AN UGLY AFFAIR AT GRAY'S CREEK.

A White Woman Attacked and Badly Beaten By a Negro Woman.

From Friday's Daily. News reached this city today of a very ugly affair in Gray's Creek township, which has greatly stirred up that peaceful neighborhood. Mrs. McLeod, wife of Mr. A. R. McLeod, who is superintendent of Hon. G. B. Patterson's farm in Gray's Creek was in the field superintending the weighing of cotton as it was picked by the hands, when a negro woman, wife of Archie DeVane, became ugly over a question of the weight of a bag of cotton she had picked, and flew into a rage, knocking Mrs. McLeod down and beating her severely. She probably would have killed her had not the other negro hands come to the rescue. The DeVane woman fled with her husband, and though a posse has been scouring the country since they have not yet been apprehended.

A Beautiful Home Wedding.

A beautiful home wedding was witnessed by relatives and friends at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Pate in Gray's Creek township, this county, Wednesday, October 20th at 2 P. M., when Mr. B. F. Townsend, of St. Paul, led to hymen's altar their beautiful and accomplished daughter, Miss Alice Alma Pate. Rev. K. A. Pate, brother of the bride completed the wedding party. The groom is a successful farmer of the good old county of Robeson and is to be congratulated on winning the heart and hand of one of Cumberland's fair daughters. The presents were numerous and beautiful. The writer will not attempt to describe the dresses worn by the bride, maid of honor, and the bride's maids. Suffice it is to say that the young ladies were all beautiful and charming, and won the admiration of every one present when they marched into the parlor with their escorts, handsome young men, where the minister and the guests were waiting. Amid showers of rice and congratulations the wedding party left for Mr. Neill Townsend's in the Ten Mile Section, where a reception was given by the friends of the happy young couple.

CROCKETT-McARTHUR.

Pretty Wedding Ceremony at McPherson Church in Seventy-First—Presents.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Murray McArthur and Mr. Horace Guy Crockett took place at McPherson church on Tuesday, Oct. 19th at 7 o'clock P. M., Rev. K. A. McLeod officiated, assisted by Rev. V. G. Smith, former pastor of the church, now of Goldsboro. The bride entered the church on the arm of her brother, Prof. J. A. McArthur, preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Lizzie Lee Currie, and ushers, Messrs. T. J. Currie, Archie Brown, S. W. Tillingham, Starr Owen, S. H. McPherson and Lucy McArthur. The groom was accompanied by his best man Mr. N. S. McArthur. The wedding march from Lohengrin, was played by Miss Elizabeth Rankin. The bride wore a white satin messaline, with garniture of pearls, and tulle veil and orange blossoms; she carried a shower-bouquet of Bride's roses. The maid of honor was attired in pale blue messaline and lace. Her flowers were LaFrance roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a necklace of Baroque pearls and diamonds, and to the ushers pearl scarf pins. A large number of relatives and friends were gathered to witness the ceremony. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens, the pulpit was draped with white and banked with ferns and white flowers, with trailing vines of bamboo and smilax, softly lighted with innumerable candles, the whole beautiful scene brought into relief by a background of pines. Miss McArthur is the daughter of the late Capt. Joseph A. McArthur, of Cumberland county, well known as a successful business man, of high moral character. She was a niece of Capt. Jno. A. and William McPherson. Capt. McArthur was a brave Confederate soldier, a member of the 51st N. C. Regiment; he was wounded, and suffered imprisonment for four months at Fortress Monroe. The McArthurs and McPhersons were among the Scottish pioneers of Cumberland, descended from the McNairs and Murays, the deed to the family homestead is included in a royal grant issued in Colonial times, and McPherson's church was named after its founder, Colin McPherson. To bride herself is a most charming and accomplished young lady. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party drove to town and enjoyed a sumptuous wedding supper at the La Fayette Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Crockett left on the 10:55 train for Boston and other points north, and will be at home in Syracuse, N. Y., after Nov. 1st. They were the recipients of numerous and beautiful presents in silver, cut-glass and brass, tokens of the love and appreciation of their many friends.

TWO CUMBERLAND CASES DECIDED BY SUPREME COURT.

Marsh vs. A. C. L., and Besdole vs. A. C. L., Affirmed. The Supreme Court yesterday evening handed down decisions in two cases appealed from the Cumberland Superior Court. In the case of Mr. James Marsh, vs. the A. C. L. for $50,000 damages for injuries received on the defendant's road in Florida, and which the Superior Court of this county threw out on demurrer, the defendant pleading res adjudicata, the Supreme court sustained the lower court. In the case of Besdole, vs. the A. C. L., who received $2,000 damages for mental anguish, in having to kill a drunken man named Alexon, on the defendant's train to protect himself and other passengers, the Supreme Court also affirmed the decision of the lower court. A digest of the opinion in the case is:

1. Plaintiff went into reserved car for protection against a fellow passenger. The conductor had notice of threats. Passenger followed plaintiff into rear car, and he was forced to kill in self defense. Conductor gave him no protection. Held that evidence by plaintiff as to why he went into reserved car is competent as corroboration to another witness, who stated to the conductor that plaintiff had gone to reserved car for protection. Threats and words of deceased during the fight are admissible as part of the res gestae. 2. Trial Judge refused demurrer ore tenus to section of complaint claiming damages for mental anguish occasioned by having to kill the passenger Alexon. Later in the trial, when evidence had developed the case, he excluded all evidence on that point and told jury not to consider it, and again so instructed them in his charge. Held, that if there was error against the defendant it was cured. 3. The defendant excepted to the following charge: "If the plaintiff is entitled to recover any damages, he is entitled to recover compensation for such injury, past, present, and prospective, suffered by the plaintiff in consequence of and by reason of the assault, including such physical pain and suffering, and such mental suffering as was the proximate, immediate and necessary consequence of the assault." Held, that such instruction was not error, especially as the Trial Judge expressly told the jury not to allow any damages for any mental suffering the plaintiff may have undergone for killing Alexon.

