Claxton Wants 20,000,000 Children Treated as Well as Live Stock.

Washington, Nov. 16.—Is not the health of 20,000,000 school children in the United States as important as that of the live stock of the country? United States Commissioner of Education Claxton puts this query in his annual report to Secretary of the Interior Fisher, at the same time recommending the appointment in the bureau of education of a specialist in school hygiene and sanitation to aid him in the work.

Dr. Claxton declares his bureau should have more opportunity to study the needs of rural schools, which problem, he says, "is admitted to be the most difficult of school problems." Industrial education, he contends, also should be studied by a group of competent field specialists and assistants "to help toward the formulation of some clearly understood fundamental principles." The library of the bureau, the report declares, should become the chief source of information to investigators throughout the country in all phases of education; wherefore he recommends the appointment of a man who could give his entire time to this work. For these and some minor new appointments an increase of $150,000 is asked; also an increase of $48,000 for Alaskan educational work.

In order that the commissioner himself might spend much of his time in the field, attending conventions of school teachers and officers and visiting and inspecting typical schools of all kinds and grades the commissioner expresses the opinion that there should be an assistant commissioner.

French Breakfast Rolls

(Recipe by Mrs. Sara Tyson Rover) One pint milk; two ounces Cottolene; one teaspoon salt; one pound flour; one egg; one-half cup yeast; or one-half cake yeast dissolved.

Scald the milk and cut into it the Cottolene, add salt, and when cool sift in the flour; add the well-beaten egg and the yeast. Beat well and stand in a warm place over night. In the morning form into little rolls, handling as little as possible, adding a very little flour. Place each roll in a French roll pan, stand in warm place three-quarters of an hour and bake in quick oven about fifteen minutes.

Everyone likes these light, puffy rolls; Cottolene gives just as fine results as if you used butter, and at less expense.

Corn 16 Feet Tall.

Mount Airy, Ga., Nov. 16.—While the boys of Towns county have not taken the interest in forming corn clubs that other counties have, Judson Nicholson has grown some very tall corn. Among the tallest was one measuring 16 feet 10 inches, and 10 feet to first ear.

High Corn Stalk.

Mr. J. W. Wesson, one of the leading farmers of the county, living on Route 2, was in The Star office Saturday exhibiting a stalk of corn measuring 17 feet and 3 inches high. Mr. Wesson says the corn grew on cotton land and all of the stalks were unusually high but this one towered above them all. It has two good ears of corn on it. He planted White Dent seed.—Cleveland Star.

Corn at 10 Cents Per Bushel or Less.

Young Samuel Riddle, of Endicott, made 81 bushels of corn this year on his test acre. The yield was not the largest in the county but so far as reported stands second largest. Earl Poole stands first, with a yield of 94 bushels.

The most remarkable thing in the production of this acre of corn was the low cost of production. Mr. Riddle makes the emphatic statement that all fertilizers, cultivation, labor, etc., to produce the 81 bushels amounted to only $8, making the cost less than 10 cents per bushel. This does not take into consideration the fodder or corn stalks as rough feed. If these be counted at their market value the grain will have been produced almost if not entirely without cost.—Troy Montgomerian.

1,050 Soja Beans to 1.

Mr. B. A. Deaton, who farms on the Dison Deaton estate two miles east of Troy, planted two soja beans this spring, one in fertile and the other in poor soil.

The fertile soil bean produced 1,050 beans by actual count and the other produced 290 beans. There are two to three beans to each pod. This plant is a wonderful yielder of seed that sell from $1.50 to $2.50 per bushel and rank among the best of legumesc for soil improvement. They are excellent for feed and for grazing hogs.—Troy Montgomerian.

At the Age of Seventy-Six She Picked Two Bales Cotton.

I think the name of Grissom ought to be changed to Wheeloussville, as the real mother of Grissom, Mrs. Elizabeth Wheelous is still living. She is 76 and mother of 14 children, 10 of whom are still living near here. She has 66 grandchildren to cheer her up when she gets lonesome and 13 great-grandchildren to smile at and pet when she sees them. Her husband was killed in the war in 1864 and left her without means to raise her children, but she worked hard and succeeded in providing for them. Although 76 years of age she made by herself two bales of cotton this year.—Oxford Banner.

NOMINATE WILSON URGES JOHN SHARP WILLIAMS.

Senator Says He Has Seized on the Fundamental Idea.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 15.—In a letter to Dr. Hiden Ramsey, of Asheville, N. C., president of the Woodrow Wilson Club of the University of Virginia, Senator John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, writes in part:

"I believe that we ought to nominate Woodrow Wilson and I believe that we can elect him. Southerner by birth and tradition; Northerner by environment and long service; citizen of the world of scholarship; he is at once intensely an American, and yet full of the spirit of modernism, which promises to urge the whole world forward in a spirit of daily and weekly better appreciation of genuine democracy—spelled with a big 'D' and a little 'd' both.

"Woodrow Wilson has seized the fundamental idea that if you once prevent special privilege by law, you will have cured most of the evils of which men have a right to complain. What first attracted me to him was his emphasis of an idea, 'Guilt is personal.' Behind every corporate abuse is some man or some set of men guilty of having committed the abuse of some one man somewhere guilty of having initiated it, other men guilty of having consented to it."

Harmon Predicts Democratic Landslide

Basing his opinion upon the results in Massachusetts, Kentucky and Ohio, and other points where democratic candidates were elected recently, Governor Harmon, according to a press dispatch sent out a few days ago from Columbus, O., predicted a national democratic landslide next year.

"The results of these elections have pleased me very much," he said, "and I considered them a forecast of what is to come next year. It is the strongest endorsement of democracy that has been tendered by voters in recent years. Not only local elections do I consider significant but also the elections in Kentucky Massachusetts and other points. The elections in Ohio show unquestionably that the public is pleased with the present administration, the tax reforms that have been made and the management of state offices under democratic sway."

When asked regarding the Cincinnati results Mr. Harmon said "Personally nothing could have pleased me better. I have fought for 25 years to free Cincinnati from the sway of republicanism and am certainly delighted to find that the voters have awakened and broken the chains that bound her."

"Signs of victory for the democratic party are evident everywhere. Next year I expect that this party will win the national offices, including the presidency. It is the endorsement of the democratic administrative policies and the labors already performed by that party."
