THE NORMALS WILL CONSOLIDATE.

Fayetteville will Probably be One of Four.

The number of Negro State Normals will be reduced. The State Board of Education met Saturday, and while this was decided on nothing has been given out officially.

The Raleigh News and Observer SAYS:

It is understood that the Board was a tie on the question of consolidating or not consolidating, and that Lieutenant-Governor Turner was called to Raleigh to "unlock" the "deadlock." He was here yesterday, and while all the members of the Board were present Lieutenant Governor Turner settled the matter by casting his vote for consolidation, by reducing the number of colored normals from seven to four.

Lieutenant-Governor Turner frankly stated his reasons for his vote in the matter. These are that the State Superintendent of Public Instruction is in favor of consolidation, and that as this is a matter connected with the educational department of the State over which Superintendent Jorner presides, his views of the matter should be considered. Besides this the State Board of Examiners favors consolidation.

The normals will be reduced from seven to four, but which of these are to be selected is not yet definitely fixed. The normals are situated at Winston, Salisbury, Franklinton, Fayetteville, Plymouth, Elizabeth City and Goldsboro, and which places are to be dropped out is the question.

From a review of the case it seems practically certain that Winston and Elizabeth City will be retained, and there is an opinion that the other two will be Fayetteville and Franklinton, all three to be retained on account of their location. It is considered safe to say that the Plymouth Normal will be abandoned and that there will be a sharp fight between Goldsboro and Fayetteville for a place. The proximity of Winston and Salisbury operates so that one of these is certain to go, and Franklinton's favorable position, apart from the other normals, is where its strength lies. In this opinion no calculation is made upon the work done by these normals.

The Board will meet again on the twenty-first of July, and at that time the matter will be taken up and the treaty will be of the anxious bench.

The Aberdeen and Rockfish.

It is said that the Aberdeen and Rockfish Railroad, which now runs trains on regular schedule to within miles of Fayetteville, is one of the best paying little roads in the country.

It certainly runs through a splendid territory. Our people should make strenuous efforts to induce the road to extend to Fayetteville at least.

Some time ago Rev. P. R. Law had the following in the Lumber Bridge correspondence of the Lumberton Robesonian:

It is reported that the Aberdeen and Rockfish road has been sold to capitalists, who have a charter to build a road from Fayetteville to Concord. This road lies in part in Robeson. At its elbow it is within about six miles of Lumber Bridge. At this point its course is changed abruptly, making almost a right angle and runs across Big Rockfish over into Cumberland and has its terminus near Galatia church. Should the report of the sale be confirmed it would be profitable to Robeson in general and many people in particular to have the road extended in the general direction it runs, from Reelord, down to Dandarrash and on to Lumberton. The distance then from the far upper end would be cancelled and the tedious and fatiguing rides of suitor's witnesses and others would be obviated. We trust there will be a general uprising in behalf of this enterprise, should the occasion be presented. Meanwhile we shall watch with interest all the developments of the new road.

Death of a Former Fayetteville Lady.

By telegram to the Observer: Seabright, N. J., July 10—George O. Erhart, private secretary to George A. Erhart has a fractured skull and the groom is suffering from a fracture of the legs and arms.
