Sociable.
 An orderly chosen from among the student officers at Ft. Harrison sits daily outside Brig. Gen. Edwin F. Glenn's office door. A different man is chosen each day, and the other day the post fell to the lot of Charles E. Shafe of Indianapolis, says the Indianapolis News. Shafe went on an errand for the general, and returned just after the general had wished to speak to an officer in one of the other rooms and there being no orderly to summon him, had gone after the man himself.

"By George," Shafe commented to the camp adjutant's orderly, a Tenth infantryman, fresh from five years in Panama, "the general did some of my work for me."

"Yeh, ain't that nice, now!" the adjutant's orderly returned. "Why don't you go in there now and do some of his work for him, just to be sociable?"

An Apology.
 "Are you not ashamed to use poisoned arrows?"

"I'm doing the best I can in my limited way," whimpered the savage. "Of course, poisoned arrows only get 'em one at a time. But we lack the mechanical facilities for wholesale operations with U-boats."

WAR PLANTS ARE REGULATED

There Has Been Very Little Direct Management of Business by Great Britain and France, However.

Contrary to the common understanding in the United States there has been very little direct management of business by the governments of Great Britain and France in those countries since the war began, according to a report on "the relation of the government to war industry," made to the National Civic federation by Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks.

There has been, however, Professor Jenks explains, a "rather strict regulation of industries producing or handling war supplies, but virtually no direct management of business outside the regular government arsenals and certain special factories, few in number, built by or for the British government. The power given the British government under the defense of the realm act is outlined in the report as follows:

"To require any work in any factory or workshop to be done in accordance with the directions of the government.

"To regulate or restrict the carrying on of work in any factory or workshop or to remove the plant.

"To take possession of any unoccupied premises for war purposes.

"In actual practice, the government gets its work done:

"By paying liberal prices to establishments for all work done while guarding against monopolistic or other extortionate prices.

"By restricting or forbidding the making of certain classes of goods not needed for war purposes.

"By prescribing rigidly the order in which the various classes of work are to be finished and delivered.

"By regulating through various restrictions the distribution of the supply of labor and the conditions under which work shall be done.

"While the government does not directly manage establishments," Professor Jenks says, "it does tell what to do, determine the order of work, control transport of goods and materials in proper order, forbid workmen who are needed for production of munitions to enlist and forbid trade except under license.

"These regulations," he says, "are enforced by a committee of subordinates acting in a friendly way by unanimous agreement. Their decisions are on disputed questions laid before them, and are subject to an appeal to their superior officers. Their classifications may be put into effect by employers or contractors subject likewise to an appeal. Disputes of all kinds regarding prices, wages and conditions of labor are settled by committees representing all parties."

Literary Battalions.
 In a library we are surrounded by many hundreds of dear friends, but they are imprisoned in these paper and leather boxes, and as they are dressed, like battalions of infantry, in coat and jacket of one cut, by the thousands, your chance of hitting on the right one is to be computed by the arithmetical rule of permutation and combination—not a choice out of three caskets, but out of half a million caskets all alike. Would that some charitable soul, after losing a great deal of time among the false books and alighting upon a few true ones, which made him happy and wise, would name those which have been bridges or ships to carry him safely over dark recesses and barren oceans into the heart of sacred cities, into palaces and temples.—Emerson.

How He Felt.
 The two girls were talking with a young lieutenant who had got a bullet through his arm.
 "And what were your emotions during the first battle?" asked one girl.
 "What were my emotions?"
 "Yes. How did you feel?"
 "Oh, slightly bored." Was the remark

Was Laid Up In Bed

Doan's, However, Restored Mrs. Vogt to Health and Strength. Hasn't Suffered Since.

"I had one of the worst cases of kidney complaint imaginable," says Mrs. Wm. Vogt, 6315 Audrey Ave., Wellston, Mo., "and I was laid up in bed for days at a time.

"My bladder was inflamed and the kidney secretions caused terrible pain. My back was in such bad shape that when I moved the pains were like a knife-thrust. I got so dizzy I couldn't stoop and my head just throbbled with pain. Heads of perspiration would stand on my temples, then I would become cold and numb.

"My heart action was affected and I felt as if I couldn't take another breath. I got so nervous and run down, I felt life wasn't worth living and often wished that I might die so my suffering would be ended. Medicine failed to help me and I was discouraged.

"Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and I could tell I was being helped after the first few doses. I kept getting better every day and continued use cured me. My health improved in every way and best of all, the cure has been permanent. I feel that Doan's saved my life." Sworn to before me, HENRY B. SURKAMP, Notary Public.
