The crusade inaugurated against the boys under age being on the street after 9 o'clock is having its effect. Saturday morning several who had been arrested by Chief of Police Jackson appeared before the Mayor and were let off with the costs.

In a $700,000 fire at Beaufort, S. C. last Saturday, F. W. Scheper, whose summer home is in Hendersonville, lost very heavily. The fire originated in Mr. Scheper's stables, which were destroyed with his large grocery store and bank. The bank's funds and papers were saved. Mr. Scheper, it is said, is fully protected by insurance.

To correct a wrong impression, it may be well to say that it is not the Toxaway Company which has gone into bankruptcy, but the Toxaway Hotel Company, an entirely distinct organization. The Toxaway Company, who developed and own that wonderfully beautiful country is no wise concerned in the failure.

It has been suggested that a shed for the street sprinkler would be a good thing. It could be constructed at small cost, on the opera house lot, and would preserve that useful article for a long time. As it is now it is exposed to the rain and sun and is being injured thereby.

It is said there's an organization of business men being formed, with considerable cash already subscribed, to employ an attorney who will take up the freight rates matter with the proper authorities.

At the last meeting of the Board of Trade resolutions were adopted thanking the Hustler for publishing the article on corn culture. Members present were also kind enough to pass us a few other bouquets. Capt. Wofford is pleased with the different committee reports and says that the different enterprises on foot are in a satisfactory condition and are bound to succeed ultimately.

City Tax Collector Smith says he wishes to congratulate the Hustler upon two things. One, because there's a new latch upon the front door. Second, because he will not be obliged to sell any personal property for taxes, this year. He thinks this is due to the fact that his notice to taxpayers in the Hustler during the past month has been read and digested by every tax-payer in town.

Mr. J. P. Rickman says he's always glad to get back to Hendersonville, after one of his trips. He says there is no brighter or prettier city anywhere and no town where the houses are kept better painted. The editor of the Brooklyn (N. Y.) Eagle, one of the big papers of the north, spoke of that same thing when he was here, last summer, and said he had noticed that plenty of fresh paint in a town was always a sign of prosperity.

The undersigned begs to announce the sale of his insurance business to Eubank and Eubank. All parties interested are hereby referred to said firm for information or instructions concerning the business covered by my agency.

I bespeak for them the good will that has heretofore been accorded to me and feel assured that the business entrusted to their care will receive careful attention.

There will be a meeting of the stockholders of the A. I. R. R. on Saturday, the 26th. The company was formed two years ago, since when more or less active work has been done to get the scheme into tangible shape. It is said that the prospects now are very bright for the building of the road from Rutherfordton to this city, and at this stockholders' meeting information not heretofore given out will be made public.

The Board of Aldermen and Street Commissioners, with the chaingang, under J. L. Orr, have made a great change in south west Hendersonville. Mt. Hebron street has been nicely worked out within the incorporated limits, Whitted st., to Willow, and also Mud Creek st., to city limits. There are also good sidewalks laid out on all these streets. They are now working on Crab Creek street. Altogether a wonderful change has been made in that part of town, and those who have not seen it recently would hardly recognize it as the same property.

This office has a new door latch at its front entrance. The old one has been the cause of many warm remarks, not always complimentary to the office or the latch, on the part of would-be patrons, and it is recorded in the annuals of the shop that one irate subscriber, with a dollar in his hand to pay his dues, tried in vain to gain an entrance, and went away muttering things which would not look well in print. All this is changed now, and it's the easiest thing in the world to get into the front office, where a receipt will be written for any little amount you may owe on subscription to this valuable paper, or where orders for neat job work are gratefully received. Call around and try the new latch and see how vast an improvement it is over the old one.

Fallen Asleep.

Miss Alice Dunlap died at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. N. Bowen, Hendersonville, on Monday morning, Jan. 21st, 1907, in her twenty-ninth year. Miss Alice was the oldest daughter of Columbus and Rachel Dunlap. She made a profession of religion during the pastorate of Rev. Glenn, and joined the Hendersonville Baptist Church. She beautifully exemplified in her life those christian graces, gentleness, meekness, patience and faith that adorn the christian character. The funeral services were held from the home of her grandmother Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, Pastor A. R. Love officiating. The interment was in the city cemetery. A. R. L.

A Correction.

The members of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian congregations are now holding union prayer meetings, each Wednesday evening, for the rest of the winter. This month at the Presbyterian church, during February at the Methodist, and during March at the Baptist church.

Card of Thanks.

