The serious consequences. In two crossings ail our supplies were safely landed on the north shores, and from there the lead had a more picturesque effect.

For a time this huge separation in pack was a mystery to me. At first sight there seemed to be no good son for its existence. Peary had nd a similar break north of Robeson channel. It seemed likely that what we saw was an extension of the same lead following at a distance the general trend of the northernmost land

This is precisely what one finds on a smaller scale wherever two ice packs ne together. Here we have the pack of the central poinr sea meeting the land ice. The movement of the land pack is intermittent and usually along the coast. The shallows, grounded ice and projecting points interfere with a central pack is quite constant and almost in every direction.

The tides, the currents and the winds each give momentum to the floating mass. This lead is the breaking line between the two bodies of ice. It widens as the pack separates, narrows or widens with an easterly or westerly drift, according to the pres- irregularities on cloudy days. The sure of the central pack. The darkened or smoky glasses, blue glasses and ordinary automobile goggles had all been tried with indifferent results. They failed for one reason or ficient range of vision or a faulty construction, making it impossible to pro-ceed more than a few minutes without removing the accumulated condens

This trouble was entirely eliminate in our goggles. The amber glas screened only the active rays which injure the eye, but did not interfere with the range of vision. the season when the pack is little crevassed and not elastic it is probably wide; later, as the entire sea of ice es active it may disappear or thift to a line nearer the land,

New Ice Stops Drift. In low temperature new ice forms rapidly, and this offers an obstruction to the drift of the old toe. As the heavy central ice is pressed against the unyielding land pack the small ice is ground up, and even heavy floes are crushed. This reduced mass of small ice is pasted and cemented along the shores of the big lead, jeaving a broad band of troublesome surface as a serious barrier to sled travel. Land Clouds Still Visible. March 24 gave our position as latitude to degrees 31 minutes, longitude 96 degrees 27 minutes. The land clouds degrees 27 minutes. The land clouds of Grant Land were still visible, and a low bank of mist in the west occa-sionally brightened, offering an outline suggestive of land. This we believed to be Crocker Land, but mist persist-ently screened the horison and did not offer an opportunity to study the con-warmth to our chilled horizon of blues. So thoroughly were we in love with worn while asleep, with the double object of screening the strong light which passes through the cyclids and, also to keep the forebead warm.

On this murch in the early part of the afternoon the weather proved good and the ice, though newly crevasse start spread our day's work close to the chill of midnight, and before we were quite ready to camp there were signs of another gale from the west. Little sooty clouds with ragged edges scurried along at an alarming pace, and beyond a buge smoky bank blackened the pearly giltter.

Suitable camping ice was sought, and in the course of an hour an igloo was built. The structure was built stronger than usual. Double tiers of blocks were placed to the windover the top to cement the blocks. The dogs were fastened to the lee of hummocks, and the sleds were securely lashed and fastened to the ice.

We expected a hurricane and had Before we were at rest in our bugs the wind brushed the snows with a force inconceivable. The air thickened with rushing drift. In a few moments the dogs and sleds were buried under banks of snow and great drifts en-circled the igloo. The comented blocks of our dome withstood the sweep of the blast very well, but many small holes were burrowed through the snow wall, permitting some drift to enter.

wall, permitting some drift to enter.

Early in the coording, after a rush of but a few hours, the storm ceased as suddenly as it came and left a stillness which was appalling. The dogs soon began to how! desperately, as if attacked by a bear, and we rushed out, seeking guns, but there was no approaching creature.

It was a combined signal of distress. The storm driven snows had buried and bound them in unyielding frost.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fasthoned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or siling nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside narve." When these nerves fall then those organs must surely faiter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days' test will surely tell! Sold by B. E. Sedberty's Son.

It was too early to start, so we disrobed again, slipped into the bags and sought a quiet slumber. A few hours later we were rudely awakened by loud explosive noises.

Looking about, nothing unusual was letected about the Igleo, and a peep eigh the eye port gave no cause for the disturbance. It was conthat the ice was cracking from the sudden change of temperature in quite the usual harmless manner, and we turned over to prolong the bag comtering noises, with which the ice quivered. Ahwelah arose and said that the house was breaking. I turned to rise and sank into a newly formed crevasse, which up to that moment was bridged by snow. A man in a bag is a helpless creature, and with water be-low and tumbling blocks of anow from above pressing one deeper and deeper the case was far from humorous at a temperature of 48 below.

Still, the boys laughed heartily. Their hands, however, were quickly occu-pled. Ahwelah grabbed my bag and rolled me over on snow of doubtful ecurity. They then slipped into furs with electric quickness and tossed the things out on safe ice. In the extreme cold the water from

The Bitter Cold.

In starting before the end of the winter night and camping on the open ice fields in the long northward march we had first accustomed our eyes to a frigid darkness and then to a perpetual glitter with shivers. This proved to be the coldest senson of the year. We should have been hardened to all kinds of arctic forment, but man only gains that advantage when the pulse ceases

Far from land, far from other life, there was nothing to arouse a warming spirit. Along the land there ha been calms and gales and an inspiring contrast, even in the dark days and lights, but here the frigid world was felt at its worst. The wind, which came persistently from the west—now strong, now feeble, but always sharp— inflicted a pain to which we never be-
