To Make this a Distributing Point.

We learned Friday, on excellent auhority that one of the largest wholesale hardware houses in the South has decided to make Fayetteville their distributing point. A representative of the firm has been here the past several days, looking for a suitable location for a site on which to erect a large warehouse and offices. This firm propose to receive and distribute all their goods at Fayetteville. The reason for this is, of course, very obvious. It is Fayetteville's splendid location and water and rail transportation.

It has long been a wonder to us why firms of this kind have not seen the benefits to be derived by locating hers sooner.

Fayetteville is in direct railroad touch with the mountains and the sea, reaches the heart of South Carolina by a prosperous brauch railroad, traverses the State by one of the main lines of one of the great railroad systems, and, further, reaches the sea by steamboat communication on the Cape Fear.

Where is another town with the present advantages of Fayetteville, not to speak of the future, when the great electric power is installed here?

Then again the labor of this section is orderly and competent, and the negro community a most excellent one. Health and water have, of course, made us already famous.

Kenansville, N. C., Aug. 24, 1901. Miss Mary Lilly Kenau, dampater of Col. W. R. Kenan, of Wilmington, and the third stroke, from which he did Mr. H. M. Flagler, the multimillionaire, not rally, and died this morning as and vice-president of the Standard Oil Company, were married here at 10 o'clock this morning in the old Kenan homestead. The ceremony was per formed by Rev. Peyton H. Hoge, for mer pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Wilmington. After the marriage a breakfast was served, and then Mr. and Mrs. Fingler left for New York, where they will spend some time at Mr. Flagler's country home.

Though the marriage was a very quiet offair, it was the most notable event this quiet little village of only a hondred souls ever experienced. The wealth of the groom, which is estimated at about one hundred million dollars, is so desailing that it has taken the breath away from our plain country folks.

Just previous to the ceremony Flagler presented his bride with a cer-tified check for one million dollars and

The picnic at Galatia on last Baturday was a very picasant affair.

Prof. J. A. MeArthur and Mr. A. C. Monroe made talks which were appreciated and enjoyed, and there was some singing, a large crowd and a very good dinter. The rain interfered with the ball game, so that only five innings were played between the Galatia Seniors and Juniors, resulting in a score of two to two.
