

Just after Dr. Kingsbury's retirement from the position of editor of the Wilmington Messenger, the editor of this paper was confined to his bed by a sharp attack of sickness, and the Observer's columns grew dark for that reason, its greatly did not contain at the time a tribute to his splendid gifts of mind and heart and a parting salute to him.

Dr. Kingsbury for years occupied, with great distinction and unequalled usefulness, the place of the leading editorial writer of North Carolina. Indeed, he is generally regarded as standing head and shoulders above his contemporaries. To an astonishing knowledge of North Carolina affairs, acquired in a long life devoted to a minute as well as a broadminded study of them; to a candor of expression which has never, so far as we could discern, found its impure in malice; to a felicitous and ornate style that has ever charmed his thousands of readers; to a honesty of purpose that was as transparent as it was inflexible; and to a generosity to his competitors that was literally overflowing; and to a love of his native State, her people and her institutions, that is akin to idolatry—this noble old gentleman has added an intellectual industry that has no equal within our observation, outside of that of Judge Clark, in behalf of those righteous cause, by the way, he was moved to lay down his life work.

Our present purpose, however, is to make a very practical suggestion in connection with this matter. We have reason to believe that Dr. Kingsbury has often sacrificed his interest in his duty as an honest man and patriot, and while he retired from active journalism crowned with all the honors which the respect and affection of the people of North Carolina can bestow, we imagine that he has not laid up those earthly treasures for his declining years which they who sell their opinions may do. If that be so—and we must be understood as speaking entirely of our own motion, and we trust, without offense to our venerable friend—we make this proposition to our brethren of the press:

The Observer will be one of any number of newspapers to subscribe for a weekly letter to be contributed by Dr. Kingsbury, upon such topics as would be most likely to keep him in touch with his hosts of friends throughout the State. There is no sort of doubt that such a letter would be extremely interesting, would fill a much needed gap in the kind of matter supplied by the most of our papers, and would repay the papers subscribing for it many times over for the small outlay that would be required. If enough subscribers should be had to justify it, the letter might be stereotyped and supplied in plates.

We make this proposition very earnestly and urgently, and we trust that the suggestion may meet with the hearty response which, it seems to us, it deserves. While it would be paying a just tribute to Dr. Kingsbury's eminent talents, it would render a very great service to the people of North Carolina, who, otherwise, might sadly miss his loyal and intelligent teachings.

The Republicans Threw Their Hand to Him

Wilmington Dispatch.

Is the Democratic party of this State to be disrupted because of the personal malice of two men; aided and abetted by the trusts, and led by the Populist lawyer, Capt. "Bill" Day? We think not. The papers which are attacking Justice Clark, and who now seem to be so solicitous about the welfare of the Democratic party should answer the question: Who started all this fuss and feathers, this much ado about nothing? It looks very much like the Republicans—Capt. Day, Fab. Busbee, Esq., Southern Railroad and ex-Governor Russell. The question at issue before the Democratic party is, Shall these men, either one a Democrat, say who the Democratic shall nominate for Chief Justice? They held up their hands in holy horror and say, Democrats, if you nominate Clark you will be defeated, he is no Democrat any way. Do the Democrats want any advice from either? Think of Russell and Day advising Democrats who to nominate! It is about as ludicrous as the Devil advising sinners to flee from the wrath to come. The Democrats will and should nominate Justice Clark. He is the strongest man with the masses in the State and will lead the fight for every trust looter's and bloodsucker's vote; for every Democrat laborer's vote; for every Democrat farmer's vote; for every Democrat voter so they can say whether Clark shall be defeated by trusts and their agents in this county or not. We invite the issue and believe that the voters of New Hanover will help to nominate a man who will give them justice should they ever have occasion to appear in his court.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, May 19, 1902.

