

Mrs. Evelyn M. Clarke Has Not Disappeared

(Friday's Daily)

Mrs. Evelyn M. Clarke has been located. She is at Sam Hardin's home on the Asheville Drive, and the mystery of her disappearance is no mystery at all.

Mr. Curry did not leave town yesterday morning as stated in yesterday's Daily Hustler, but is still in town. He failed to get his baggage checked in time and decided to remain over a short time, anyhow.

Mrs. Clarke is here for her health. Certain papers pertaining to her husband's divorce suit were sent here for her signature, with a letter of advice from his attorney stating that this method of procedure would result in the least publicity and would require no service of legal documents on her by Sheriff Blackwell.

Mrs. Clarke says she has signed the papers mentioned and below are statements from Mr. Curry and her about this affair, which will be interesting.

MR. CURRIE TALKS.

To a Hustler reporter last night Mr. Currie said:

"I regret the appearance of the story in this afternoon's paper concerning Mrs. Clarke and myself and especially object to the part indicating that she had mysteriously left the place. The simple story is: We went to drive, took dinner at the Gates and then went to her boarding place, where I remained a short while, returning to the hotel alone. Nothing mysterious about that. I fail to see the impropriety of friends going to drive or taking dinner together. Mrs. Clarke lives here, you see, and has done nothing to warrant the intimation that she seems to have faded away like the mist of the morning before the rising sun and no trace of her can be found. She could have easily been found with the least bit of effort. She is here for her health and I came, at the request of friends, to find out how she is getting along.

I intended leaving here this morning, but failed to reach the station in time to have my baggage checked and decided to remain until tomorrow morning. Please say for me that any suggestion reflecting upon the character of Mrs. Clarke is unwarranted and entirely incorrect."

MRS. CLARKE'S STATEMENT.

Mrs. Evelyn M. Clarke, in her own behalf, made the following statement to the Daily Hustler this morning:

"I came here eight weeks ago from my home in San Antonio, Texas, and am living at the home of Mr. Sam Hardin. The object of my coming to Hendersonville was in the hope of regaining my health and I am now undergoing treatment under Dr. Egerton and expect to remain here indefinitely. Am a sister of G. F. Chapel, who has also been living here for quite awhile.

Mr. A. H. Currie came at the request of my people to ascertain something of my condition, arriving at 4 p. m. Wednesday. We are old acquaintances. Thursday afternoon Mr. Currie and myself took a drive and on our return were so unfortunate as to stop at Hotel Gates for supper, where I accidentally dropped a letter, the contents of which were given, by someone connected with the hotel, to your paper and from that comes the story yesterday that does me a great injustice, in that it leaves the impression that I had mysteriously disappeared from the house.

Of course we did not remain at the hotel after supper. I did not stop there with the intention of remaining over night, and went immediately to my boarding place. Mr. Currie accompanied me, but returned to the Gates early in the evening and I saw no more of him until yesterday morning at the station. He expected to go away at that time, but did not arrive in time to have his baggage checked. This is the whole story. I have nothing to conceal. I was surprised and humiliated to see the sensational story in your paper yesterday and simply want to remove the impression made in the article reflecting upon my character as a lady. This done and I am content."

Found--A Baby.

(Friday's Daily)

FOUND--A baby on Main Street. Owner can have same by paying for this notice and identifying property. Apply Hustler office.

If anyone has lost a baby, exact age not known, neatly dressed and very pretty, he may recover same by calling at this office or seeing John Fisher, the young son of L. E. Fisher, who found the infant on Main street yesterday evening.

It was on the sidewalk looking intently at the blue sky and may have been waiting for a street car. It is too young to talk much and so far every effort to get an expression of opinion from it as to the street railway situation here has failed.

It only looks at you with the bluest of blue eyes and maintains the cheerfulness smile--as tho' there was no such thing as a Daily Hustler and trouble in the world.

Mr. Fisher is anxious for the owners of the baby to call and get their property, and will not even charge for this advertisement nor make any charges if the parents act promptly.

Possibly it might do as well to say that the child is made of rubber--it's a doll.

Mrs. Mitchell Heard From.

Mrs. Mabel Mitchell, who with her husband, worked the time-worn old "badger game" on a Hendersonville visitor, recently, has been heard from.

Deputy Sheriff, Tom Conner heard from her and he's sorry for it, too.