To the many friends of our family we tender our sincere and heartfelt thanks for their unnumbered acts of kindness and untiring attention during the illness of our dearly beloved relative Alice Dunlap. May the blessings of our heavenly Father rest upon them.

WHEN MACAULAY SPOKE.

Then Flowed a Torrent of Oratory and Euphony.

What can be the matter? Doors open, members rush out; members are tearing past you from all points in one direction—toward the house. Then wigs and gowns appear. They tell you with happy faces their committees have adjourned, and then come a third class, the gentlemen of the press, hilarious. Why, what's the matter? Matter! Macaulay is up. You join the runners in a moment. It was an announcement one hadn't heard for years, and the passing of the word "Macaulay's up" emptied committee rooms now as before it emptied clubs; the old voice, the old manners and the old style—glorious speaking; well prepared, carefully elaborated, confessedly essayish, but spoken with perfect art and consummate management, the grand conversation of a man of the world confiding his learning and his recollections and his logic to a party of gentlemen and just raising his voice enough to be heard through the room.

As the house filled he got prouder and more oratorical, and then he poured out his speech with rapidity, increasing after every sentence, till it became a torrent of the richest words, carrying his hearers with him into enthusiasm and yet not leaving them time to cheer. The great orator was trembling when he sat down. The excitement of a triumph overcame him, and he had scarcely the self possession to acknowledge the eager praises which were offered by the ministers and others in his neighborhood.—From Whitty's "Parliamentary Retrospect."

ENGLISH SCHOOLS.

The Flogging Custom and the Way It is Regarded.

About corporal punishment in England two curious facts lie beyond dispute. One is that while the working class and the lower middle class dislike and resent it and will not in general allow their children to undergo it, the aristocracy tolerate it without complaint. The time is coming, one might assert paradoxically, when it will be impossible to flog anybody but the son of a peer. And the other fact is that public school boys have often felt a special affection for the masters who have punished them most.

In Westminster abbey stand side by side the tombs of a master and his pupil. The master was Dr. Busby, who was head master of Westminster school for so long a time as fifty-eight years. Nobody ever flogged so many boys as he. The pupil was the theologian, Dr. South. It is told—I am sure the story is true—that when South came as a small boy to Westminster Busby greeted him with the ominous words: "I see great talents in that sulky little boy, and my rod shall bring them out." If so, he was no doubt as good as his word. But when South lay upon his deathbed it was his last prayer to be buried at his old master's feet, and the master and the pupil now rest side by side.—Nineteenth Century.

The legislature will do well to "let well enough alone" in a good many things that may bob up serenely during the session. There are too many wildcat laws already.

Whose Say-so is Best?

With nearly all medicines put up for sale through druggists, one has to take the maker's say-so alone as to their curative value. Of course, such testimony is not that of a disinterested party and accordingly is not to be given the same credit as if written from disinterested motives. Dr. Pierce's medicines, however, form a single and therefore striking exception to this rule. Their claims to the confidence of invalids does not rest solely upon their makers' say-so or praise. Their ingredients are matters of public knowledge, being printed on each separate bottle wrapper. Thus invalid sufferers are taken into Dr. Pierce's full confidence. Scores of leading medical men have written enough to fill volumes in praise of the curative value of the several ingredients entering into these well-known medicines.

Amongst these writers we find such medical lights as Prof. Finley Ellingwood, M. D., of Bennett Medical College, Chicago; Prof. Hale, of the same city; Prof. John M. Scudder, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Prof. John King, M. D., late of Cincinnati, Ohio; Dr. Groves Coe, of New York; Dr. Bartholow, of Jefferson Medical College, of Pa. and scores of others equally eminent.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures the worst cases of female weakness, profluvium, anteversion and retroversion and corrects irregularities, cures painful periods, dries up disagreeable and weakening drains, sometimes known as pelvic catarrh and a multitude of other diseases peculiar to women. Bear in mind, it is not a patent medicine, but the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated physician of large experience in the cure of women's peculiar ailments, who frankly and confidently takes his patients into his full confidence by telling them just what his "Prescription" is composed of. Of no other medicine put up for women's special maladies and sold through druggists, can it be said that the maker is not afraid to deal thus frankly, openly and honorably, by letting every patient using the same know exactly what she is taking.

Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce, by letter, free. All correspondence is guarded as sacredly secret and womanly confidences are protected by professional privacy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

How to preserve health and beauty is told in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. It is free. For a paper-covered copy send Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., 21 one-cent stamps to cover mailing only; in cloth binding 31 stamps.