There is every indication that the Hon. "Moss" Hanna will carry the sobriquet, "Subsidy Hanna" during the rest of his political career. Only twice during the Fifty-Seventh Congress has the Junior Senator from Ohio made a speech in the Senate, once when he vigorously advocated the ship subsidy bill, and once, this week, when he rose up to support a bill which granted a subsidy estimated at $7,000,000 to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. This bill, which provides for a "union Railroad Station" in Washington, grants to the company named funds and concessions which an attorney of the company himself admits to be worth $4,700,000. The whole history of Congressional legislation in which the company named has been interested is of the most unscrupulous character, but this bill is the most infamous of all the measures that have passed and are circulating which attended its passage are, to say the least, peculiar. On Wednesday evening there was manifested a very general determination to return the bill to the committee which framed it and a vote at that time would have undoubtedly resulted but the friends of the bill secured the postponement of the vote until Thursday. What happened in the interim I cannot ascertain but on Thursday morning, at an hour when ordinarily but few Senators are present, practically all were in their seats and by an almost straight party vote the bill was passed. Senator Hanna, who had warmly urged the adoption of a substitute which provided for municipal ownership of the depot, voted against the measure. After the vote was taken it was very generally remarked that Senator Hanna was regaining his former leadership. While the Department of Justice is proceeding in the courts against the northwestern railway "degreaser" and against the Best Trust, the Republicans in Congress are practically ratifying a merger of the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio lines and granting a subsidy of $7,000,000 to the railway trust. Here is a magnificent opportunity for the President to exercise his power of veto in public and then to meet the public in private and to express an opinion, or "I am a candidate and therefore think it wisest not to discuss measures upon which the public are not agreed," or they will give some shifty or evasive opinion. The time has come to put an end to the era of such cowardly aspirants for public honors. The hour has arrived in North Carolina when the people demand courageous leaders who will declare their convictions and rise or fall by uttering them. Men who are not honest and courageous and able enough to meet the living issues, but who insist upon talking only about things upon which everybody is agreed, ought to be forced to stay in the retirement their unwillingness to champion righteous causes fits them to adorn. "Let those who have no stomach for the fight depart."

The Philippine debate is not yet concluded but Senator Dabois has agreed that, beginning today, the democratic senators will be prepared to speak continuously until the discussion is closed. Senator Spooner will speak for the republicans and Senator Dabois will probably sum up. Senator Dabois told me yesterday that he thought the vote would be cast the last of this week. It is with no little enjoyment that the democrats view the present discomfiture of the opposites. The republicans are facing a serious dilemma of opinion in their own ranks and which faction will win no one can definitely predict. The opponents of Cuban reciprocity are determined that the 15th annual canal bill shall take precedence over the former measure when the Philippine bill is disposed of. Senator Platt, manager of the Cuban bill, is not yet sufficiently sure of the support which a straight reciprocity bill would secure in the Senate to urge its immediate consideration and he appreciates that he reports the bill as passed by the House, while it will receive the unanimous support of the democrats, the friendship of the Sugar Trust and the Philippine bill are passed and the other bill is to be considered, which is being considered, is the publicly announced intention of the President to call an extra session in case Congress adjourns without acting on the Cuban bill. Viewed from any standpoint this is a serious dilemma and the republicans are faced with a very grace. If the President will yield almost immediate adjournment will follow. If a sufficient number of "best sugar Senators" can be whipped into line the Cuban bill will be passed and there will be no Adams legislation, but the fear is that the canal bill will be taken up and that would mean the postponement of adjournment for many weeks.

Tomorrow or the next night the republicans of the House expect to call a caucus to consider the advisability of passing the Power banking and currency bill. There is no hope that the bill will be passed or even considered at this session by the Senate and there is little likelihood that the Senate will pass it at the next session, but it is the belief of the House leaders that it will "draw" the Democrats in the fall campaign and it is with the intention of stirring up the advocates of free silver that the leaders wish to pass the measure. The bill provides for the retirement of the greenbacks and the creation of a national bank almost unlimited powers and independent liabilities. The western republicans are bitterly opposed to its passage as they believe it would be another instance of the sacrifice of their interests to the general good of the party and they are seriously injured by the absolute retention of tariff revision. Whether the leaders will be able to whip the insurgents into line in the caucus remains to be seen.

