Dan Bule Is Dead.

From Saturday's Daily. Mr. D. McD. Buie, an old Confeder ate veteran, died suddenly yesterday about 12:30 o'clock at his home in Carver's Creek township. He was buried this afternoon at 4 o'clock at McDuffie's Graveyard. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. F. Smith, pastor of Hay Street Meth odist church. A widow and five children survive him.

"Dan" Buie had many friends in this city and county, and not a few in the State at large, as he has been an assistant doorkeeper for the past two or three legislatures.

The Superior Court Adjourns. The April Term of the Superior

The last case tried yesterday was that of John Robert Tew vs. The Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, and a verdict of $75. was given the plaintiff. WATSON MAKES A BIG FIND.

Seizes an Eighty-Gallon Still and 1800 Gallons of Beer.

From Saturday's Daily. Last night Sheriff Watson captured one of the biggest moonshine outfits ever known to exist in this county Accompanied by Deputy Sheriff J. C. Culbreth, he pentrated the wilds of Gallberry Swamp a distance of about a mile and a half from 'Squire John Roslin Smith's, at the very head of which he found one of the most complete moonshining outfits imaginable. The proprietors of the establishment were evidently at their homes taking a few hours' sleep, as there was not a soul visible, although everything was in apple-pie order for the re-commence ment of operations.

In a small clearing stood the still, of the very latest make, all copper, and of eighty gallons capacity. So heavy was the cap alone that one would have difficulty in lifting it. Surrounding the still were eight big stands, containing eighteen hundred gallons of beer, just about in the right condition to be turned into corn whisky. Near by was a large driven pump and in a thicket was found a pen containing thirty or forty beer-fed hogs. Placed in an orderly manner about the still, were forty or fifty big jugs, kegs and barrels, waiting to be filled. There were also several barrels of dried peaches, ready to be turned into peach brandy. Scattered about in different places were found twelve suits of overalls several lanterns and innumerable utensils of all sorts.

The sheriff and Deputy Culbreth took possession of the still, spilled all the beer they could, and returned to town, reaching here after midnight. The other stuff they did not disturb. It was ten o'clock, when the officers, after wading knee deep through the swamp, ran upon the still, and as it was as dark as Egypt, it was no pleasant job.

The thirsty in Rockfish township will have to remain thirsty for a while, we guess, or patronize some moonshiner not so handy.

Downing, F. A. Geddie, C. B. Tyson, H. McBuie and R. L. Holland. Mr. J. F. Crews, of this city was chosen one of the jurors.

The most important case tried vesterday afternoon was that of Louis D. H. Jones, of Fayetteville, son of a once well-known hotel proprietor of this city, and who, while acting as runa, lemon elixir, pure alcohol, Hoyt's registrar, and Walter Bullard and C. transfer mail clerk, committed a number of netty robberies. H. L. Cook, against the Telephone and Telegraph Esq., his attorney, submitted and made a strong plea for mercy. The judge sentenced him to one year in the Atlanta prison. He has been in jail here for a long time. It was thought that his plea would be insanity, but one year in prison is no doubt better

Though the attending physician did not think him sufficiently cured to cut There will be twenty cases in all off his supply of whisky altogether, shape when a nurse took him his breakfast shortly before seven o'clock. He was in bed and undressed. She had hardly stepped out of the room when she heard him shout for help, and rushing back into the room she found him gone.

Mr. J. A. Colvin, who happened to be standing on the opposite side of the street, was the sole witness of the tragedy. He heard some one shout for help and looking up, he saw a man in night clothes swing out of a third story window of the hospital, holding on to the window sill with one hand. He struggled a little while and with a last shout for help let loose his hold and fell to the payement. nearly forty feet below, with a heavy thud.. It all happened in a second, and Mr. Colvin could but stand amazed and look on.

It is possible that he fell from the W. S. Maultsby, W. A. Maultsby, Ira window from the fact that he tried to save himself, though it is more likely that he imagined that he was being pursued and while under this illusion leaned from the window.

Mr. Sherwood Is Dead. From Tuesday's Daily.

Mr. J. L. Sherwood, who yesterday morning jumped from a third story of the Highsmith hospital, to the pavement nearly forty feet below, ment of money order funds; Robert | died at six o'clock yesterday afterpoon, without recovering consciousness.

His remains were taken from here to Fork, S. C., by a delegation of friends from South Carolina, who came up on the noon train yesterday, after learning of the terrible occurrence.

His friends say that he had been drinking hard for the past twelve months, which would account for his extreme nervous condition.

However, it was but a second after the nurse had left the room, and after he had eaten his breakfast and told her he was going to sleep (the nurse had been reading to him some time before brakfast), that he leaped to the window, broke through the wire screen, and shouting that something was after him, swung out of the window, and held on to the sill. It was at this moment that Dr. Highsmith thinks the unfortunate man came to himself, and shouted for aid when it was too late. It may be a blessed thing that the nurse was not in the room at the time, for he might have picked her up and carried her with him out the window. He was a large, powerful man, and a most generous, good-hearted one, says Dr. Highsmith. There was no previous indication that the man would do anything rash, and his hallucinations seemed to be of the mild, tractable kind. The deceased was an unmarried man about 37 years of age.
