BIRTHPLACE OF DAVIS TO BE MARKED WITH OBELISK.

A Monument Over 350 Feet High is Being Planned by the Confederate Veterans.

The birthplace of Jefferson Davis on a farm near Fairview, Ky., is to be marked by a great limestone obelisk according to plans which Confederate veterans are now trying to bring to completion.

A tract of 22 acres near Fairview, which originally formed a part of the farm upon which Jefferson Davis was born, was acquired several years ago by Colonel R. S. Cunningham, of Nashville, Tenn., publisher of The Confederate Veteran, and General Bennett H. Young, who was for four times elected Commander in Chief of the United Confederate Veterans. They raised about $20,000, converting the tract into the Jefferson Davis Park, and it is upon a summit of this park that it is proposed to erect the monument. Gen. George W. Littlefield of Austin, Tex., announced that he will guarantee an amount sufficient to insure the completion of the project if others would assume a fair share, and Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, N. C., has agreed to assume a further large share of the expense. In the meantime a campaign for further funds is in progress, and designs for the monument have been prepared with the intention of beginning work on the foundation this Spring.

The monument will be an obelisk of limestone an concrete 351 feet high, the tallest in the exception of the Washington monument of any other shaft of the kind in the world. The base will be 43 feet square with a room 18 feet square in the interior for the storing of relics. It is planned to have the shaft completed some time early in the coming autumn and to dedicate it October 22, 1917.

The site of the monument is only 100 miles, as the crow flies, from the site of the impressive Memorial Hall erected near Hodgenville, Ky., over the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln was born.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK.

Do not look on your work as a dull duty. If you choose, you can make it interesting. Throw your heart into it, master its meaning, trace out the causes and previous history, consider it in all its bearings, think how many even the humblest labor may benefit, and there is scarcely one of our duties which we may not look to with enthusiasm. You will get to love your work, and if you do it with delight you will do it with ease. Even if at first you find this impossible if for a time it seems mere drudgery, this may be just what you require; it may be good like mountain air to brace up your character.—Lord Avebury.

THE ASSEMBLY DECLINED TO GIVE FAIR PLAY.

One week ago today, a lone Representative from a distant western country blocked and caused to be thrown into the discard an appeal for justice insofar as the newspapers of the State are concerned. That was Representative Ray or Macon though the guilt of the defeat of the bill to regulate the pay for legal advertising is not altogether on his shoulders; but an adverse House rule that slapped the newspapers of the State in the face and a wee majority when the bill was once voted upon, tell the story of the defeat, after the Senate had passed the measure 39 for, to 4 against. The defeat of the bill—the dire struggle of recognition upon the part of the newspapers and the struggling gasp for justice, not mercy, was spurned by the very politicians whose making was the work of those newspapers. It was a case of biting the hand that feeds them—the hand that made existence possible.

What the newspapers sought was justice—the abatement of an abuse that the Supreme court of the State saw existed and the court's opinion practically pointed the way to relief by appealing to the Legislature. It is but common sense and if it is worth $3 to advertise one track of land, one dwelling or one farm and the law says that it is, then it is worth twice that for two tracts, two farms, two dwellings, etc., or there should certainly be some increased pay, but the law doesn't allow it. The widow with three acres sold under deed of trust pays $3, just as does the biggest property owner with thousands of acres that it takes columns to describe, yet the law says $3, that's all. In the test case—163, North Carolina, Leech vs. Banks, which declares that the newspaper that collects more than $3 can be made through process of law to pay back the difference—likewise points that while the newspaper might render service that at its commercial rates as charged everybody else, amounted to much more than $3. It is all that can be allowed for the advertising if it makes an inch—a column or three columns.

In this same test case in question the newspaper was compelled to take $3 for service, that at its actual advertising rates was many times that amount—the trustee, we are told, received $1,500 for signing the deed and the incidental attentions at the sale—and yet you recall that Senator Burgwyn, of the legal fraternity is credited with remarking as he cast his vote against the bill that he "couldn't stand for that graft."

