HENDERSONVILLE GETS MANY 300 COME FROM CHARLESTON

"The excursionists represented the best class of citizens. Hendersonville, N. C., seems to be the most popular of the summer resorts, for more than three hundred tickets were sold to that point."—Charleston News and Courier, August 17th.

The following taken from today's Charleston News and Courier needs no comment:

There was nothing but hurry and bustle about the Union passenger station all day yesterday. Hundreds of excursionists left for mountain and seashore resorts over the Southern and the Atlantic Coast Line. The Southern sent five trains out and the Atlantic Coast Line seven trains. Each train was crowded, and it is estimated that between one thousand and twelve hundred people took advantage of the low rates offered by the two roads. The officials of both roads took care to provide every accommodation for the vacationists. A number of men in the Union passenger station yard directed the people to their trains, and each train carried one or more experienced railroad men to assist the train crew in taking care of the passengers and giving such information as might be desired en route. This is the twenty-eighth annual excursion of the Atlantic Coast Line to Eastern mountain and seashore resorts and the Southern's thirty-second annual mountain excursion.

Crowd Larger Than Ever.

It was stated last evening by officials of both roads that the crowds leaving yesterday on the mountain and seashore excursions were larger than any previous year. According to partial statistics available last evening nearly six hundred tickets had been sold at the Southern's up-town office and more than one hundred at the Union Station. Superintendent Murchison, of the Atlantic Coast Line, stated last evening that while he could not say positively how many people left over their road, he was confident that the number would run from 350 to 400. The trains all left on time, and though there were great crowds at the station all day, at no time was there congestion. The excursionists who left yesterday hold tickets good on any regular train until the night of September 2. The excursionists represented the best class of citizens. They will spend from two to three weeks in the mountains of North Carolina and at various seashore resorts. Hendersonville, N. C., seemed to be the most popular of the summer resorts, for more than three hundred tickets were sold to that point.

On Pleasure Bent.

The excursionists leaving Charleston yesterday are strictly on pleasure bent. After months of hard work clerks and office men are off for the cool mountain streams of the "Land of the Sky." For two weeks at least they will be refreshed by mountain breezes instead of electric fans. They will swap the pen for the rod, and instead of scribes will become veritable Nimrods, where the mountain trout is wary and can only be beguiled with a silver hook.

Mr. R. P. Raymond of Baton Rouge, Miss., reached the city last night and will spend several weeks here. Mr. Raymond has the distinction of having played baseball for four years on the varsity at the University of Mississippi, a distinction vouchsafed to few college men.

MRS. BOONE PASSEF AWAY

The many friends of Mrs. J. B. Boone in this city and elsewhere learned with deepest regret of her death early this morning. For several weeks Mrs. Boone had been suffering from a fall sustained on leaving the services at the First Baptist church and this injury with other complications, caused her death.

Mrs. Boone was about 65 years old, a most consistent christian and one of the most lovable and highly respected women of the city. For years she had been a friend of the trust type to all who came to her for aid or sympathy. Never was she call unheeded when this most estimable woman was appealed to for any worthy cause. The community sustains a distinct loss when such a lovable character passes away.

Two sisters and one brother survive Mrs. Boone. The two sisters are Mr. E. F. Cooke and Mrs. S. A. Everett of Murfreesboro. The brother who was a former resident here but now of Winston-Salem is Mr. J. A. Medford. All of these had feared that Mrs. Boone would not recover from the accident and were at her bedside when death came.

SHORT LOCAL ITEMS

Mrs. Rosa Warren from near Riddicksville, N. C., a lifelong friend of Mrs. Boone, hearing of her serious illness came to the city last Tuesday night and was constantly with her until the end.

Mrs. Boone was formerly connected with the Thomasville Baptist Orphanage. Her husband, the late Rev. J. B. Boone having charge of the orphanage for several years.

The funeral services will be conducted at the First Baptist Church tomorrow at 11:30 o'clock by the pastor Rev. K. W. Cawthon.

