School to Teach Art of Eating. By cable to the Observer. Budapest, Hungary, June 1.—It was thought that this city had schools of every description, but it remained for an enterprising lady named Holker to establish a school to instruct our citizens in the general art of eating. Practical demonstrations will be given in table manners, but the chief aim of the establishment is to teach the ignorant how to deal successfully with such dishes as they never heard of before. Examinations will be held at the end of each term, when the students will be required to attack an array of unknown delicacies set before them. Those who undergo the ordeal successfully will obtain a certificate from Frau Holker which will enable them to face any banquet without flinching.

Mr. J. O. Ellington Elected President of Bankers Association.

Mr. J. O. Ellington, cashier and vice-president of the Fourth National Bank of this city was yesterday elected president of the North Carolina Bankers Association, which has been in session in Charlotte. Mr. Ellington returned home today and is receiving the congratulations of our people on the great honor done him, and one most worthily bestowed.

The nominating committee, through Mr. Victor reported the nomination of officers as follows: President, J. O. Ellington; vice presidents, W. C. Wilkinson, J. C. Braswell and L. S. Covington; secretary and treasurer, W. A. Hunt; executive committee, one from each congressional district, as follows: J. D. Biggs, George Holderness, H. F. Pierce, W. H. Jackson, R. G. Vaughan, H. M. McAlister, W. H. Mendenhall, E. S. Peggam, W. H. Wood and J. H. Carter.

On motion of Mr. C. N. Evans, the retiring president was instructed by vote of the convention, to cast the unanimous ballot of the meeting for the officers nominated by the committee. The Charlotte Observer says: "The new president, Mr. J. O. Ellington, of Fayetteville, was called to the front and formally presented to the convention as its president for the ensuing twelve months. Mr. Ellington, with a brief statement of appreciation, took the president's chair."

Mr. Ellington began his business career in the office of his father, who was the distinguished sheriff of Johnston county for so many years; he was also in the law office of Congressman Poo for awhile. He began his career in the banking business as cashier of the Bank of Smithfield, when it opened in March, 1898. In 1902, he resigned from the bank to become secretary and treasurer of the Smithfield cotton mill. In these two positions, held at an early age, Mr. Ellington made such a fine reputation that in 1903 he was appointed State Bank Examiner by the Corporation Commission, at a salary of $2,000 a year.

In that position he won a State-wide reputation and when what is now the Fourth National Bank of Fayetteville was reorganized he was tendered and accepted the position of active vice-president at a salary much in advance of his salary as bank examiner. Recently he was offered a higher salary than he receives now to go with one of the largest banks in the State, but refused.

"A Wise Choice." The Raleigh News & Observer of yesterday contains the following leading editorial under the above caption: "The State Bankers Association acted wisely in electing Mr. John O. Ellington as president of the association. Mr. Ellington is a broad-gauged, progressive and capable banker. He is that, but he is more than that; he is a citizen who is deeply interested in public progress and helps forward every movement looking to the development and prosperity of the State. He does not think that a banker owes no duty except to safely keep and prudently loan the money of depositors, but that he should be a leading factor in the life of his community. Moreover, he does not belong to the cult that takes opinions, political or otherwise, from the banking magnates, but has his own convictions and doesn't think it broad and big to say 'me too' every time some Pierpont Morgan announces some doctrine that would concentrate the wealth of the world in the hands of a few and make them oblivious to the rest of mankind."

"Mr. Ellington is a native of Johnston county; son of that big son of Johnston—ex-Sheriff Ellington; is a cousin of Rev. John E. White, and is as big in the banking world as White in the pulpit, and is cashier and vice-president of the conservative and successful Fourth National Bank of Fayetteville. Before going to Fayetteville, he was State Bank Examiner and made a reputation in that position.

"You may travel all over the world and you will not find two superior men to the retiring president, Mr. Herbert W. Jackson, and his successor, Mr. John O. Ellington. The banking profession embraces today many of the first men of the State, not only as financiers, but as men of ability to lead in every department of business and enterprise."

Strike Situation in Philadelphia Critical. By cable to Observer. Philadelphia, June 1.—The situation in the strike of the street car employes is critical. Traffic is completely tied up. One of the first outbreaks today occurred when strikers' wives and daughters stormed the strike breakers. Down town several cars were raided. Mayor Rayburn said today if necessary he would add 19,000 men to the police force, which has already been increased 12,000. The police are doing all in their power to discover strikers disguised as police who have begun to arrest drivers of wagons and busses, who are hauling people, making arrests on the ground that the drivers are not licensed to carry passengers.

The National T. P. A's. in Session. By telegraph to Observer. Asheville, N. C., June 1.—This morning's session of the National Traveler's Protective Association convention was devoted to hearing reports of the chairman of the national legislative committee and the railroad committee. Both reports were referred to committees. The convention sent a telegram to Vice-President Sherman and to Speaker Cannon, urging immediate action on the tariff bill. John S. Harwood, chairman of the legislative committee, retired after sixteen years continuous service in this capacity.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING.

Nurses Graduate—Dr. Royster's Address.

The graduating exercises of the Highsmith Hospital Training School for Nurses, which took place at the Army last night, was a very enjoyable occasion. The large audience present Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church to hear the baccalaureate sermon preached to the graduating class by Rev. W. M. Fairley, attested the popularity of the preacher and the class as well. The sermon was highly spoken of by all who had the pleasure of hearing the young and eloquent preacher.