The House spent all last week considering the free silver appropriation bill, which passed on Saturday. The debate at times was most spirited and amusing. Representative Williams, of Mississippi, read to the House some doggerel concerning the appointment of Crockett to the European station which concluded with the lines: "Great Crockett's the greatest tar that ever oiled a barrel."

Approves of the Hanna-Fry ship subsidy bill the last issue of Lloyd's Register states that the Steel Trust is the largest owner in the world. It is not surprising the bill was passed by the Senate.

The Negro Party's President.

President Roosevelt has given fresh offense to the people of Savannah by reappointing the negro Devereaux as collector of customs for that port. Despite his flag words and plentiful platitudes Roosevelt will never gain the love of the South by appointing negroes to office. He would not dare make negro postmasters or collectors of customs in one of the New England or Northern States.—Gold Leaf.

And yet, Bro. Manning, you have respectable white men in your community, and we have them in ours, who lead this man Roosevelt to the skies while they sell themselves "commercial Democrats."

THE DAY FOR THINNESS IS AT HAND.

Raleigh News and Observer.

The most gratifying thing connected with the recent legislative session, and an unnecessary consequence is that it has taught a lesson to shifty politicians in North Carolina. Heretofore there have been politicians in the Democratic party who have run with the hare and also with the hounds. They have "talked with" the people and "drank with" the railroads. They have tried to carry water on both shoulders. They have solicited railroad support by fighting just measures of taxation and stood with the people against small schemes advocated by the railroads. They have been shifty enough to be satisfactory to the railroads and have opposed their minor schemes enough to retain the confidence of the people who were not well informed.

The result of the recent controversy has made it clear that the people want men who owe no obligations to the railroads, but who are on the people's side 365 days in every year. They are sick and tired of straddlers. Hereafter they demand that men who seek public office "not do so upon the sole ground of 'availability' (which is practically interpreted means having no convictions and no opinions that antagonize any special interests) but that they shall stand for something and be ready to fall for a principle if need be. That is the sort of men North Carolina voters admire, and in the future it is the sort of men they intend to put in positions of public trust. They are disgusted with the "all things to all men" sort of politicians who thunder against trusts and monopolies and railroads and then, when the time comes to manage by private understanding to keep the support of these selfish interests that never support a man they cannot use or silence. There have been few men in public life that they could use, though there have been conspicuous examples of men in public life who were railroad agents, but there have been many more that they have silenced. "What do you think of a franchise tax on railroads and other quasi-public corporations?" Ask that question to candidates for public office and too many will say: "I have not studied the question and prefer not to express an opinion," or "I am a candidate and therefore think it wisest not to discuss measures upon which the public are not agreed," or they will give some shifty or evasive opinion. The time has come to put an end to the era of such cowardly aspirants for public honors. The hour has arrived in North Carolina when the people demand courageous leaders who will declare their convictions and rise or fall by uttering them. Men who are not honest and courageous and able enough to meet the living issues, but who insist upon talking only about things upon which everybody is agreed, ought to be forced to stay in the retirement their unwillingness to champion righteous causes fits them to adorn. COTTON, N. C., May 17. As previously announced, fifteen of the boys and girls of the Orphan Asylum of Oxford, under the management of Prof. J. C. Turner and Miss Emma White, gave on a delightful concert last night to a crowded hall. The vocal and instrumental music was fine. The Hope Mission and the members of the church were present and gave some fine music under the leadership of their teacher, Prof. Lusiter. The amount taken in for the benefit of the orphans was $24.05. Prof. Turner addressed the audience in a very forcible, sympathetic manner, stating what the orphan had done and the success he had had in the past. He kindly thanked the audience for their liberal contribution.

Down Goes the Stars and Stripes, Up Goes the Lone Star. By telegram to the Observer.

Havana, May 20.—At noon today the United States flag was pulled down from the top of the Custom House. A Lone Star banner of the Republic of Cuba took its place. The change of flags was typical of the change of government and was made by a delegation of Cuban veterans led by Gomez. All over the city a loud and simultaneous change was made. The American officials and the remaining American troops boarded the Brooklyn and will sail for home. Hundreds of arches are erected in various parts of the city, which is filled with thousands of happy citizens of the new republic.

