

E. J. HALE, Editor and Proprietor. E. J. Hale, Jr., Business Manager. L. S. Hale, City Editor.

LIBERTY POINT AND LAFAYETTE.

In Mr. Belden's Reminiscences, from which we make extract below, there is a suggestion of the connection between the spirit which led to the Liberty Point Declaration of Independence and the impulse that led to the changing of the name of the town to Fayetteville in order to honor the most picturesque hero of the war which followed.

In Major Junca G. MacRae's Historical Sketch of Fayetteville (published in the Trade Issue of the Observer of June 27, 1899), the following interesting account of the opposing forces which found expression in Cross Creek at the beginning of the Revolution is given:

The Highland Royalists.

The principal settlers around Cross Creek were Scotch Highlanders. Many of them had been in rebellion as against their reigning sovereign, King George II, who had espoused the cause of Prince Charles Edward, the Pretender, in the memorable battle of Culloden in 1746. They had been totally routed and defeated—the hope of the House of Stewart entirely blasted—the Pretender a fugitive and his followers dispersed. Some were taken prisoners and executed, others were banished to distant parts of the world.

The Governor of North Carolina.

The Governor of North Carolina, at the time of the visit to Cross Creek, she was held in the highest reverence by her countrymen. She appealed to them to adhere to the solemn oath they had taken before leaving Scotland. The appeal thus made by this heroic and chivalrous woman, whose devotion to the cause, enabled her to infuse into the hearts of her loyal subjects, was sufficient to place these men antagonistic to the cause of American liberty and independence.

The Liberty Point Declaration.

In 1775, on the 20th of June, a month later, the Mecklenburg resolves—the men of Cumberland, at Liberty Point, near this settlement on Cross Creek, with the distinction of Robert Rowan at their head, formed an association, pledging themselves to the defense of American Liberty—declaring that the actual commencement of hostilities in the bloody scene on the 19th of April, near Boston, was an unjust cause to drive an oppressed people to the use of arms.

The Name "Liberty Point."

In Mr. Belden's Reminiscences, (published in the Observer of September 28, 1893) occurs the following: Liberty Point is a locality at the angle made by the junction of Bow and Person streets. It perhaps may interest your readers to know what gave rise to the name, or what event it was intended to commemorate.

In Major MacRae's Historical Sketch (quoted from above) the following is given concerning the change of the town's name: In 1783, by an act of the General Assembly the name of Campbellton, was changed to that of Fayetteville. The name was in compliment to that distinguished French nobleman, Marquis De La Fayette, who had so generously aided the colonies in achieving their independence. It was the first town in the United States which had so honored him.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

of man was sealed with your blood in Europe. Your love of liberty expressed you to the persecution of tyrannical and despotic rulers, and the doom of Orléans; but incarceration could not extinguish the sacred flame which fired your bosom. An American youth, of chivalrous feelings, aided in an attempt to rescue you from imprisonment; the attempt was unsuccessful. Oppression riveted her chains, and rendered your confinement more oppressive. Amid all the vicissitudes of your fortune, it is gratifying to us to recollect, that your sufferings always excited the sympathy and on this occasion, induced the mediation of your friend and compatriot, the illustrious Washington.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

ation the orator gave him a cordial welcome, and reminded him that the town was called after him, that holding high position and basking in the rays of royalty he had left all to espouse a strange cause, to fight and bleed for a people struggling for independence; and when at the close he spoke with touching pathos, of his long and rigid confinement at Olmutz in an Austrian fortress, strong hearts were melted, and a strange glow of sympathy shone in the eyes of the audience. The General in response was grateful for courtesies paid him, and pleased that the town was named after him, modestly spoke of the part he had borne in the great struggle, and paid high tribute to the character of Washington; when at the close of the war, and upon leaving for his native land, the Colonies were weak and well nigh spent, but that on his return after three years he had found them united and strong, and predicted a bright future for the Republic.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

Commemorative Edition of today's News and Observer shows that it has more than come back to its proud position of industrial leadership. What has been wrought in this wonderful building is a story of inspiration and is but an earnest of the great things that will be seen within the next few years.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

Clark, in a speech well composed and gracefully spoken and which was highly praised by Judge Clark when he crossed to speak. Dinner was served to the veterans in the city hall by the ladies. The speeches of Judge Clark, Mr. Robinson and Master MacRae will be found elsewhere.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

After the baseball game, the always amusing watermelon contests and water fights by the fire department took place. At 9 o'clock the fireworks illuminated the city, and a more magnificent display has never been seen in this part of the country.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The Observer on March 10, 1825, contained the following very full account of the visit of Lafayette, which occurred on March 4th and 5th: Thursday Morning, March 10, 1825. The pride of all hearts and the delight of all eyes, the illustrious American General Lafayette, arrived here on Friday evening last.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock.

