Parkton High School.

From Saturday's Daily. Mr. W. M. Walker, who returned last night from attendance on the Commencement exercises of Parkton High School, of which Prof. Preston Stamps is the efficient principal, speaks in high terms of the entertainment as reflecting great credit on both teachers and pupils. Notable features of the programme were the address of Mr. T. N. Ivey and the presentation of medals by Mr. B. T. McBryde. Mr.-Walker says that the crowd was very large, and the deep interest manifested was that of a thrifty community alive to the importance of education.

TERRIBLE AFFAIR AT HOPE MILLS SUPERIOR COURT

The Chief of Police and Man Shot

Hope Mills No. 1 was the scene of a terrible shooting affair Saturday afternoon, which resulted in the wounding of the chief of police and the probably fatal shooting of a young white man. Chief of Police Alex. Arnett, arrested Will Gales, a young factory hand, for being drunk and disorderly, and carried him before Mayor James A. Bynum. The boy's father offered to give bond, for his appearance before the Mayor Monday morning, and started home with him. They had gotten only a few hundred yards from Police headquarters, when young Gales drew a revolver and began firing, and, some of the witnesses assert, shot at his father. When Policeman Arnett appeared in sight, Gales opened fire on him, running in the opposite direction as he did so. Arnett returned the fire, and Gales fell. When one of the bystanders reached him he was attempting to reload his pistol, as he had exhausted every shell.

The wounded men were carried to their respective homes and then the extent of their wounds were ascertained. Mr. Arnett was struck twice, one ball lodging in the right arm, and the other in his left hip. Neither wound is thought to be fatal. Young Gales fared much worse, though he was hit only once. The bullet entered his back just between his shoulders, making a wound that he physicians fear will be fatal.

The Forest Reserve.

The Asheville Citizen contains the following interesting paragraph:

"Mr. Rheinhardt, of Jaskson county, is not only a farmer, but is interested himself to some extent in re-foresting. Several years ago he realized that sooner or later marketable walnut lumber will be a very scarce article. and forthwith he began to re-forest. He now has a great quantity of young walnut trees. He also has a large grove of locust. 'While I shall probably not live to realize from the walnut and locust groves,' he said, 'my children will. Both locust and walnut wood is fast disappearing from west ern North Carolina. Why, I remember twenty-five or thirty years ago we sold great walnut trees for $1 and $2 each. Now these trees would be worth anywhere from $75 to $150 each. Some of the walnut trees that I set out twenty years ago are now 12 to 13 nches in diameter and in a few more years will be ready to market'."

If the hand protective and preservative does not in some degree keep up domain will in time, and not very distant time, be laid a barren waste. The Favetteville reader can see it for himself, allaround the city and all through the country. To paraphrase slightly (and reverently), "Paul may plant and Apollos water," and God will surely "give the increase." If the farmer and the property owner would be, like Mr. Rheinhardt, as quick to plant as he has been to cut down, coming generations would reap the benefit.

The reporter has been informed by more than one land owner that, where the stock law is in force, the seedling pass and larceny, nol pros. long-leaf pine, no longer a prey to roaming hogs, springs up thickly, in spite of the contention that the tree will not reproduce itself from the seed.

IN SESSION

FOR TRIAL OF CRIMINAL CASES ONLY.

As Judge, Hon. C. C. Lyon Makes His First Appearance.

From Monday's Daily.

The May term of the Superior Court of Cumberland County, for the trial of crimina leases only, convened in this city to-day, with Judge C. C. Lyonon the bench. This is not Judge Lyon's court, as he is now on the Sec ond District circuit, but he kindly con sented to hold this term for Judge Webb, who is now holding the courts in this district, but whose presence is required elsewhere.

This is the first court Judge Lyon has held in Cumberaind since his ele vation to the bench, and just before court met he received the congratula tions and best wishes of the members of the Bar and court offices, with whom he became very popular during his term as solicitor.

Judge Lyons's charge to the grand jury was able and exceedingly lucid and made a most excellent impression on all those who heard it.

The grand jury was chosen as fol
