ODD FELLOWS WILL BUILD SCHOOL FOR ORPHAN HOME

Annual Session of Grand Lodge in Winston-Salem Adjourn to Meet Next Year in Raleigh—Per Capita Tax Remains the Same, 90 Cents Going to Orphan Home and 50 to Grand Lodge—Officers Elected.

Winston-Salem, May 11.—With the decision that the per capita tax should remain the same, $1.40, but that 90 cents should be given to the orphan's home and 50 cents to the grand lodge, and with the awarding of the Gilmore Ward Bryant cup for the best exemplification of the unwritten work of the order, the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows adjourned this afternoon to meet next year in Raleigh.

The grand lodge voted to leave the education of the orphans to the trustees, and they decided that the home should have a school of its own, the building that was partially burned last January to be repaired for this purpose. Meanwhile a suit will be instituted to secure a portion of the State school fund.

The following officers were installed by retiring Grand Master Frank D. Hackett: Grand master, W. H. Overton, Durham; deputy grand master, Charles Dewey, Goldsboro; grand warden, M. L. Shipman, Hendersonville; grand secretary, B. H. Woodell, Raleigh; grand treasurer, R. J. Jones, Wilmington; grand marshal, Hugh Parks, Franklinville; grand conductor, Guy Weaver, Asheville; grand guardian, Scott Frizzle, Washington; grand herald, J. W. McIntosh, Sanford; grand chaplain, Rev. J. Paris, North Wilkesboro; chairman of mileage and per diem committee for three years, R. W. Murray, Greensboro; grand representative for two years, Frank D. Mrs. Haynie Acquitted on Emotional Insanity Plea.

Shreveport, La., May 12.—Mrs. C. L. Haynie, who was placed on trial for manslaughter in connection with the killing of C. G. Kornegay, formerly of Goldsboro, N. C., was acquitted this afternoon. The jury's verdict reached in forty-five minutes' time, read "Not guilty on account of insanity." It was a unanimous decision. It is not positively known if the verdict will have the effect of sending the woman to an asylum. The general opinion is that she will be liberated entirely. District Judge Bell remanded her to jail until tomorrow, when he will decide whether to appoint a commission to examine her.

The jury's verdict was received spectacularly. As the words "not guilty" were read, loud cheers from the tremendous crowd, including dozens of women sympathizers, shook the court room. At the same time Mrs. Haynie overwhelmed by the glad news, swooned. The usual remedies of water and fanning failed to revive her and Deputy Sheriff John Jeter picked her up and carried her through the crowd into the office of District Attorney J. M. Foster, where two physicians worked with her twenty minutes before she could be revived.

ROAD SUPERVISOR PATTON IS HEARTILY ENDORSED.

Editor Hustler: When a county official makes good in a difficult position, one requiring peculiar training, ability and unlimited enthusiasm, when such a man gets RESULTS, the tax payer's interest is best served by keeping that man in office.

Such a man is Mr. P. F. Patton, general road overseer of Henderson county—who during the past 12 months has received $300 in salaries and has paid out more than his salary besides giving a great deal of his time, but he has most certainly made good—he has gotten RESULTS!

That magnificent Asheville Road would have cost $13,500 built by free labor. It actually has cost the county $4,500. That's results.

THROWN INTO POTOMAC.

Asheville, May 13.—Lord Beresford said to have been thrown into the Potomac.

The following special appeared in Sunday's New York American: "Mystery which for a year has surrounded the final resting place of the ashes of Sidney Lascelles, alias Charles J. Asquith, the bogus Lord Beresford and notorious international swindler, whose body was cremated on May 22 last at the undertaking establishment of J. W. Lee was dispelled when it was learned that soon after the cremation the ashes were thrown into the Potomac river by Marcus E. Mark, now living in Asheville, N. C., but formerly a close friend of a wealthy woman of New York."

"Lascelles died of tuberculosis in Asheville, but his body was not claimed, and for more than four years it was kept by an Asheville undertaker. The undertaker embalmed the body and placed it on exhibition, charging an admission fee to view it.

"The New York woman went to Asheville and disclosing her identity to the Asheville authorities, got the body from the undertaker and, together with Mark, brought it to Washington."

"Not long after Lascelles' body was brought to Washington the woman returned to New York. Mark returned to Asheville. Several months ago he contracted tuberculosis, and his health has grown steadily worse. "Broken in health and fortune, he told a few friends of his connection with the mysterious woman and of his trip to Washington to dispose of the body. The woman took the ashes from Lee's undertaking establishment, he said, and later he carried them to the bank of the Potomac and threw them into the water."

GIRL IN KNEE DRESSES TELLS PITIFUL STORY

White Slave Escapes From Parasites and Appeals for Protection to The Police—Little Girl From North Carolina in the Matron's Ward in Atlanta, Tells Her Experience—Earned Money to Support Man and Woman.

One of the most pitiful instances of the white slave traffic ever brought to light in Atlanta is the case of Little Nettie Lewis, a girl in knee dresses, who until six months ago lived on a farm near Winston-Salem, N. C. Since then she has been traveling about the country, she says, supporting two parasites, from whom she attempted to escape innumerable times, only to be caught, brought back, cruelly treated and forced to continue her life of shame for the gain of her master and mistress.

The girl has been held in the matron's ward for the past three days; while the Atlanta detectives have been trying to apprehend the man and woman, who brought her to this city. Their efforts have been futile and apparently both have escaped from the city.