Mr. A. A. Lynch, of Bolton, N. C., sales manager of the Waccamaw Lumber Co., is in the city and expects to spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Cooper of Wilmington, who are staying at Laurel Park Retreat leave today for Waynesville, but will return to this city the latter part of the week.

M. F. C. Peters, a prominent merchant of Charleston, reached the city and is quartered at the Wheeler for a stay of several days.

Miss Sadie Jacoby of Birmingham, Ala., who is spending the summer here visited friends in Asheville yesterday.

Mrs. William Calvin Chilton who has delighted audiences at the Auditorium for the past two nights by her remarkable stage mimicry leaves this afternoon for her home in Mississippi.

Mr. M. J. W. White a specialty salesman from Norfolk, Va., is in the city for a stay of several days. Mr. White is that he was more fortunate than most of his fellow travelers who were expected to return to Asheville last night because all the hotels had the "S. R. O." sign conspicuously displayed in the lobbies. It is the general belief that they found room in Asheville.

Mrs. G. L. Thrasher and daughter May of Sanford, Fla., are expected in the city Saturday for a stay of several weeks. Mr. Thrasher will come through the country in his automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Milster of Spartanburg, have arrived in the city for a stay for several days.

Dies With Her Sweetheart When Found in Men's Garb Drowned to Be Near Lover.

New York, Aug. 14.—The Oriental freighter Indravelli was tied up at her pier here this morning, after a fast trip from the far east. The most unusual incident of her trip occurred during a week's stop at Singapore, where John Fickle, a Lancashire man, discovered that one of the stokers who had been with the ship for several months was a young woman in disguise. The girl, who was 16 years old, told the officer that she was engaged to marry one of the stokers and had shipped as one of the crew in order to be near him.

As the chief engineer was leading the girl to the captain's quarters she eluded his hold and climbed the ladders, followed by her lover. Reaching the deck the pair hurled themselves over the rail into the harbor, landing in a ruck of sampans and other native craft.

Of the ten most beautiful buildings in the United States—the national Capitol at Washington ranks first in the estimation of critics and the city hall of New York last. In the list are three churches, three libraries, two government structures, one private building. The private residence so distinguished is in North Carolina at Biltmore.—Floating news item.

MRS WESTALL WINS AUDIENCE

Mrs. Emma Westall who made her first appearance at the Chautauque last night captivated the entire audience completely, nor is it to be wondered at that she did. Beautiful of face and form, elegantly gowned, charming in manner and pleasing in every way to the eye, her mesmeric appearance gave promise of excellent musical numbers.

She is possessed of a magnificent, full, rich, deep, clear soprano of wonderful purity and power and her articulation is well nigh perfect. The large audience showed its appreciation and recognition of the artist by unanimous and prolonged applause at the conclusion of each number. Consistently among the encores was one of the most beautiful lullabies ever heard here. The accompaniment by Miss Helena Morris who is a musician of rare ability was all and even more than her numerous friends had expected.

The manager Mr. S. T. Hodges, announced in introducing Mrs. Westall that she would sing each night for a week and music lovers are assured of seven nights of rare pleasure.

Mrs. Westall, the Daily Herald, from Editor to Devil, welcomes you! The prolonged applause greeting Mrs. Chilton on her second appearance on the stage, spoke eloquently of the high appreciation her charming acting has won for her among the Chautauqueans. Her selections last night were of the type peculiarly suited to her remarkable talent. In another field of literature is she much at her best as in the folk lore and dialect of the southern negro. The admirers of the excellent work of Joel Chandler Harris were drawn closer to the genius of this southern man through the reading of Mrs. Chilton. Her interpretation was so fine that one could almost see "Bredder Rabbit" set up on top Miss Meadows' gals an smokin' his big, black see-gar." All the selections were particularly apt and their rendition particularly excellent.

