ORGANIZED LABOR WILL DO ITS PART

HAS FORMED A TRUCE WITH THE ADMINISTRATION.

LABOR TROUBLES TO BE AVERTED IN WAR TIME

Plan Will Follow That of the English System With War Department Clearing House of Dissension.

Washington, Aug. 8.—Organized labor and the administration have declared a truce for at least the duration of the war.

Secretary of War Baker is today studying a plan to avert labor trouble in war time. It is generally understood that the plan is approved by the President and Samuel Campers, head of the American Federation of Labor.

The details have not been made public as yet but it is believed that they follow closely the English system. The war department will assume supervision of all industries relating to the conduct of war. The department takes the right to commandeer such industries in case of labor trouble, continuing the work. In the meanwhile a conciliation commission will be appointed, chosen from labor, capital and the government personnel. Their decision will be mandatory to both employers and employees and date from the origin of the differences. Laboring men may take their case to the commission without calling a strike.

WAR WILL LAST ALL WINTER LONG

FRENCH MILITARY EXPERTS MAKE THIS PREDICTION.

RUSSIA DISCOUNTED U S PLAY BIG PART

Declares Teutons Are Growing Weaker Militarily and Economically—Great Drive Predicted in Spring.

Paris, Aug. 8.—Another winter of war is predicted today by French military experts.

Russia is discounted as an unknown factor, but great hopes are pinned to the part to be played by the United States the next ten months.

The Teutons are growing weaker militarily and economically and have about used up all their human material, as children and old men are found among the prisoners.

A gigantic offensive is expected to be launched by the allies, including the United States next Spring which will make the preceding ones resemble pigmies.

The Germans are working desperately for a military decision on the western front before cold weather sets in, but present indications are that their hopes will be shattered. Their attacks grow weaker as their reserves dwindle and the men and the munitions of the Entente grow stronger.

Washington, Aug. 8.—The Food Control bill, the most revolutionary measure in the history of the American Congress, is expected to become a law by Friday night.

Opponents concede that the senate will pass it finally at four this afternoon. The measure then goes to the House to receive the signature of Speaker Clark, on Friday, and immediately to the President.

Advocates of the bill declare it will cut the cost of living and end speculation in food stuffs, and the cornering of the same, and stimulate the production of foods and otherwise go a great ways in solving the economic question of the war.

Opponents predict a depressed business condition; production reduced and the cost of living will naturally continue to soar.

Indications are that everything depends upon the actions of Herbert Hoover, the food commissioner.