Here's the girl's story as she told it in the matron's ward: "Six months ago a woman, whom I have known as Cassie Cobb, and her friend, H. M. Burt, asked me to slip away from home for a few days' trip to Charlotte. Cassie is from a small town in South Carolina and Burt is originally from Aberdeen, N. C. I had known them only a short time, but I was tired of staying home and wanted to see Charlotte.

"Since then I don't know where we have been—all over Alabama, Tennessee and Georgia. They traveled as man and wife and I was Cassie's niece. They forced me to go out on the streets and make money for them. They would always take my money away from me as soon as I got it. Burt said he was a horse trader, but really he didn't do a thing and the money I made provided the three of us with clothes, board and railroad fare.

"Sometimes I would try to get away, but they would always catch me. Burt told me that he would kill me sooner or later if I kept trying to escape. Both of them cursed me, and I was terribly afraid, because I know that Burt would really kill me. I have seen him beat Cassie terribly time and time again, and one time, when he knocked her down with a chair, he accidentally struck me during the fight."

The girl was brought to police headquarters by the proprietor of a local hotel.

stopping, she went to the Cannon hotel. There she met a married woman to whom she told her story. The woman kept her in the room with her during the night and the following morning informed the hotel proprietor, who suggested an appeal to the police. The girl went to police headquarters voluntarily, and will remain until the authorities find a way to send her back to her widowed home, or until they capture the man and woman.—Atlanta Journal, May 12th.

STANDARD OIL COMBINE IS ORDERED TO DISSOLVE

The Supreme Court holds: That the Standard Oil Company is a monopoly in restraint of trade. That this giant corporation must be dissolved within six months.

Washington, May 15.—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and its nineteen subsidiary corporations were declared today by the Supreme Court of the United States to be a conspiracy and combination in restraint of trade. It also was held to be monopolizing interstate commerce in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The dissolution of the combination was ordered to take place within six months.

STEEL RAILS ORDERED FOR THE STREET CAR LINE.

Bids are being made for the steel rails of the Hendersonville street car line. The Hendersonville Traction Company will open up headquarters in the next few days and active work is soon to begin. Mr. Thomas arrived in town from Greenville Wednesday. In a conversation with a representative of this paper he stated, "Same people are persistent in trying to knock the new railway."

They insist that we should begin the work of ditching down main street before the rails and cross-ties have been delivered. We propose to begin the excavation just as soon as the steel rails have been delivered in Hendersonville. The work of grading will not take any length of time. Hendersonville will certainly have an electric street railway in a very short time."

THE PEABODY TRUSTEES WILL DISTRIBUTE $2,500,000.

Nashville Normal Will Get $1,000,000 Rest Will Be Divided in South.

New York, May 13.—After 44 years the trustees of the Peabody educational fund are about to distribute the $2,500,000 balance remaining and close the trusteeship.

The fund originated two years after the close of the civil war when Geo. A. Peabody, the Massachusetts philanthropist, gave $3,500,000 to "advance education, at least three-quarters of the money to be spent in the South."

Of the fund $1,500,000 was in bonds of the state of Mississippi and Florida afterward repudiated.

One million dollars of the money in hand will go to the Peabody Normal school in Nashville, Tenn., and the rest will be appropriated among institutions in the south devoting themselves to training teachers, white and colored.

NEED $2,000 TO SAVE $18,000

Students of A. & M. College Raising Funds With Which to Erect Y. M. C. A. Building on the Campus—Fund Almost in Sight.

The students of the A. & M. College at Raleigh are endeavoring to raise money to erect a Y. M. C. A. building on the campus. It is planned to raise $40,000. Mr. Rockefeller has offered to give $20,000 if the students will raise $10,000 in Raleigh and $10,000 more in the State.

Up to date the students have raised the following: In Raleigh, $11,000; among themselves from their parents and friends, $5,000; alumni and others, $2,000; total, $18,000.

This leaves now $2,000 to be raised by July 1 to secure Mr. Rockefeller's subscription and to save the whole scheme. Payments on subscription are made on easy terms. Blanks may be obtained from Mr. Bedford Brown with the Southern Power Company Trust building. He would appreciate contributions or subscriptions.—Charlotte Observer.

Resting on the solid cliff overlooking the picturesque dam at Highland Lake is the very handsome new residence of Mr. B. H. Owens, of Charlotte—who, with his family, has long been making Hendersonville his summer home.

Mr. Owens has selected one of the very prettiest sites on the club property for his home, and certainly has a residence there in harmony with its beautiful surroundings. The substantial structure was erected by Bryson & Singleton, contractors, who have made of it a complete piece of work, finishing it well within the contract time. Mr. Burnett Carter was the architect, while Mr. C. Duffy installed the modern plumbing.

ELOQUENCE GREETS GATHERING OF OLD CONFEDERATES

Little Rock, Ark., May 16.—Greetings from President Taft, to which a message in kind will be sent in response, the annual oration delivered by Dr. R. C. Cave, of St. Louis, the address of welcome and the naming of the committees made up today's proceedings of the reunion of United Confederate veterans.

The address of General James F. Smith, commanding the Arkansas division, opening the convention, was brief. He referred to the events of the war of 1861-65, the days of reconstruction, the organization of the veterans and the 21 years' history of the organization.