Beginning at 8:30 tonight, Mrs. Westall will sing several "folk songs"; at 8:45, Mr. W. Powell Hale, the impersonator, and a real sure enough cure for the blues will make you laugh and cry and then laugh again. Mr. Hale is a specialty member in this city as the great star attraction of the Chautauque held here four years ago. All who heard him then will welcome this opportunity of again hearing such a brilliant entertainer.

At the Lyric. A large assembly of Asheville lovers took peculiar delight in the several grand offerings presented last night. The evidence of these being quite a number of excursionists in the city was indubitably shown when a casual glance over the audience was taken. All of the visitors were favorably impressed with what they saw for the program was of that variety commonly designated as good. The pictures shown last night were well worth the admission charged at the door and no one could find reason to complain of lack of their money's worth in the way of entertainment. The bill for tonight will be of good things in the moving picture line as well as in the way of jam-up vaudeville acts which thrill and amuse.

Balfour Graded School Opens. The graded school at Balfour in charge of Misses Beam and Jones opened on Monday last under the most auspicious circumstances. The attendance on the opening day and the excellent teaching corps beset a most successful year for this flourishing school. The trustees are taking a vital interest in all that pertains to the best interests of the school and will leave nothing undone that will further the cause of education in this community.

Immediately after a meeting of the trustees Monday, one of their number, Mrs. C. S. Whitaker, invited "them with their wives to adjourn" and his handsome new residence and partake of some excellent home-grown watermelons. They stood not upon the order of going but adjourned "single file" for the feast. All enjoyed the treat and voted Mr. Whitaker a most hospitable host.

Why Advertising Pays. (Boston Dispatch to N. Y. World.) For the first time in the history of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, now in session here, woman took the leading part in the proceedings. Mrs. Helen Mary Shaw-Thomson, of Chicago, said: "The greatest possible testimony that advertising is all economy to the consumer is the fact that a great majority of the women members of the world favor advertised goods. Women are acknowledged to be good buyers. If they felt they did not value the goods, they would not buy them."

WHAT THE PRESS BUREAU DOES TO BOOST HENDERSONVILLE

"Hendersonville ought to appreciate what our publicity has done for them. I think they have the largest crowd the town has known in some years."

The above is an extract from a personal letter received by Mr. T. K. Barrows, manager of the Hendersonville Press Bureau from Mr. James H. Cadde, the editor of the Asheville Citizen.

The Hendersonville Press Bureau has sent out a reprint of a column from the 1500 columns of news from this city.

Some of this stuff, more particularly the "volcano" and the "subterranean river" stories, have been widely copied, and have appeared in every prominent Southern daily paper. The "volcano" story reached many of the northern dailies and is probably still traveling.

Both of these "nature faker" items attracted immediate attention, for they were original, they were well written and interesting.

It is absolutely impossible to tell just how many columns of newspaper space they have filled, but without doubt, many hundreds.

A recent copy of the Jacksonville Metropolitan received here carried the headline, under big headlines on the front page, long after it had been sent out. Without exception every paper handling it made a front page story of it with headlines calculated to attract the reader's immediate attention.

Editorial comment followed the news story. Mr. Norman H. Johnson, editor of the Memphis Journal, when in Hendersonville, recently stated that he had already clipped editorial comment and news stories about the volcano which in his judgment were worth not less than eight times the amount of the town's advertising matter.

The volcano story created more attention in Hendersonville than any where else.

At one time it was talked of by Mr. Barrows to take it completely and absolutely pulling it out of the prospect of a good season. The town was about evenly divided on the proposition, however, and the author of the stories was gratified to live to do it in their "damage."

An interesting "recreation" of the volcano year was then sent broadcast and was generally published.

The "subterranean river" story attracted general attention in Asheville. It was a subterranean river discovered flowing under Hendersonville. No time was lost in informing a waiting world of the fact and it made almost as great a hit as the volcano success.

Those two stories were sent out at precisely the right time to advertise Hendersonville. The value of this publicity to the town is every merchant very boarding house keeper, every citizen interested in his home town and his. Should any effort be made to stop the figures would be startlingly high. It is impossible to raise an amount to repay here to buy a similar amount of newspaper publicity.