The newspapers of the State asked the most moderate rate of any State in the Union for this legal advertising—a rate not as much even as their commercial advertising rates now. The lowest of any State in the Union save North Dakota—that is, if the bill they asked had been made a law. The newspapers through their association representatives even accepted amendments to the bill, and a further reduction in the pay to that of even less than any State in the Union—but yet all was declined. The newspapers sought bread and were given a stone. It is rather rarely to talk of the personnel of the next Assembly, but we have written topermost across our state that the man whose cause we champion is going to at least favor a fair deal and fair play to an industry which has done so much for the State as the newspapers. An industry that would today be bankrupt if it was forced to take business from the people at the same pay as the State compels its advertising to be run.

Whatever the Legislature might have accomplished—it at least spurred the request of the newspapers for fair play and justice. The injured should remember.—Rocky Mount Telegram.

NEWSPAPERS ACROSS THE WAY.

If the newspapers in this country have been having a hard time with the high cost of paper, what must have been the experience of the papers published in the belligerent countries? The Observer has often wondered how they could weather the storm; but up to this time they have gone along without apparent difficulty. But the pinch has reached them, and the publishers of papers in the United States will be interested in the steps taken by English papers to meet the difficulty. It is not the reduction of size, or what they call "a lowering of character" but it is a raise of price. And the raise is just double. The half-penny papers have gone up to a penny, while the penny papers now charge two pence. How would the American public stand for a doubling in price of the home papers? In this country the increases, where increases have been made, were but nominal, the weeklies charging from a quarter to fifty cents a year extra—and it is to be said that more than ever are the American people now getting the worth of the money they pay for their newspapers.—Charlotte Observer.

JESUS NEVER STOOD FOR "PEACE AT ANY PRICE."

That Jesus was not a pacifist is the gist of the following quotation from an article in the April American Magazine entitled "My Silent Partner," which gives a new interpretation to the life of Christ as applied to modern problems:

"He went down to Jerusalem at the very beginning of his public work, and all the way along the road he heard the complaints of the peasants about the exactions and oppression of the priests. When he finally reached the city his temper was pretty well aroused. He strode into that temple and stood like a young giant among that noisy crowd of traffickers. He saw the poor come timidly forward and drive bitter bargains with the priests; his blood boiled. He stooped down and picked up some bits of cord that lay at his feet, and while he watched he half unconsciously braided them into a whip.

"Then suddenly he strode forward into that wrangling crowd of petty thieves, and began hurling their counters to the floor. One after the other, he flung their tables and chairs before him; he opened the cages where the doves were kept; he turned their oxen loose upon them. The thieves dropped back amazed; the crowd, quick to sense the situation, flung themselves eagerly at his back. And so, his eyes flashing fire, his little whip rising and falling across the backs of the skulking crew before him, he drove them forward, through the court, under the gates, out in the city streets. Single-handed, unknown, he had attacked the stronghold of special privilege, and won. The temple had been swept clean."

YES! LIFT A CORN OFF WITHOUT PAIN!
Cincinnati authority tells how to dry up a corn or callus so it lifts off with fingers.

You corn-pestered men and women need suffer no longer. Wear the shoes that nearly killed you before, says this Cincinnati authority, because a few drops of freezone applied directly on a tender, aching corn or callus, stops soreness at once and soon the corn or hardened callus loosens so it can be lifted out, root and all, without pain. A small bottle of freezone cost very little at any drug store, but will positively take off every hard or soft corn or callus. This should be tried, as it is inexpensive and is said not to irritate the surrounding skin. If your druggist hasn't any freezone tell him to get a small bottle for you from his wholesale drug house. It is fine stuff and acts like a charm every time.

THE SOUTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

An Ambition and a Record

THE needs of the South are identical with the needs of the Southern Railway; the growth and success of one means the upbuilding of the other.

The Southern Railway acts to favor no special privilege not accorded to others.

The ambition of the Southern Railway Company is to see that unity of interest that is born of co-operation between the public and the railway; to see perfect that fair and frank policy in the management of railroads which invites the confidence of governmental agencies; to realize that liberality of treatment which will enable it to obtain the additional capital needed for the acquisition of better and enlarged facilities incident to the demand for increased and better services; and, finally—

To take its niche in the body politic of the South alongside of other great industries, with no more, but with equal liberties, equal rights and equal opportunities.

"The Southern Serves the South."
