the cells being fully open. We placed it on exhibition at the Produce Exchange, where it was seen and admired by hundreds. This morning Mr. Vollers sent us another boll which is an improvement on the other, remarkable as the first was. This has 18 cells, all open and bearing well. It was raised by the same man, Mr. Savage, and we understand from one who saw it that Mr. Savage has another boll which contains 17 cells. It is the most remarkable product of plant we have ever seen or heard of.—Wilmington Review.

VETERANS OF THE MEXICAN WAR.—A convention of the veterans of the Mexican war will be held in Washington, D. C., December 6th, 7th, and 8th. The proposed reunion is deemed of special importance, in view of the bill now pending in Congress to grant a pension to all honorably discharged veterans of that war, as an act of national justice to the men who, by the triumph of their arms, on a foreign soil, added a vast territorial empire to the Republic. A citizen's committee on hospitality will be organized for the purpose of extending to the visiting veterans a suitable reception. Capt. O. R. Smith, of Durham, requests all Mexican soldiers who can or expect to attend this convention to inform him by letter at once that he may notify the association at Washington, D. C., and make all necessary arrangements for transportation.

OYSTERS!

OFFICE SINGLETON & MCANGE, Oyster Dealers and Packers, Suffolk, Va., Oct. 17, 1883.

MR. G. W. LAKE, Fayetteville, N. C.

DEAR SIR:—We state in reply to your enquiry that the advance in price of oysters forced on us by the owners of beds, and those who obtain them in the Bays and Inlets. The supply is getting less every year, so that many dealers are unable to fill all their orders. For the cause, see Baltimore "Sun" of the 11th and Norfolk "Virginian" of the 13th inst.

At a mass meeting held in Annapolis a few evenings since, Gen'l Bradley T. Johnson said in substance, that unless the States of Maryland and Virginia took active measures to preserve and develop the Oyster by intelligent supervision and energetic police, the 50,000 people and 85,000,000 employed would be compelled to engage in something else. We can promise that Oysters will be larger and fatter than ever before. The two lots shipped to you last week attest that fact. We have much better facilities than heretofore, having just completed a large opening and packing establishment, new ice-house, wharf, &c.

Truly yours, SINGLETON & MCANGE.

ORDERS for Quarts or by the Gallon, solicited. Persons desiring Oysters for Saturday and Sunday should hand in their orders not later than Wednesday.

All Oysters in cans are packed in ice and I guarantee them to be fresh, no matter how warm the weather may be. I receive a large supply every Saturday.
