GARREN MEDICINE COMPANY RESUMES TONIC MANUFACTURE

Sales Discontinued During War Owing to Impossibility to Get Materials; to Operate on Bigger Scale Than Ever.

The Garren Medicine Company has made preparations to place its tonic on the market again after sales were discontinued during the war owing to the difficulty encountered in procuring materials.

W. A. Garren, the inventor of the tonic, has been working at it for 20 years. He succeeded in making a preparation which bears the highest endorsement from the best people of Hendersonville. At one time the local drug stores sold at least 100 bottles a month and one store in Jacksonville purchased a $75 lot.

Mr. Garren is not modest in saying that he lacked the capital necessary to push it. "Had I had the capital I would have made Candler look like five cents," he said. Ample financial backing has been secured and Mr. Garren has resigned his position on the police force to give the business his undivided time. A laboratory has been opened near the depot and the making of the remedy from native roots and herbs from the mountains of this section is in process and the public is invited to visit the laboratory and see the manufacture of this popular tonic, now on sale at all the local drug stores.

The bride is a first cousin of the Davis family and has frequently visited in Hendersonville. The following announcement from Sunday's Asheville Times will be of interest:

"A very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mrs. W. B. Marlowe, on Bearden avenue, when Miss Ethel Marlowe and Mr. Therson A. Holcombe, of Candler, were united in the bonds of matrimony, with Rev. T. A. Groce officiating.

"Just before the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Hyrne sang "Somewhere a Voice Is Calling," after which the bridal party entered the artistically decorated parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by Mrs. E. D. Hyrne.

"The bridesmaids, Misses Lillian and Leslie Marlowe, were the first to enter the parlor, and were dressed in dainty pink organdie frocks, and carried bouquets of pink and white sweet peas. Miss Willie Carmichael, of Hendersonville, the maid of honor, then entered gowned in pink silk, with an overnet of white, also carrying a bouquet of sweet peas.

"The bride and groom left by automobile for Hendersonville, where they will spend their honeymoon. Mr. and Mrs. Holcombe will be at home to their friends after April the fifteenth, at 26 Bearden avenue."

GOVERNMENT TO RETAIN MR. FLEMING FOR WHILE

Editor, The NEWS:-

Although the county commissioners of Henderson county have withdrawn their support from the agricultural extension work, the state authorities have decided to retain the services of Mr. Fleming as county agent for the present. This action is taken because of work that was started last year due to war conditions which still needs supervision. Just as soon as it is practical Mr. Fleming will be transferred to other work and the agricultural extension service will comply with the wishes of the people, as expressed by their board of county commissioners, to sever all connections with the state and federal governments in their work of agricultural development.

Yours truly,

JAMES M. GRAY,

District Agent.

Asheville, N. C., April 10.

HOME SERVICE SECRETARY OF RED CROSS TO BE EMPLOYED

Miss Emily H. Walker, superintendent of the "home service" feature of the Red Cross work in North Carolina, met with a number of men and women Saturday and inaugurated a movement for the employment of a full-time home service secretary for Henderson county.

Miss Walker gave an interesting and instructive talk relative to the home service work of the Red Cross and so impressed her audience with its importance that a committee was named to make a survey of the situation with a view to selecting a secretary to give full time to the work.

The home service and civilian relief work of the Red Cross has increased of late, even since the close of the war, and with other features of Red Cross work growing less urgent it was deemed an opportune time to join the national movement for rendering every possible aid to returning soldiers, to their families and to those vitally affected in any way by the war; to the adjusting of claims, pensions and allied phases of relief, etc.

Dr. A. C. Tebeau, Red Cross chairman, appointed the following committee to organize the work: F. E. Curtis, Mrs. J. F. Brooks, Mrs. L. M. Colt, Mrs. W. R. Kirk, Noah Hollowell.

The committee after considering the situation decided that sufficient funds were in hand to begin the work and that it would be partially self-sustaining in Red Cross membership and that the importance of the work would naturally appeal to the people to such an extent that further financial aid could be had when necessary. The committee will endeavor to select a secretary who will be given a free course in Atlanta before undertaking the work at home.
