To Rural

Mail Patrons

Winter is now almost here. The rural mail carriers have rather a hard time. The patrons of rural mail routes can help carriers a great deal and not inconvenience themselves much if they only would. I know the carriers will greatly appreciate any help the people will give them and I believe they will repay any kindness offered them for exerting themselves to give a better service.

As to placing money in the boxes to pay postage. Instead of putting the pennies in the boxes to pay postage, buy the stamps and stamp your letters, or put the money in an old envelope, so the carrier will not have to pull off his gloves to get those little pennies out of the box. If you don't think they are hard to get, just get out and cut wood till your hands get so numb you can't feel them, then drop half a dozen pennies in the box and try getting them out.

This is only a small thing to ask yet it means a lot to the carrier who has to fish pennies out of more than a hundred boxes every day. The carrier has always a stock on hand of all kinds of stamps and supplies, and will only be too glad to accommodate you to any amount you may want.

The rural service is growing and we must do all we can to grow with it, and to help your carrier means to help yourselves, as a good carrier appreciates a kindness and will do all he can to help the one who helps him.

Put up your boxes in convenient places for the carrier to get to them without dismounting from his rig. Keep the roads worked out so the carrier can go along without endangering his own life or his animal's.

Take all the county papers and any other good newsy papers and keep posted on what is going on in the world.

Write to your friends, uncles, cousins, sweethearts and all and get lots of letters, be better patrons and make your carrier a better carrier.

We hope all rural patrons will take due note of this and act accordingly.

With best wishes for all we are your best friends.

Organization Needed.

The need of some live and efficient organization of business men in this town was never so apparent as during the sessions of the Presbyterian Synod just ended.

Here were men of the highest standing from all over North Carolina. There were ministers and elders and among them bankers and lawyers of more than a local reputation.

They were all pleased, of course, with Hendersonville and their treatment here. But there should have been plenty of attractive advertising matter ready for distribution amongst them. A carriage drive would have been a fine advertisement for the town, and an official welcome from some such an organization would have been in good taste.

They would have taken home with them some attractive booklets and the results would have been surprising.

As it is, one of them, Mr. Clement, has contracted to buy "Valmont," for $5,000, and one or two others have property under consideration.

These are just the people Hendersonville wants to interest in Hendersonville yet over 200 of them were here and no organized effort made to show them why Hendersonville is the ONLY place in the South to buy property in, to hold conventions in, to spend the summers in, and to send their friends to.

It was a great chance and it's a pity it was missed.

Death of Miss Annie Belle Drake.

We deeply sympathize with the bereaved family in announcing the death of this young lady, who after months of patient suffering, passed away peacefully on Friday evening Oct. 25, 1907, at the home of her devoted Aunt, Miss Malinda Gullick, on South Main st., in this city. Her father, Mr. A. F. Drake, four brothers, Otis, Edward, Ernest, and Oscar. One sister, Addie Chafie of Phila., being left to mourn their loss.

In her twelfth year, Miss Belle accepted the Gospel invitation, joining the Methodist Church and became a cheerful hearted worker in the Sunday School. Her training in High School studies was attended with honors worthily bestowed in recognition of true merit. Having been left motherless in her childhood the sweet faced little girl was placed in the care-taking home of her Aunt Malinda whose untiring kindness proved an unfailing inheritance, increasing in value as the Springtime of youth bloomed into young womanhood. Cheerfulness of spirit seemed always a ready greeting to her many friends with whom she took special pleasure in the comforting story of "Jesus and His love."

Just a few moments before her last breath, when earth's farewell seemed touching Heaven's greetings, in voice strangely clear and sweet she sang, "Jesus, lover of my Soul, Let me to thy bosom fly." Then the chamber was silent. The moment had come, when loving ones, in tears, whispered, "She's gone!"

Saturday afternoon, funeral services were held at the home of the deceased, being conducted by Revs. R. B. Grinnan and G. S. Jones, closing in the cemetery at Mud Creek Baptist Church, where at the side of her mother's, there is a new made grave, mantled in flowers.

Mr. Thomas Shepherd, was in charge of the burial orders, was assisted in the interment by pall-bearers: Messrs. Hershey Stepp, Hal Davis, Ormie Edwards, Winthrop Davis, Charlie Ficker and Amos Bennett.

Deaths at Horse Shoe.

Horse Shoe lost two of her old residents, last week, by the death of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Sitton, aged 88 and 81 years respectively.

Mr. Sitton died on Friday night and wife a few hours later on Saturday morning. The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon, Revs. Battle and Woodfin officiating. Burial was in Shaw's Creek Cemetery.

A great crowd of sorrowing friends and neighbors were present to pay their last tribute of respect to their old neighbors and friends. So large was their number that only a part were able to be accommodated in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Sitton's death creates a void which will long remain unfilled. They were fine examples of all that the word Christian means and hardly a person in Horse Shoe but feels they have suffered a distinct personal loss.

Card of Thanks.

The undersigned wishes to return their heartfelt and sincere thanks to their friends and neighbors for the many acts of kindness extended to them during the recent illness and death of Miss Annie Belle Drake,

In some cases they last longer. They never need repairs. They're fire-proof, storm-proof. They reduce the cost of insurance, and they're easy to lay. They preserve the building, too, by keeping out dampness, so if you want a thoroughly cosy home in winter, and a cool house in summer, you can't do better than see that Cortright Shingles are used for the covering.

Baked Beans

A Food of fine And Riczy Nutrimt

About the only kind that really serve the name of being baked, for they are actually baked—rob, brown, and mealy—as different from ordinary beans as day is from night. It's the best flavor and keeps their nutriment in. Compare them with other so-called baked beans that have had the flavor and food value boiled out of them, and see the difference.

We carry three kinds to suit all tastes—with Pork—with Pork and Tomato Sauce—and the Vegetarian kind, just Beans and Tomato Sauce.

You really don't know baked beans you've never tried HEINZ they're better than the home-made kind, and much easier to prepare than those who know them never think of baked beans at home anymore.
