Pains, Dizzy Spells

Mrs. G. P. Cartwright, of Whitwell, Tenn., writes: "I suffered with bearing-down pains. The dizzy spells got so bad that when I would start to walk, I would just pretty nearly fall. Was very much run-down. I told my husband I thought Cardui would help me. He got me a bottle. It helped me so much that he got me another bottle. I got a whole lot better. The dizzy spells and the bearing-down pains . . . left me entirely." "If you are weak and run-down, or suffer from womanly pains."

Is your barn a cotton warehouse?

When you store a ton of old style cottonseed hulls you give space to almost 500 pounds of lint and all the extra bulk that the lint causes.

BUCKEYE HULLS

When you store a ton of you give space to 2000 pounds of real roughage, free from lint, compact, concentrated, solid. Buckeye Hulls save half your storage space or enable you to carry twice as much roughage.

Other Advantages
2000 pounds of roughage value to the ton—cost 1500. Priced much less per ton. Every pound goes farther. Better assimilation of other food. No trash or dust. Sucked—easy to handle. Mix well with other forage.

Mr. John Wicker, Forest, Miss., says: "That his first experience in feeding Buckeye Hulls was unsatisfactory as he fed them improperly. He now soaks the hulls over night, then feeds them and has very satisfactory results. Mr. Wicker states that these hulls are more economical than the old style hulls and thinks that they go almost twice as far as the old style hulls at a considerably less cost to begin with."

To secure the best results and to develop the digestive aids, wet the hulls thoroughly twelve hours before feeding. It is easy to do this by setting them down night and morning for the next feeding. If at any time this cannot be done, wet down at least thirty minutes. If you prefer to feed the hulls dry, use only half as much by bulk as of old style hulls.

Book of Mixed Feeds Free

War Summary

German Airmen made an attack on English coast towns doing considerable damage and killing several women and children.

The British troops have taken several strong positions in the Ypres section and been able to hold them against the most furious assaults.

The Russians seem to be holding their own in the Riga section and there is some indication of rejuvenation of her armies.

Along the Italian front no great changes have taken place for the last few days but it is probable that the Italians are only taking a breathing spell.
