

The French Broad Hustler.

NEW SERIES, VOL. 14, NO. 40.

State Library Com

HENDERSONVILLE, NORTH CAROLINA, THURSDAY, JUNE 8, 1911.

$1.00 PER YEAR.

HENDERSONVILLE'S DAILY PAPER.

Hendersonville is to have a daily paper this summer. The Daily Herald which was run successfully last year for a period of six months will again be issued from the office of the French Broad Hustler Co. The merchants of Hendersonville realizing this as one of the best advertising mediums in reaching the home people as well as visitors have always liberally patronized the columns of the Daily Herald. This year the paper will start in a small unpretentious way with the expectations of growing as the business increases. It is the present intention of the management to issue a four page six column paper. Arrangements are being made to make this paper one of the best local papers ever issued from this office.

While there has already been received a large list of subscribers yet some of the past year's subscribers have neglected to hand in their names. This year the paper will be 75 cents for 3 months paid in advance or $1.00 for three months payable in thirty days after the first publication.

One of the new features of The Daily Herald this year will be publishing of a local cartoon nearly every day. Hendersonville is fortunate in having two very well known cartoonists in the city and their services have been secured by the Hustler Company for the season.

The French Broad Hustler, weekly will not be affected in the least by the publishing of the Herald. Matter of particular importance to the people of the county and those who do not take the Herald will be published exclusively in the Hustler. The pick of the news in the daily will be also in the weekly. The special telegraph news will be only in the Daily Herald, thus making it of utmost importance that those desiring to keep up with the happenings of the city, county and country can do no better than subscribe a small sum for both publications out of this office.

A coupon can be found in another part of this issue. If you have not already done so send it in with your remittance to the French Broad Hustler company for a subscription to the Daily Herald.

FINE PULLMAN CAR SERVICE.

The Southern Railway Pullman car service this season will be the finest that Hendersonville has ever enjoyed, and is official recognition of the fact that Hendersonville is now THE resort of the South.

The first New Orleans sleeper arrived here Tuesday morning on second No. 41, returning on No. 42 the same day. This is a tri-weekly service—Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and carries no day coach.

The Jacksonville sleeper is handled daily on trains Nos. 9 and 10. The Charleston sleeper on No. 41, arriving here at six o'clock in the morning, goes to Waynesville and returns South daily on No. 10.

The Macon Sleeper arrives on

No. 41 and leaves on No. 42. This puts two sleepers on Nos. 41 and 42 from Macon and New Orleans.

It is now possible to secure Pullman car service to Hendersonville from almost any point in the South, including New Orleans, Macon, Jacksonville and Charleston.

The new summer schedule will be effective on June 12, when another train will be put on the Toxaway line between Lake Toxaway and Asheville, on practically the same schedule as last year, except that the last train going to Toxaway will connect here with No. 27, the Carolina Special. This will make a total of twelve regular passenger trains here, with sleepers from almost every point in the South.

Marriage License.

The register of deeds issued marriage license for the month of May and including June 3 to the following couples:

Examination of Applicants.

The examination of applicants as teachers for the public schools of Henderson county will be held in Hendersonville on July 13, 14 and 15, the date of the regular examination. Each teacher in the county who expects to teach in the public schools is urged to be present on Thursday, July 13, at 10 o'clock. Supervisor J. A. Bivins of Raleigh will be here at that time to speak to the teachers on the importance of taking the Reading Course, and the help derived thereby. We will be glad to have any one who may wish to do so, come in and inspect the work on these days.

Sincerely,
W. S. SHITLE.

Dummy on a 30-Minute Schedule.

The Laurel Park car line is now being operated on a thirty-minute schedule, and every effort will be made to have the schedule religiously observed. The new and very powerful engine has demonstrated its ability to take six cars and the old engine up the steepest grade in the Park, and there will be no annoying delays this season.

The street car is being put in still better condition to meet the expected heavy travel to "the most beautiful natural park in America," where things are now being gotten into shape for the entertainment of Hendersonville's thousands of tourists. While no definite announcement has yet been made of the attractions to be offered at "Hendersonville's playground," enough is known to warrant the assertion that every clean, moral amusement feature of the best parks in the country will be found at Laurel Park this summer. Mr. Walter Smith, the manager of the park, expects to make an interesting announcement along that line very shortly.

The Palace Electric Theater.

