MONUMENT AT MOORE'S CREEK

Unveiled To-Day.

Moore's Creek, Aug. 15 .- A splendid nonument to the heroic women of the Revolution was unveiled here to-day. Rev. A. D. McClure opened the exercises with prayer. The monument was formally presented by E. H. Hawes, Jr., and was accepted in a graceful speech by Mr. J. F. Moore, president of the Monument Association.

The monument was then unveiled by Miss Lillian Colvin and Miss Kate Bonneman in the presence of a very large crowd of cheering people. The handsome shaft was then decorated by thirteen young ladies, representing the thirteen original States.

Hon. Charles R. Thomas is now delivering the address of the occasion.

A Good One on the Preacher.

A prominent minister, who arrived here a few days ago, tells a good joke on himself

"Do I look like a preacher,"he ask-When told that he was not too in dress, and lacked the conventional well-fed looking, a little too dudish long face, he laughed and said: "Well, a certain citizen of the town evidently saw nothing about me to lead him to believe I was a preacher, or he was either a very impudent fellow, for as I alighted from the train yesterday and was walking up the platform to look after my baggage, a stranger accosted me, shook hands, as if I was an old friend, and joined me in my walk. When we reached the baggage room, he held out his hand to tell me goodbye, remarking confidentially at the same time, that if he could be of service to me while in Fayetteville not to fail to let him know, especially if I was in need of whisky or beer. I told him that I did not want any just now, but would let him know if I did. I have not placed my order with him yet. Evidently I do not look like a preacher to the blind tiger men."

Judson News-Tax Listing.

We have been having plenty of rain in this section, and the farmers are in a pretty bad condition. The crops are spotted and badly behind time. The crops are beginning to get grassy, too wet to plow and some of the farmers will have to lay by in the grass. The farmers are getting pretty blue over their crops. The cotton crop is four or five weeks behind time. I have not learned of a single bloom in this section. There are generally blooms in this section the middle of June. I think it will be about two weeks before many blooms will be seen. I think a half a crop of cotton for 1907 will be about the top. 1907 has been a tough year for the farmers. There was a terrific wind in this section on yesterday evening up near Idaho. It blew down Freet Bryant's wagon shelter and wrecked his stable and it blew down some 'phone pole and broke and tangled the corn badly. Tax Listing in Cumberland.

It fell my lot to be one of the assessors this year. The first place we met was at Hair's store. The De had heard that property would be assessed higher and they came prepared to meet us, and tell us that their land was taxed all it would bear. We moved it up a little, and there was grumbling done. The next two days we showed up at

THE VIRGINIA & CAROLINA SOUTHERN.

How Convicts Were Obtained.

Several weeks ago the Observer corded the fact that the Virginia & Carolina Southern had received 50 onvicts to aid in the construction of its road from Lumberton to Fayette ville. We thought, of course, that they were obtained direct from the State The Lumberton Robesonian in a long editorial throws a new light on the subject.

Says the Robesonian: "The Viringia & Carolina Southern Railroad is the road now being built from Lumberton to Hope Mills. Mr. J. F. L. Armfield, of Fayetteville, it president of the road, Mr. John Blue, of Aberdeen, first vice-president, and Mr. N. C. Blue, also of Aberdeen, is general manager. Nine miles of this oad have already been laid from Lumberton towards Hope Mills, and 13 miles have been graded. The road will connect with the Atlantic Coast Line at Hope Mills, and the intention is to later extend the road from Hope Mills to Fayetteville. This road will run by way of St. Paul's, through very fine and hitherto undeveloped section of Robeson. It is being built entirely by home capital and it will mean much to this section, and the difficulty of securing convicts to properly push the work is a matter in which the people are interested. "Mr. Armfield, president of the road went to Raleigh in January for the purpose of hiring convicts from the enitentiary authorities. He saw Mr. J. S. Mann, superintendent of the penitentiary, and offered to pay the pre vailing price, $1.50 per day, for convicts, and he urged Mr. Mann to furnish him such convicts as could be spared and were not contracted for elsewhere Mr. Mann replied that it would be in: possible for him to let Mr. Armfield have any convicts; that all the convicts had already been contracted for. Mr. Armfield then requested Mr. Mann to keep the matter before him and to let his road have convicts if there was any possible chance.

"Later, some time in February while he was in the Legislature, Col. N. A. McLean and the Messrs. Blue, took the matter up with Mr. Mann, stating that he was very anxious to hire some convicts, if possible, for some public railroad work in this section. Mr. Mann asked at once if it was the same railroad about which Mr. Armfield had been to see him, and when Col. McLean replied that it was Mr. Mann immediately said that it was impossible to get them, that al! the convicts had been contracted for. Mr. Mann said that it was impossible to break the contracts already mad Col. McLean then went to Governor Glenn and called the matter to his at "About ten days ago convicts to the number of 50 were obtained and they are now at work on the Virginia & Carolina Southern, but, mark you these convicts were not obtained from the officials of the State prison; they were obtained through non-resident contractors-Florida contractors-who charged this railroad 15 pe vance on what they pay the State; n other words, these non-resident con tractors get the convicts from the State—the State furnishing guards clothing and food-for $1.50 per day, and for these same convicts the Vigginia & Carolina Southern Railroad which is being built by home capital tion, must pay these non-resident contractors $1.72% per day, at a total profit of $300 per month for the contractors. And at the time these nonresident contractors hired these convicts to this railroad they proposed to promise any number from 50 to 100."