The company rose from the table between 4 and 5 o'clock, when the time had arrived at which the General proposed to leave for the night. He was escorted to the hotel by the citizens of Fayetteville. He proclaimed the following toast: "The Stars and Stripes, the emblem of our country, and the banner of our independence, which are obtained by the blood and sacrifice of our fathers, and the gratitude of our posterity."

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express.

The Editor of the Observer will have the pleasure of transmitting his paper to you by express, if you will send him a note to that effect. He will also be glad to receive from you any suggestions or criticisms that you may have to offer.

Major MacRae's Account.

In Major Duncan G. MacRae's Historical Sketches (quoted from above) the following is the account of Lafayette's visit: On the 4th of March, 1825, General Lafayette, "the Nation's Guest," visited Fayetteville. He was escorted in a carriage by the Mayor, John D. Donahoe, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, who were selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

The Visit of Lafayette.

The great event of 1825 was the visit of Gen. Lafayette. Preparations suitable to the occasion were made, a stand was erected at the east end of the town hall, and the Hon. John D. Toomer, grand father of Mrs. E. J. Hale and Mrs. H. R. Hornum, was selected by the authorities to make the address of welcome.

McD. ROBINSON, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW AND NOTARY PUBLIC. Office: National Bank Building, Fayetteville, N. C. Special attention given to corporation matters, collecting and conveying. Does general practice. Prompt and exact.

The Home School for Girls Fayetteville, N. C.

Will open September 22, 1909. High Scholarship. Pleasant surroundings. Terms moderate for Board and Tuition. This School offers unusual advantages in Music, Art, Languages. Thorough instruction in all branches. Address: Mrs. Fannie Morrow, 623 Haymont, Fayetteville, N. C.

Manzan Pile Remedy

North Carolina—Cumberland County—In the Superior Court. F. H. Townsend vs. Akers Lumber Co. The defendant above named will take notice that a summons in the above entitled action was issued against said defendant on the twelfth day of May, 1909, by the clerk of the superior court of Cumberland county, North Carolina, for the sum of five thousand eight hundred three and 19-100 dollars ($5,803.19) and nine hundred twenty-nine and 71-100 ($929.71) due said plaintiff by account for lumber manufactured into lumber under contract, and under contract for hauling lumber, which summons is returnable to the August term of the superior court of said county, commencing on the first Monday before the first Monday in September, 1909.

FAYETTEVILLE MARKETS

Table with market prices for various goods including Flour, Meal, Bacon, Lard, etc.

FOR SALE.

We offer for sale the entire equipment and business of The McNeill Bakery Company. A personal investigation will show this to be a most desirable opportunity to secure a well established, paying business at a fair price. Only Bakery supplying the wants of 15,000 to 20,000 people. Up-to-date in every particular. Cumberland Cafe and Ice-Cream Parlor included. Satisfactory reasons given for selling. Every opportunity given any prospective purchaser to see every detail of the business and its value as a paying and profitable investment. THE McNEILL BAKERY CO., 111 Green St., Fayetteville, N. C.

A Speedy Cure for

Constipation, Biliousness, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Liver Complaints, Tired Feeling, Bad Taste in Mouth, Headache, Nervousness and all diseases of the Stomach and Liver. "Bloodline Liver Pills" restores the deranged and torpid liver to its normal condition and builds up the system. Large doses usually purge and cleanse the system, usually leaving the bowels constipated, and induce recurring the cause of the trouble, or improve the general health. On the other hand, medicine, does not stimulate the liver and prevent the accumulation of bile by directing it to the bowels. "Bloodline Liver Pills" restores the deranged and torpid liver to its normal condition and builds up the system. Large doses usually purge and cleanse the system, usually leaving the bowels constipated, and induce recurring the cause of the trouble, or improve the general health. On the other hand, medicine, does not stimulate the liver and prevent the accumulation of bile by directing it to the bowels. "Bloodline Liver Pills" restores the deranged and torpid liver to its normal condition and builds up the system. Large doses usually purge and cleanse the system, usually leaving the bowels constipated, and induce recurring the cause of the trouble, or improve the general health. On the other hand, medicine, does not stimulate the liver and prevent the accumulation of bile by directing it to the bowels.

Bloodline Liver Pills

2 H. P. 55c. 4 H. P. $1.00. Cash with order. FIVE-YEAR GUARANTEE. WATERLOO GASOLINE ENGINE CO. SOUTHERN BRANCH, Greensboro, N. C.

STATEMENT OF CONDITION

FOURTH NATIONAL BANK OF FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.,

At the Close of Business April 28, 1909.

Table with financial data for the Fourth National Bank, including Assets and Liabilities.

H. W. LILLY, President; JOHN O. ELLINGTON, V. Pres. and Cashier. JOHN H. HIGHTOWER, Assistant Cashier.

Your Business Solicited.

SCHOOL BOOKS

The New Book Store Company, Opposite Post Office, Fayetteville, N. C.