ONE DOLLAR PER YEAR

HENDERSONVILLE, N. C. THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1909

VOL. XVIII, No. 37

13 More Days of Contest!

Fourteen more issues of the Daily before the Hustler Popularity contest comes to a close. The contest has created the liveliest interest in the city of Hendersonville for the past two months.

Many hundreds of people who would not have done so otherwise have taken the greatest of interest in Hendersonville's only daily paper, especially on account of this contest and the exciting races for that beautiful diamond ring, etc.

In side of the next fourteen days there is going to be some hard working on the part of many of the candidates. To those who have been going gradual-y up at a study gate the past two months will find it an easy matter to increase their standing many thousand in the next two weeks; while those who have been increasing their votes by "spells" will have to "do about" on the handsome bonus offer if they wish to relish the work they have already put on this contest.

In a contest of this kind it takes a persistent person to get the votes and one who will stick to it. We have tried to warn the candidates from the beginning what a terrible thing it is to be a "quitter."

John Hyman, the son of Mr. Frank Hyman, and a third year man at Annapolis, is a guest at Dr. Few's.

The apple editor of the Daily Hustler has tasted and pronounced good the flavor of a great big rosy cheeked and sun kissed Carolina Beauty, submitted to him by Mrs. D. E. Hyder. Mrs. Hyder has taken premiums at both Henderson and Haywood county fairs with this variety of mountain apple.

The marriage of Miss Florence Schaeffer and Mr. E. W. Ewbank will be solemnized today, at three o'clock at the home of the bride's parents, Greenville, Tenn. Mr. and Mrs. Ewbank, after a trip to Virginia, are expected home some time next week.

Increased Postal Receipts

Hendersonville Postoffice receipts for August, 1909, show an increase of nearly 25 per cent over receipts for same month last year.

The receipts for September promises to show an equal increase.

These are official figures, given out by Postmaster Brownlow Jackson, and prove the statement that Hendersonville, this year, had the largest crowd in her history.

But more interesting still is the statement of the clever and able postmaster that the September gains promise to show a big increase, possibly 25 per cent. over that of last year.

These are signs of the times again. No other town in the mountains can show an increase of one-fourth in postoffice receipts.

This town had the crowd this summer—a bigger crowd than Asheville, Waynesville or Brevard. This is but natural, however. Hendersonville is getting to be pretty well known. It is admitted that this town has advantages peculiarly its own—a superb natural location, freedom from fog and dampness and an absence of contagious diseases being not the least of these advantages.

The window came down on Mr. Barringer's arm, throwing it out of joint but not breaking any bones. He was taken up to Dr. Egerton's office and received proper medical attention. When seen on the streets this morning his injured arm was getting along nicely and he hopes to be back in the store in a few days.

To Start Belt Line Before October 1st

Work on line to start Oct. 1st. Total cost of road, $125,000. Citizens asked to contribute $20,000. Line to be six and one-half miles long. Money ready to build as soon as citizens subscribe their share. R. M. Oats to develop 1, 200 horse power for the line and other purposes.

At a fairly well attended meeting held at the court house this morning, where the principal interest centered in the statements of the promoters as to their plans for building the street railway, it was decided to ask the citizens of Hendersonville to subscribe at least $20,000 towards the construction of the trolley line.

Mr. W. J. Massey, Mr. H. S. Anderson and Mr. R. M. Oates, the three men who at one time intended building separate lines, have harmonized their differences and will unite in the construction of a belt line, six and one-half miles long and to cost $125,000.

The citizens of the town will be offered the opportunity of subscribing from $20,000 to $30,000 of this amount, to be taken in six per cent cumulative preferred stock.

Messrs. Henry Jordan, John Orr, F. S. Wetmur and J. C. Reid were appointed a committee to solicit the subscriptions, which are to be paid in installments of twenty percent a month. No subscription is payable until the whole $20,000 has been subscribed and until the bonds for the remainder of the $125,000 have been actually sold. The first payment will be due on Oct. 1st.

Mr. Anderson and Mr. Oates were both careful to state that they were ready to build their lines which would be much shorter than this belt line, at once, and without any aid from the town, but had decided to co-operate with Mr. Massey and help build this more ambitious belt line.

Mr. Oates called the meeting to order. Mr. Anderson took the chair and made a brief address, stating the object of the meeting.

Mr. Massey spoke, stating he came here for summer vacation, with no idea of building a street car line. Said all three interests had been harmonized, however, and if citizens subscribed $20,000 the line would be built. Said the road would pay 6 per cent, was a good business proposition, and that Hendersonville was the biggest town not to have a street railroad that he knew of anywhere.

Said the stock would be paid 20 per cent per month and shares delivered as paid for. Thought this an ideal location for a money making car line and it would be built as soon as the $20,000 had been subscribed. Stated the road would be absolutely first class in every respect, and considered it a first-class investment. The remaining capital was available at any time.

Mr. R. M. Oates said he was in a position to build his road as originally planned, but would now spend his money in developing power for this line. Expected to develop 1,200 horse power for 18 hours per day. John Orr made a rousing talk telling of the advantages of the line.

Henry Jordan, H. G. Ewart, F. S. Wetmur and Capt. Wofford spoke briefly. Capt. Wofford said he was sure the railroad company would have the hearty moral support of the entire community.

The main line will run from the depot to Anderson to Main to Willow to Lake Osceola.

Returning, through Columbia Road, through Columbia Park, to Witted street to Broad street to Main. A connecting link will run on Main, to Academy, to Washington, to Chestnut, to Ewart, to Witted, where it will join the main line.—Mondays's Daily
