

Adjutant General T. R. Robertson, of the North Carolina National Guard, just week issued commissions to J. Wash Bizzell as successor to J. A. Daughtry as captain of Company B, Second Regiment, Goldsboro, and to J. S. Lewis as first lieutenant and J. T. Dorch as second lieutenant of the company, succeeding respectively J. W. Bizzell and J. W. Sadder.

Last week General Order No. 6 was issued by Adjutant General T. R. Robertson, of the North Carolina National Guard, officially announcing the death of Theodore H. Bain, Inspector General of the Guard. The order closes with the following tribute: Colonel Bain entered the military service of North Carolina in 1877, and continued as an active member until the day of his death, which occurred at Goldsboro, Oct. 8, 1906. During all the years of his connection with the guard he was true to every trust, and devoted his best days in helping build up the guard and put it on a good footing. He served faithfully in every position to which he was appointed, and his example of duty well performed is a proud legacy to those who come after him.

What is the matter with the dear old town clock? It is not striking these days. It still mows its crop of seconds and minutes, and records the hours with undeviating regularity; but, while its hands move, its tongue is silent. Have the battles of the Conservatives and the Iconoclasts, raging of late about and around and below it, stricken it dumb? And does it refuse to "cackle?"

Among the many notable and admired articles on exhibition in Floral Hall at the fair was a knit quilt, as soft and fine as silk, of tasteful and unique design, containing tens of thousands of stitches, which attracts much attention. It was the work of Mrs. U. C. Myrover, aged 88 years, living on Haymont, still bright of mind and of cheery disposition, and in excellent health.

About seven hundred people were the guests of the North Carolina Military Academy, at Red Springs, Monday, the occasion being the first term visitors' day. The orchestra, under the direction of Capt. Cornell, gave a brilliant concert at 10 a. m.; the members of the three societies rendered an entertaining programme at 2:30 p. m., and all cadets from 3:30 to 5 p. m., gave a military exhibition, which for precision, promptness and attention to detail has rarely been equalled. In the individual competitive drill, Melzar Fearwell, of Wilmington, carried off the honors.

The funeral of Robert C. Belden took place from St. Peter's Protestant Episcopal Church, this city, to-day, Rev. R. A. Foote officiating. The pallbearers were C. W. Millholland, H. B. Grant, David Gilliam, Thomas Gilliam, R. P. Wooten and Wilbur Kinsey. Mr. Belden was a native of North Carolina, his father, Simon Belden, having settled there from Connecticut. Robert C. Belden was born in Fayetteville, N. C., April 28, 1811. He was twice married, his first wife being Miss Hilma Walker, of North Carolina, and his second wife, Miss Catherine Smith, of North Carolina, who died in 1902. After her death Mr. Belden came to Hillcott city and took up his residence with Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Martin and Mrs. Martin's sister, Miss Lillie W. Gilliam, both of whom were nieces. Dr. R. W. Gilliam, of Baltimore, is a nephew.

CUMBERLAND FAIR.

Bright Skies and a Happy Crowd. Side Shows Do Big Business.

The Races.

There is a touch of autumn, after all, in the stony heart of the Weather Observer; and to-day "Beauregard" is no longer Secretary of War, as his rancorous voice and thunderous brow denied yesterday, but is as genial as the mid air about him, while his eye is as clear as "the blue" over his head.

From 10 o'clock the people from the near-by country began to come in carriages, buggies, wagons, carts and on horseback; so that by 12 o'clock, with the large numbers arriving by the trains, the town was pretty full and the Fair grounds and buildings even fuller (no reflection on either intended). The weather was everywhere inspiring. The pretty women wore their gay apparel without having to carry an umbrella up the sleeve; the fairer cutlery on the grounds gleamed in the sunshine so brightly that you were tempted to believe that one of the pocket knives would cut a bar of soap, and his brass-headed walking canes seemed "worth their weight in gold;" and there was a melodious jingle in the side-showman's music:

"Since Mary Ann has learned to dance, I don't know what to do; She's out all night till the broad daylight. A-tripping the Ti-Ra-La."

The exhibit is good and fairly numerous in all the departments, and many articles in Floral Hall are very artistic and beautiful. In a word, the older citizen, as he strolls over the grounds, is transported back to the halcyon, before-the-war days of the Cumberland County Agricultural Society, when the town people, as well as those from the country, shut up the house, and took the family, with a packing trunk full of dinner, out to the Fair; when some public magnate came all the way here to deliver a stilted oration (which few heard); when the great McIntyre blaze-faced bay horse reigned supreme on the track, a very "Flying Childers;" when the crowning apotheosis of the whole festival was the grand Fair ball—that was the time before the graceful german.

At 12 o'clock Chief Marshal Armfield and his brilliant staff of assistants, escorted by the Holt-Morgan Band, rode out to the grounds, and the third day of the big Fair was on.

This is the last day of the Fair, and a good sized crowd is in attendance. The weather is fine and everybody is having a glorious time. The races are fully up to the high standard set by those of the two previous days and are attracting unusual interest.

The result of yesterday's races was remarkable, in that they were all won in three heats, the winner of the first heat in each case winning the two next consecutively. The winners were:

First Race—Green Boy; second race, Billy Jackson; third race, Roxey. In the 2.19 race Green Boy won, Sadie Temple second, Carnegie third. In the 2.35 trot Roxey won, Topsy second, Brao third.

In the 2.25 pace Billy Jackson won, Bryan, W. Jr., second, Little Tutts third.

The following are the races on this afternoon:

Sixth Race—2.20 trot. Purse, $200.00.

Seventh Race—Free for all, pace. Purse, $250.00.

Eighth Race—2.30 trot. Purse, $200.00.

The Market House. Facts and Figures, of Raeford, says:

The ladies of Fayetteville arose in revolt when some one suggested that the old Market House site be sold to the Government for the new building, and we are glad of it; for without that historic old building Fayetteville would not be Fayetteville any more, and that old town's sights and tips to it make up the most pleasant memories of the early life of all the older citizens of this section of the State, and that old Market House was the biggest thing any of us ever saw for a long time.

The burned district is rising fast from its ashes, and will be soon be upright in its beauty and strength. Better and handsomer buildings are taking the place of the old ones, and they are well on to completion.

If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had symptoms of breathless, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart.