The Palace Electric Theater will open its doors to the public next Saturday night for the first performance of the season. This new play will have an orchestra of four pieces playing during every performance. H. C. Catron proprietor of the Palace has just had completed some very expensive decorations in his new place. Every convenience has been made for the audience and the management assures the public the most courteous treatment. The pictures and music will be of the very highest class and every one is assured their money's worth of pleasure at the Palace.

A change of program will be made every night.

DEALS IN REAL ESTATE.

Real estate activities are on the increase in Hendersonville at this time of the year over all previous years. One firm alone that of Lwbank & Ewbank has sold in the past sixty days over $30,000 worth of Henderson county property. Including these sales were some of the following well known places: The Spann farm on the French Broad river. Nine lots and two houses in the city of Hendersonville. Perhaps the largest sale was that of The Lodge, one of Flat Rock's fashionable summer homes. Geo. J. Baldwin, a prominent capitalist of Savannah is the new owner. He will make many improvements on this handsome place. The Memminger place out at Flat Rock was also sold by this firm to Mr. T. Grimshaw of Grimshaw, N. C. He will occupy this beautiful summer home this season with his family. The Memminger place has been one of the principal summer homes of interest in the Flat Rock section.

CARS ORDERED FOR STREET RAILWAY

Within the next ten days the contract for 5,000 cross-ties will be completed and delivered for the street railway in Hendersonville.

The steel rails ordered some time ago are expected in the city any day.

Some time ago Mr. Thomas, president of the Henderson Traction Company went to Concord, N. C., where there is now being used storage battery electric cars, better known as car without trolley polls.

It has been decided to order two cars of this type which will arrive in Hendersonville within the next few weeks. The minute the rails arrive actual grading will be pushed rapidly making it an assured fact that cars will be run on Main street this summer.

The many friends of Mr. T. C. Israel of Balfour, will regret to learn that he is quite unwell.

The Lyric Theatre.

The Lyric Theater Co., of Montgomery, Ala., has leased for a term of years, one of the store rooms under the Gates Hotel and will operate a high-class Photo-Play Theatre. The company is remodeling the room at an expense of $1,500, one of the improvements being an inclined floor which will enable those seated in the rear to have an unobstructed view of the picture screen.

The program will consist of the best class of photo plays, orchestral music and singing. The theater will be under the management of Mr. John S. Bradford, of Springfield, Ill. Mr. Bradford has engaged Mr. F. W. Ferrando of the National Opera Co., of the City of Mexico for an engagement of four weeks. Mr. Ferrando is a vocalist is widely known in the musical world and will be present at the opening, which will take place about June 15th.

In making the improvements referred to above, Mr. Bradford has paid particular attention to ventilation. Four large open skylights with numerous oscillating fans will keep the air fresh and cool at all times. Mr. Bradford is a manager of long experience and he intends to make the Lyric a place of refined entertainment equal to anything in the larger cities.

SATURDAY'S U. D. C. MEETING.

A tribute of undying love to the honored memory of those who had given all in the defense of a just Cause; courteous and most kindly attention to the shattered remnants of an army which had commanded the admiration of a world; the bestowing of bronze crosses of honor upon galant survivors whose worth had not yet been thus recognized by a generation to whom the old and worn men in front of them were exemplars of highest patriotism,—this was the pleasant public duty of Henderson county's United Daughters of the Confederacy, a duty ably discharged in the court house Saturday last in the presence of an appreciative audience.

The big court room was prettily decorated with flags and flowers. Good music was rendered by the Hendersonville band and two excellent essays were read. Dr. R. B. Grinnan opened the meeting with prayer. Mr. V. C. Y. Shepherd, the son of Mr. J. M. Shepherd, a veteran who fought all the way through the bloody conflict, presented the U. D. C. with a very beautiful flag. In accepting the banner, Miss Joe Lane, president of the local United Daughters of the Confederacy, made a short but very interesting address. The band played "Dixie" and the old soldiers and the audience arose and cheered to the echo. Mrs. M. Schenck's fine voice was heard to good advantage when she and a chorus of young and pretty girls sang, very effectively, "Carolina."

Crosses of honor were conferred upon the following: Wiley Jones, W. N. Phillips, H. D. Carr, Pink Johnson, R. N. Brannon, Richard Howard, M. E. Barnwell and William Kimsley.