Havana, May 20.—General Wood, in delivering over Cuba to President Palma, handed him the following letter from President Roosevelt: "White House, Washington, May 19th, 1902. To the President of the Republic of Cuba—Sir: On the 20th of the month the Military Government will, by my direction, transfer to your control of the government of the island of Cuba, to be thereafter exercised under provisions of the constitution adopted by your constituent convention as on that day promulgated. He will thereupon declare the occupation of Cuba by the United States to be at an end. At the same time I desire to express to you the sincere friendship and good wishes of the United States, and our most earnest hopes for the stability and success of your government, for the blessings of peace, justice, prosperity, order and freedom among your people and for an enduring friendship between the Republic of the United States and the Republic of Cuba."

RALEIGH LETTER.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

RALEIGH, N. C., May 19, 1902.

The chairman of many of the Orange County Committees are now issuing calls for the holding of the various Democratic conventions, and it appears that, for some reason, the chairman seem to regard it as desirable to hold and convene before the State Convention meets at Greensboro, and are setting the date accordingly. The latest Congressional Convention to be called is that for the (Fourth) Raleigh District, which is called to meet July 15, one day preceding the assembling of the State Convention.

THE CLARK CONTROVERSY. It is a patent fact that the publication of the Clark-Russell letters has had very little effect in changing the opinion of intelligent people who have become interested in this controversy. As matters stand today, it looks as though Clark will be nominated.

THE CORPORATION COMMISSIONERS. The personality of the nominee for Corporation Commissioner, to fill the vacancy to be created by the expiration of the term of Dr. Abbott (Rep.), which ends in April, 1903, is now being discussed. Dr. Abbott's successor is C. Beddingfield (Dem.), after he had accepted him for the place through an action in the courts—the Supreme Court holding that the Legislature had no authority to elect Mr. Beddingfield at the time it did. Mr. Beddingfield is a prominent citizen of Raleigh, and has been a member of the State Bar for several years. He is a farmer and Beddingfield being such a fair campaigner, he is the very man to select. He made a fine record when he was on the Commission before, and will do even better this time—being discussed by several papers or featured in the Raleigh papers, and had come before him for adjudication. He is the personification of fairness in all things, with a bright, well educated mind and judicial temperament. Those who know him and his virtues and an ever growing Democratic record best are his fondest admirers.

North Carolinians are pleased to note the high and prominent stand our junior Senator is taking at the very outset of his senatorial career. Few men are lifted to a seat in that body have "shown up" to better advantage during the first session of Congress after the beginning of their new duties than Senator Simmons.

With Senator Pritchard's well known influence with the President and heads of departments, and his high legislative and strong personal influence with the leaders in Congress, coupled with Senator Simmons' fine ability and growing usefulness, North Carolina's interests ought to fare pretty well and be successfully cared for at present.

VARIOUS MATTERS OF INTEREST. The North Carolina Press Association will hold its next annual meeting at Hendersonville, June 25. This decision was reached by the Executive Committee last Friday.

The following figures, just given out by the Superintendent of Public Instruction during the first session of Congress after the beginning of their new duties than Senator Simmons.

Mr. Cook is reported to be 271 cases tried and $340.50 fines collected, and as he knew the money properly belonged to the school fund, he simply, as Mayor, made no further opposition, but agreed to pay the same over together with the costs of the action. This would all be Board had approved and was not a compromise but a settlement.

There would have been no sense in going into court when every contention was agreed to by the defendant. Mr. Cook will give any one the same information if they will ask him, but these are the facts in the case.

And Additionally mentioned her husband, and her eyes were dimmed with tears as she breathed to heaven a fervent prayer for his safe and speedy return to his family and home. She never saw him again in America.