At the Army. The Army was crowded last night when the curtain rose and the eyes of the people looked upon a living picture. The stage had been artistically decorated in the class colors, and the choicest out-flowers with a large red Clara Barton Cross in the center. The nurses were seated in a semi-circle on the rostrum with the graduating class in front as follows: Misses Thames, White, Watson and McDiarmid.

Miss White received a gold medal for having made the highest average in her studies during the three years' course. Dr. W. S. Jordan introduced the speaker of the evening, Dr. H. A. Royster, in a short but appropriate speech. Dr. Royster sustained the high reputation which he enjoys as a public speaker. He placed the trained nurse on the high plain to which she is entitled, second only to the physician.

Dr. J. V. McGougan presided with grace and ease. Dr. J. F. Highsmith made a fine speech in presenting the diplomas to the members of the class. He pointed them to the Great Physician as their best friend to help them in the trials which will come to them in their chosen profession.

Dr. Seavy Highsmith presented the class pins in a very happy manner. The music was of a high order, and delighted the audience throughout the evening. There is nothing better than the LaFayette Theatre Orchestra with Miss Anna Maloney at the piano. The violin obligato by Miss Pearl Cobb was superb. The singing of Misses Osborne and Leitha Lancaster and Messrs. Highsmith and Haigh delighted everybody, and they were encored.

After the exercises at the Army several hundred people attended a reception at the Highsmith hospital, which proved to be one of the most enjoyable ever attended in this city. The members of the graduating class received many handsome presents and congratulatory on her class and the success of the entertainment.

The programme was as follows: Presiding Officer—Dr. J. V. McGougan. Invocation—Rev. L. E. Thompson. Music—"Happy Days" Miss Leitha Lancaster. Violin Obligato—Miss Pearl Cobb. Address—Dr. Hubert A. Royster. Presentation of Diplomas—Dr. J. F. Highsmith. Music—"Don't Cry My Honey" Misses Osborne and Lancaster; Messrs. Highsmith and Haigh; Miss Cobb accompanist. Presentation of Class Pins—Dr. S. Highsmith. Music—Orchestra Benediction.

WARD'S FOUNDRY BURNED. One House Partially Destroyed and Others Caught. From Saturday's Daily. Ward's foundry, the big wooden building on Hillsboro street at the railroad junction, was destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock this afternoon, with all its contents. The loss is several thousand dollars with no insurance.

This building was erected by Mr. Ward twenty years ago and here he has operated a foundry ever since. He made a plow here that gained a reputation in many states. The efforts of the fire department were confined to preventing the flames from spreading but the fire was so fierce that one small house nearby, occupied by a negro, was partially destroyed, while one or two others caught fire, but the flames were promptly subdued. No fire hydrant being within reaching distance, water from the Fayetteville Ice and Manufacturing Co.'s hydrant was used.

Mr. Ward's Loss. From Monday's Daily. The loss of Mr. Thos. Ward in the destruction of his foundry Saturday afternoon is a very heavy one and though Mr. Ward himself is unable to approximately estimate it, it is way up in the thousands.

This plant had more floor room, 33,000 square feet, than any foundry in the State and was filled with complete and partially completed products. The sawmill, connected with and adjoining the foundry was not materially injured. Mr. Ward says that he will rebuild his plant, but probably not on the same site as his increasing business requires a larger area. His loss in patterns is especially great, though some of them are intact. There was no insurance whatever on the plant.

Workmen's Dwelling to Cost Two Million Dollars. By cable to the Observer. Rome, Italy, June 1. The municipality of Rome has let a contract for the erection of workmen's dwellings, which will cost two million dollars. The dwellings will accommodate 25,000 people and are to be completed in 10 years. Dave Dixon, Elisha and Heman Wilson, the defendants mentioned above, have been participants in a feud which has been raging in Dixontown in Rockfish township for nearly two years and during its progress, have sworn out at least twenty-five warrants against each other for various crimes including moonshining. The climax came when it is alleged by Dixon the Wilsons came to his house drunk one night and attempted to assassinate him. As will be seen they all got punished, though the Wilsons were found not guilty of shooting into Dixon's house guns, knives, rocks and fence rails have been some of the weapons figuring in this feud.

Report of Grand Jury. The report of the grand jury which adjourned yesterday is as follows: State of North Carolina—Cumberland County—Term of Criminal Court, Convening May 24, '09. To His W. J. Adams, Judge Presiding: The grand jury have passed on 53 bills of indictments, finding 47 true bills and 6 not true bills.

A committee of one member visited the county home and convict camp on Haymont and reported them both in good condition and well kept. We recommend that the old jail at the county home be removed from its present location and be used as a barn to take the place of the one burned. We find 15 inmates in the home.

A committee of one member examined the court house and the offices therein and find the same well kept and in excellent condition. We visited the jail and recommend that the plastering and cement floor be repaired and that it be white-washed throughout. For sanitary reason this should be done at least once a year.

We recommend that toilet rooms be arranged at the court house for women. We recommend that the Board of Commissioners take into consideration the advisability of working women and youthful criminals at the county farm, these convicts to be housed separate and apart from the regular inmates of the home. We recommend that the Board of Commissioners select and appoint some aggressive and reliable citizen on the taxes on lands sold for taxes and bid in by the county and that steps be taken to reduce the number of unlisted taxpayers of the county.

JNO. A. OATES, Foreman. W. J. BYRD, Secretary.