3. The defendant excepted to the following charge: "If the plaintiff is entitled to recover any damages, he is entitled to recover compensation for such injury, past, present, and prospective, suffered by the plaintiff in consequence of and by reason of the assault, including such physical pain and suffering, and such mental suffering as was the proximate, immediate and necessary consequence of the assault." Held, that such instruction was not error, especially as the Trial Judge expressly told the jury not to allow any damages for any mental suffering the plaintiff may have undergone for killing Alexon.

CAPT. J. H. CURRIE RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF STATE FAIR ASSOCIATION.

To Be a Great State Jubilee Exposition Next Year.

The North Carolina Agricultural Society at its annual meeting last night endorsed the suggestion that the society next year hold a great State Jubilee Exposition, a two weeks' Fair and "Home Coming". The Jubilee Exposition will celebrate the semi-centennial of the North Carolina Agricultural Society. The resolution adopted was as follows: "Resolved that it is the desire of the North Carolina Agricultural Society that its fiftieth anniversary be celebrated by holding a State Semi-Centennial Exposition and Home-Coming Jubilee during the autumn of 1910, to continue not less than two weeks. Capt. J. H. Currie, of Cumberland county, was re-elected president of the society, and Mr. Joseph E. Pogue was re-elected secretary. Mr. Sanford was re-elected treasurer. Hon. R. H. Battle declared that the success of the present magnificent Fair had been such that the public eye had been directed toward the present president, and he said he would place Colonel Currie in nomination and take the liberty of putting the motion. Captain Currie said he was aware that it was a great honor conferred upon him, but that he had already served two terms and did not want to hold the office another year. He thought the honor should go to another. He expressed his hearty interest in the movement for a Jubilee Exposition next year, declaring that the semi-centennial should be a great two weeks' fair. Mr. Battle said he did not understand that Colonel Currie would not serve, and placing the motion, Capt Currie was unanimously re-elected.

BURIAL OF JUDGE MACRAE.

Impressive Services at the Cemetery. The remains of the late Judge James C. MacRae, accompanied by the members of the family, and others arrived here after six o'clock yesterday afternoon from Chapel Hill, the train bearing the funeral party being one hour and a half late. PANNING GOLD AND SILK DRESSES.

What is the affinity between silk dresses and "panning" gold, we do not know, but two illustrations of the connection between them is given below. A Fayetteville "boy," who has been superintendent of a gold mine in Northern California for a number of years past, was on a visit to his old home recently, and among the many interesting things which he told of life in that distant land (10 days from Fayetteville if you hit all connections) was a description of the fascination of the Indian squaws for fine silks. There is a supply store connected with the mine and ranch, and when he took charge, nearly ten years ago, only common goods were kept at it. By a system of "square dealing" with the natives, the management has lifted them in morals, finances and art. The superintendent instructed the storekeeper to add silks to his stock of calicoes. At once the squaws began to buy silks, when their gold panning put them in funds, and, now, not only will they buy nothing less costly than silks but nothing less costly than articles of luxury than $3 per yard. Amused as well as gratified with the success of this experiment, our superintendent instructed the storekeeper to try high grade teas and mocha and Java coffee, instead of the common kind formerly kept. Now, the Indians will buy nothing inferior to those articles of table luxury.

It all seems funny enough, but here comes the Charlotte Observer of Saturday with the following narrative, which supplies a very interesting coincidence with our story: Silk Dresses. Those two old ladies in Catawba county who used to go out every fall and pan enough gold from the sand in the bed of a creek which ran through their farm to buy a silk dress for each must have been very extravagant in their manner of wearing silk or else must have had quite a number of dresses of that costly material at the time of their deaths. In the days when it is said they used to pan their gold in their farm branch the women in this section of the country considered themselves fortunate to own one silk dress at a time and that one was expected to last almost for the owner's lifetime. Such a thing as getting a new one every fall was never heard of, and was not considered at all necessary even by those who could afford it. Why, in those olden days, silk dresses not only lasted a lifetime, but were handed down from generation to generation. Many a debutante appeared at her first ball in grandma's wedding gown made over and was proud to let the fact be known.

(The Fayetteville boy, referred to above, is Mr. Frederick T. Hale.) MR. W. H. BRITTON DEAD. Was One of Cumberland's Sons Dispersed Abroad. From Saturday's Daily. It is genuine old Peruvian Guano. Old farmers of Virginia and the Carolinas recall the splendid crops grown with Peruvian Guano years ago. No fertilizer discovered has ever equaled it for producing enormous yields. Your land probably needs just such a soil improver.