The defeat of the loyalist army and the capture of her husband at Moore's Creek struck a knell of woe to her heart. The officers were arrested and imprisoned, and King-Burns was committed to the prison of Halifax, in Virginia. Flora resolved on the recommendation of her imprisoned husband, to return, if possible, to Scotland. She happened at a social party to secure the favor and good offices of Captain Ingram, an American officer, who promised to do his best to forward her views. Some little time after he was able to furnish her with a passport to Fayetteville and Wilmington. Thence she found her way to Charleston, from which she sailed to her native land in 1779, leaving her husband still a prisoner in Halifax jail. This step she took at the earnest entreaties of her husband (whom she was not permitted to visit) for the benefit of the health of her daughter Fanny.

Flora crossed the Atlantic with none of her family but Fanny. Her five sons and six daughters were actively engaged in the then war in America. The crossing of the Atlantic in her return to Scotland was the last of Flora's adventures.

Flora had seven children—five sons and two daughters—besides three who died young. All her sons were officers in the service of their King and country. Charles, the eldest, was a Captain in the Queen's Rangers, and to very accomplished man, Alexander, the second, was a Captain of Marines and of high professional character. James, the fourth, served in the Tarleton British Legion, and was a brave officer. John, the fifth son, was a Lieutenant-Colonel and had a numerous family. Her daughters, on the other hand, became the wives of officers. Annie, as has been said, was the wife of Major-General Alexander Macleod. Her second daughter, Fanny, married Lieutenant Donald Macdonald of Caldercraigh, in Skye.

Flora died in 1790 and is buried in the churchyard of Kilmuir, in Skye. It is said that the sheets in which Prince Charles slept in, at Kingsburgh House, were carefully put aside, and that years afterwards they became the property of a farmer who became the lady of that house.

Such is the story of Flora Macdonald, the heroine, in peril and privation, that shed a true glory over the fidelity and devotedness of the female heart. Her memory richly deserves to be kept fresh and green over the long and breadth of the land. D. W. L.

The Settlement with Mayor Cook. Correspondence of the Observer. FAYETTEVILLE, N. C., May 19, 1902.

EDITOR OBSERVER: I have had quite a number of our citizens to ask me, "Why was the action of the Board of Education against ex-Mayor Cook compromised?" Let me say to those and to your other readers that there was no compromise whatever made with anybody. The action was started here just as similar ones were taken in other places to recover the fines imposed and collected by the Mayor covering the previous three years, which, under the law, properly belonged to the school fund.

RAILROAD CONNECTIONS FOR DAVIDSON COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT, MAY 23-25. On May 26th a new passenger train will be put on between Davidson and Charlotte making close connection with the morning train on the S. A. L. from Eastern Carolina, as well as with all morning passenger trains reaching Charlotte via the Southern from Columbia, Atlanta and Salisbury. This train leaves Charlotte for Davidson at 11:30 a. m., and returning reaches Davidson at 5:05 p. m., making connection with the Seaboard evening train for the east. Beginning with May 25th, this will give three regular passenger trains daily except between Charlotte and Davidson, besides the mixed train leaving Charlotte at 3 p. m.

From Asheville close connections are made both morning and evening at Statesville, whether coming to Davidson or returning, and from Winston the afternoon train coming to Davidson and the morning train leaving Davidson carry passengers through without delay.

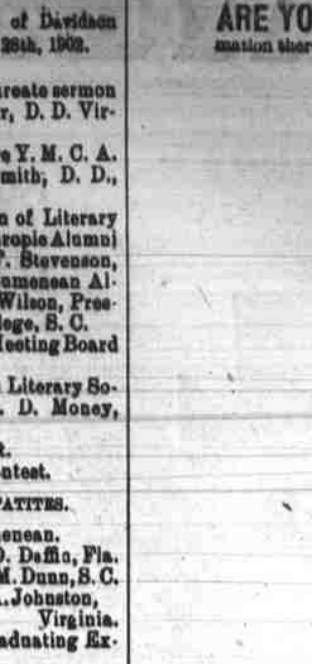

Thus from all directions, on both railroad systems, railroad connections towards and from Davidson College are all that could be desired, and this, with Senator Money's address on the 27th, will doubtless lead to a far larger attendance at Commencement than usual.