To repeat, both these stories appeared on the front page, under big headlines, of every prominent newspaper in the South, almost.

The columns of editorial comment which followed was worth as much as the advertising. The discussion of such advertising methods, a dimension participated in by most of the weekly papers of the state, was also extremely valuable.

new taken from hundreds, follows: The Charlotte Observer: "As one reads that story of the expected volcano up Hendersonville way in exchange after exchange, day after day, one cannot without admiration from the very effective publicity manager in that enterprising town. Such things come only by ingenious work applied in the right place."

The Waynesville Courier: "Hendersonville's publicity bureau never called off a more clever animal than the recent earthquake fake. It has gone the rounds of the press, first as a news story and now it is being humorously discussed as a fake pure and simple."

A BIG DOLL FOR SOMEONE.

A big doll, a very big doll, will be given away free to someone at the Babyland Carnival to be held at the auditorium on August 25.

Every child at the Carnival, whether competing for a prize or not will receive without cost a numbered ticket, one of which will entitle the holder to the big doll.

A Barclay tailor made corset, valued at ten dollars, is to be given away, under the same conditions as above, to some lady attending the show.

The voting contest for King and Queen of Baby Land now stands as follows:

- Queen—Nellie Morris, 250; Josephine Brooks 115; Agnes Wilcox, 100; Edith Hatch, 100; Martha E. Dixon, 100.
- King—Reginald Wilcox, 200; Leon Station, 112; Hugh A. Twyford, 111; Brownlow Jackson, Jr., 110.

Popular Boy, Masonic father—Leon Wetmar, 105.

Popular Girl, O. E. S. mother—Leona Hawkins, 110; Mattie Pauline Brown, 100.

Popular Boy, I. O. F. father—Broadus Stepp, 150; Ralph Jones, 100.

At The Palace. It seemed that every one had heard some intimation of the extra good program to be offered last night and it looked for awhile as if all the people in town were bent on seeing it. A considerable proportion of them did and they got what they expected. The best picture of the lot was the one in which the hidden mine was cleverly discovered. A real lesson was taught in this picture and the words of the poet about a silver lining being behind every dark cloud were emphasized. It happened to be a gold lining in this instance but the change of metals only made the emphasis more marked. A program equally as good and that means one of the best has been prepared for tonight.

Swat the Dog.

Senior News. We note that the matter of disposing of about one thousand worthless dogs, on which the owners refuse to pay taxes, is causing some discussion in Charlotte. No doubt these dogs have consumed enough food to have produced several hundred pounds of pork, and the fact that they are to be put out commission is a matter of congratulation. If we people of the South will just take a sensible view of this dog question and tax them out of existence, much of the money that now goes out of this part of the country for meat and woolen goods would be saved at home. Now that the campaign of swatting the fly is well on, we should begin another and one of more importance—that is, swat the dog.

Will Settle Out of Court, Title to Timber Lands.

Asheville, Aug. 15.—It has been agreed that the case of George W. Anderson against George Curtis, J. W. Howell, et al. shall be arbitrated Saturday afternoon between counsel for the plaintiff and defendants. The case involves title to about 150 acres of timber lands in the Hominy section of the county. Some time ago action was brought by Mr. Anderson restraining the defendants from cutting timber and tan bark from the lands in controversy. Mr. Anderson claiming title to the lands. A suit was instituted and Prof. J. J. Reagan employed to make a survey of the property. This survey is about complete and as a result of the agreement to arbitrate the matter will soon be settled. J. S. Adams and Mr. Coburn of the County Justice were named as arbitrators. They will make their report some time this month.

The excursionists were plainly in evidence last night. Main street presented the appearance of one of the busiest thoroughfares on election night. With the crowd increased by those who reached the city today, it was quite a scene. Miss Julie Cooper of Spartanburg is spending a couple of weeks in the city.
