STATE NEWS.

The corner stone of a $35,000 court house of Duplin county was laid Friday at Kenansville with impressive ceremonies by the Grand Lodge of Masons of North Carolina.

A steel engraved portrait of General Robert E. Lee was presented to the Greensboro high school last Friday morning by Guilford Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The Fidelity Hosiery Mills Company of Newton is installing several thousand dollars worth of new knitting machines to make the finer grade of hosiery. This additional equipment calls for a number of new operatives. The company, upon the completion of its mammoth brick plant in the spring, will add still more of these machines and manufacture silk as well as the fine Egyptian cotton yarn hose.

A movement is on foot to build a trolley line from Greensboro to Durham.

The Greensboro local tobacco market is reported to be doing a larger business than it has experienced before in many years. There are more buyers and the competition is keener, resulting in higher prices for all grades of the weed. Farmers generally are pleased with the results of the sales.

A cablegram from Congressman E. Y. Webb to his wife, at Shelby last Friday night brought the news that he had arrived safely in Panama, having sailed nine days ago on the Government steamer from New York harbor with the congressional appropriation committee of 21 Congressmen, as a specially invited guest. After spending ten days in Panama, the party will follow the canal a distance of 49 miles to Colon.

At a church conference of the First Baptist church Wednesday night at Shelby, Rev. L. W. Swope of Louisville was called to fill the pulpit recently vacated by Rev. C. A. Jenkins, who resigned to go to Clayton and devote the remainder of his life to literature.

The town of Maiden in Catawba county has about completed a stock company whereby the town will be equipped with electric light and power, the electricity being furnished by the Southern Power Company.

The John L. Sparks circus will again winter in Salisbury.

Wake county authorities are looking for a man who represented himself to be Marcus Martin of Wendell, and attempted to put through a land fraud that was unique and designed to procure $1,500 fraudulently. He went to Raleigh and had a deed recorded for 104 acres of land belonging to John W. Vick and wife, conveying it to Marcus Martin, and then went about trying to borrow $1,500 on the bogus recorded deed.

The final work of removing the debris of the old buildings from the site for the new State fireproof administration building at Raleigh, it is reported, is being done and the lot occupying the space between Fayetteville and Salisbury streets, from this Morgan street and the capitol square, will be ready for the contractors to begin the excavations within the next week. The contractors are under obligation to have the building completed by January 9, 1913 when the next General assembly meets. The building will be four stories high and will house the State library, the Hall of History and archives of the State historical commission, the Supreme court and supreme court library and the State departments of Insurance and Education.

The program of exercises for the observance of North Carolina day in the public schools of the State has just been issued from the State Department of Education. December 22 is set aside for this special observance by the schools and the booklet embracing the program, readings and studies for the day, is the work of Secretary R. D. W. Connor of the State historical commission.

Harnett, Sampson, Johnston and Cumberland counties have never had such a crop of hogs as this year. Sausage, spareribs, backbones and chitlings will be plentiful in that region this season.

A recent dispatch from Fayetteville says that the oldest inhabitant of that city, one of the oldest of the state, and a real "old-time" darkey, passed away with the death in that city of "Aunt" Dolly Grainger, who was 15 years old when General Marquis De Lafayette visited that town in 1824. She died in her 103d year. "Aunt" Dolly, who spent the last years of her long earthly sojourn in her own small house on Blount street, had a most vivid recollection of the visit of the great Frenchman, the most memorable incident of her life, as it was the most notable event in the history of Fayetteville. In her youth she was a family servant of Mr. James Cook, grandfather of Mrs. S. G. Ayer of Fayetteville.

Secretary Clarence H. Poe of the State Literary and Historical Association of North Carolina is receiving assurances from members of the association in every part of the State that they will be in Raleigh for the annual meeting of the association on November 27 and 28, when the most notable address will be by United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts on "The Constitution and Its Makers." Other addresses are to be made by Dr. C. Alphonso Smith of the University of Virginia, Rev. Howard E. Rondthaler, Dr. D. H. Hill and R. D. W. Connor.

Bound for the Ruskin colony near Tampa, Fla., where neither tobacco nor whiskey is ever seen or used, Leonard Wheeler, wife and five children and a Miss Orcutt, the secretary, passed through Greensboro Thursday morning in an automobile. They left their old home in Walworth, Wis., October 5 and have traveled nearly three-fourths of the distance that lies between that place and their destination.

For the improvement of streets and sewerage the city of Wilmington has just sold $400,000 city bonds.

The supreme court of the State rules that loaning whiskey with the understanding that it is to be paid back with other whiskey is a violation of the

In the movement for the construction of a splendid $100,000 Academy of Music for Raleigh, which the chamber of commerce of that city has just launched most auspiciously, one well known business man has subscribed $100,000.

An interesting case of "railroad bazing" came up for a hearing before Justice W. L. Ray in Spencer Friday night. Henry Watson, an employee of the Southern Railway in Spencer, being charged with assaulting H. A. Bowers, a fellow employe. W. J. Burton and four other workmen were also charged with holding Bowers while Watson did the "padding."

There will be two electrocutions at the North Carolina State prison Friday of this week. The most notable is Ross French the young Indian who is to die for the murder of Miss Ethel Shlier in Swain county, and whose grandparents are to come to witness the electrocution. The other is Taylor Love, a negro, who dies to expiate the murder of another negro in Haywood county. This is the first instance of the electrocution of two victims on the same day since the North Carolina law for electrocution instead of hanging went into effect.

A broken rail on a trestle just beyond McCullers, on the Raleigh and Southport railroad, caused a serious wreck Saturday night, when two passenger coaches were completely turned over and one end of the broken rail was driven with great force up through the floor of one of the coaches. For a wonder no one was seriously hurt. The negro fireman jumped and sustained injuries that sent him to the hospital. All the passengers were greatly frightened and right much shaken up.

The Dalton Furniture Company of High Point has given out a contract for a 40 by 75-foot two-story addition to other plant, corner Southern Railroad and Rankin street.

The Winston-Salem aldermen are considering the proposition to have the city lease the fine abattoir which has recently been erected by Snipes & Co., with a view to having the city control the abattoir for the public betterment. A committee is investigating the matter. The aldermen have ordered that no fresh meat can be sold out of the city market and this means that three small concerns in the residential districts will be put out of business.

Great interest attaches to the first service to be held in the main auditorium of the handsome Brown Memorial Baptist church at Winston-Salem, Sunday, November 26, when a splendid and inspiring service will be held. Brown Memorial church is named in honor of a man still living, Rev. Dr. H. A. Brown, one of the best known pastors in North Carolina, a man who has "gone gently all his days," and yet has wrought a great power for good by exemplifying a truly Christian spirit as that he is so beloved by all creeds and all manner of men.

Over $300 an Hour

Three hundred dollars an hour or more than three million dollars a year is the tale taken from the pockets of the people of North Carolina by the Fire Fiend. Every twenty-four hours more than SEVEN THOUSAND DOLLARS of property is destroyed in NORTH CAROLINA alone. Of this enormous sum not more than one half is covered by insurance.