You see, it was this way: When Mrs. Mitchell left so hastily after the Daily Hustler had given unwelcome publicity to her method of increasing her income, her baggage was held by the hotel people for a little unpaid bill.

Deputy Conner received a telegram from Mrs. Mitchell yesterday asking him to meet No. 42 with her grips and she would then hand him the amount necessary to settle her hotel bill. So, loaded down to the limit and then some more, the big deputy toted the numerous hand satchels, suit cases, etc., to the depot, and waited, and waited. Finally the train pulled in but Mrs. Mabel Mitchell was not aboard to receive her possessions nor to give the deputy the coin with which to settle her little bill.

No. 13 Is Lucky Say Four Gentlemen

Has the old tradition that the number 13 is, an unlucky one died out? Many of the late articles on the subject have led the readers to believe that this number, of all numbers, has changed its course and is now considered a lucky one.

However, notwithstanding the superstitions of the past, a very remarkable co-incident took place at a dinner table in the Blue Ridge Inn the other day. There were four gentlemen sitting at the table. Three of them were traveling men, while the other was a newspaper representative.

A disconnected conversation had been running along between the gentlemen while busy eating their dinner. One of the men turned to his friend nearest him and said: "A funny thing happened to me last Friday. I started out on this trip that day the 13th of this month and it has been thirteen years, exactly, since I commenced work for my company."

Taking an interest in the conversation at this point another gentleman made the remark that one Christmas he bought a present for a young lady friend of his which he shipped to her by express and when he counted up how much it cost him the price was $13.13. And he considered the number lucky from the fact that he married that same young lady.

Out of the four men at this table two of them were born on the 13th day of the month. None of them were the least surprised about the number and one of the gentlemen continued to relate another experience of his with the lucky 13. He said he was in one of the best hotels in Charlotte one night and every room was taken except number 13. He took this room and says he never spent a better nights rest in his life, than he did in room number 13.

Has Mrs Evelyn Clarke Signed Those Papers?

(Thursday's Daily.)

While her husband, in far off San Antonio, Texas, is preparing to bring suit for divorce, Mrs. Evelyn M. Clarke, who is young, pretty and well dressed, registered last night at one of Hendersonville's best known hotels and there took dinner with Mr. E. M. Curry, of New York.

After enjoying such a repast as this big hotel is noted for, the couple disappeared from sight--absolutely.

Mr. Curry, this morning, paid his bill and has gone his way, but Mrs. Clark, who is young and pretty and who wears her clothes well, has not been seen again.

She seems to have faded away like the mist of the morning before the rising sun and no trace of her can be found.

But, in the meantime, has she yet signed those papers, sent her by her husband's attorney, which will permit hubby to proceed with his suit for divorce?

If she has, Sheriff Blackwell will have no papers to serve on the fair defendant, for the attorney tells her that only in this way may the divorce proceedings be brought without any undue publicity and with the least inconvenience to her.

But where is Mrs. Evelyn M. Clarke of San Antonio, Texas?

Mr. E. M. Curry of New York has gone--but the whereabouts of Mrs. Clarke, altho' she is somewhere in Hendersonville, remains a dark, gloomy mystery.

And in the meantime, the divorce mill is grinding merrily in the Lone Star State, and Sheriff Blackwell has been robbed of his fees--if Mrs. Evelyn M. Clark has signed those papers.

Plain Talks on Fertilizers Increasing and Safeguarding the Wheat-Crop

The use of commercial fertilizers on the wheat crop is yearly becoming more general--proof enough that it pays, and pays well.

Too many farmers, however, use fertilizers without due regard for the special needs of their soils. Often they buy the cheapest grades. Or they use very small quantities.

Mr. R. F. Hyman Here.

"It's the prettiest town I have ever seen. I have not been here in eleven years and simply did not know my old home town."

So said Mr. R. F. Hyman of Lakeland, Fla., this morning. Mr. Hyman left Hendersonville 20 years ago. His old home is now the Hyman Heights property and he spent most of his early days in that fine old building there. Mr. Hyman's first wife was a niece of Dr. Few and their son John, is now in his third year at Annapolis and will soon be a United States navy officer. P. F. Patton, secretary of the Wanteska Bank, is a cousin of his and of course his people are scattered all over this county. He will remain at the Gates for a week or so and next season hopes to return with his family for a longer stay in what he thinks the "prettiest town."