The meeting then adjourned to the Confederate monument facing the court house where the marble shaft erected to the memory of "the Confederate Soldier," as the inscription reads, simply, was decorated with the flowers taken from the court room. Refreshments of coffee, sandwiches, ice cream and cake were served to the veterans in the grand jury room of the court house—and the veterans did abundantly. The meeting closed with singing "God be with you 'till we meet again."

A pathetic incident of the gathering and one which made an unwanted lump in many a throat, was that of old John Peter Corn, a veteran with 81 years resting heavily on his bowed shoulders, and his attempt to sell a ten dollar Confederate bill. He had found the useless currency carefully put away in his dead wife's trunk—wrapped with a few other precious keepsakes of the days when old John Peter Corn was a stout and aliant wearer of the gray. His bleared and rheumy eyes were filled with tears as he showed the precious piece of paper to a comrade, and offered it to him for a small coin. The old man muttered that he had no one on earth now to care for him, his wife was waiting for him in another land, he was old, tired and useless, he said, and needed the little bill would bring him to buy bread. Would the comrade help him and give him something, however small, for the piece of paper?

The comrade looked at the bill held towards him in a hand withered, and trembling like an aspen. Then he looked at John Peter Corn, thought of the old man offering to sell a keepsake of his dead wife and of the dead days of a happy and glorious past—and he turned away abruptly.

Would he buy it? Well, he reckoned he would not buy it! But quickly the whispered word went around the room—there was a jingling of coins—and before old John Peter Corn had a chance to think twice there was a little cascade of silver poured into his shaking palms and the ten dollar Confederate bill was thrust into his pockets as well. John Peter Corn stood about as much chance of selling his keepsake in that crowd as he did of being allowed to go hungry—and he went home happy and satisfied.

Hendersonville Mail

We congratulate Hendersonville upon the announcement that the Federal government has closed a deal for the site of a new postoffice building and that a tidy sum is immediately available for the beginning of operations. The present office facilities in that hustling community are made adequate only by the most strenuous efforts of the postmaster and his clerks, and in the face of the increase, which it is natural to expect by reason of a greater number of tourists this summer a new building is rapidly becoming a pressing need. More than two million pieces of mail were handled by this office last year and a large increase will inevitably occur during the present season.

People who have for a week or ten days thrown aside the grind of their usual routine do not, it is true, desire to be worried with the business cares which occupy them the rest of the year; but this is not equivalent to saying that they lose interest in the mails. The modern man nor woman has become so used to the marvelous rapidity and accuracy with which mail is now distributed that any hindrance or obstacle considered a very serious annoyance. To keep its postal facilities up to the demand is a prime requisite for any town which is inviting visitors, and we are greatly pleased to know that Hendersonville is to have its needs in this direction supplied at an early date.—Charlotte Observer.

The big Shoe Sale. One Thousand pairs of women's and children's high and low cut sample shoes at one-half price. A look will convince you that my store is headquarters for shoes. Glazener cuts the price and sells the goods.

In Magistrate Dedmid's Court.

A peculiar odor around the baggage room of the Southern depot was so very strong in the nostrils on last Friday night, that he determined to investigate. A keg of whiskey and cigars were found to be on the inside and Robert helped himself. Now by order of the court of Judge Dermid, Robert is in jail.

A half pint whiskey bottle, 65 cents and a few "cuss" words of an unprintable nature, furnished the foundation for a small scrap between Geo. Guice and Bob Collins last Sunday night down on the railroad near the depot, with the result of Guice being considerably disfigured in the face with the above mentioned bottle. After hearing both sides of the case in Magistrate Dermid's court Monday morning, the judge decided to divide up the cost between them and told them to go their way and sin no more. The most noticeable feature of this case was the fact that no one could tell anything about where the whiskey came from.

Dud Fletcher and Bub Brown, colored, had some words Sunday night down about the depot about a lady (?) of the same color; and then Bub began to work on Dud's head with his razor and succeeded in converting it into something like a Chinese map, and Dud proceeded to lay the dust of the side walk from the depot to Main street with blood. In the Magistrate's court Tuesday they told just how it happened and now one is in jail while the other gave bond for his appearance at the next term of court.

Mrs. Sarah Ann Jones died Monday morning in Blue Ridge township. She leaves four children to mourn her loss. She was a devoted member of the Methodist church.
