Gordon Garlington Leaves the Hustler For Asheville Work

Messrs. Garlington and Hollowell Dissolve Partnership; Former Accepts Work With Asheville Times.

Effective May 13, Gordon F. Garlington and Noah M. Hollowell dissolved partnership as publishers of the French Broad Hustler in order that Mr. Garlington might accept the advertising managership of the Asheville Times, which work he assumed on Tuesday of this week.

Messrs. Garlington and Hollowell have been associated in the last partnership since November 5. They were business associates in 1914 and 1915 after which Mr. Hollowell with-drew and moved to Brevard, where he published the Brevard News for two years. During this period Mr. Garlington was publisher of The Hustler until he and Mr. Hollowell yoked up again last fall. Mr. Hollo-well has assumed the business of the Mutual Printing Co., under which name he and Mr. Garlington traded and unless something unforeseen oc-curs will conduct the publishing and printing business until next Novem-ber, probably thereafter.

GORDON F. GARLINGTON.
Former Manager of Hustler

The dissolution of the company was decided upon after Mr. Garlington had been offered work on the Asheville Times.

Mr. Garlington's line of work is not new to him, merely intensified and on a much larger scale. It is the line of work toward which his inclinations run and it will afford him an excel-lent opportunity for development along advertising lines.

Although Mr. Garlington has sold his interests in the Mutual Printing company, which holds a lease on The Hustler, he retains his stock interests in the French Broad Hustler, Incorporated.

Mr. Garlington's valedictory is car-ried on the editorial page.

MICHAEL SCHENCK.

County Chairman of Red Cross Drive.

The county teachers in regular monthly session last Saturday decid-ed not to have the parade that had been planned for fear that many of the children would be kept out of the parade on account of smallpox scare, thereby preventing the excellent showing that they had hoped to make.

In order that every feature of the county commencement may be thor-oughly understood by the teachers and pupils of Henderson county the executive committee submits the en-tire program as follows:

The seventh grade examinations will be given on May 17 and 18 be-ginning at 10 o'clock a. m., sharp, in the Hendersonville graded school. Each teacher who has pupils to take the examination is requested to send to the county superintendent a mem-orandum of each pupil showing the name and address and the average term marks on each subject to be covered by the examination. This record is absolutely necessary since the term standing is to count two points and the examination one point to-ward the pupils promotion. The pass-ing mark of a subject is 70.

The examination will cover the work designated by the State out-lined course of study in the following subjects: Arithmetic, history of our republic, geography, spelling, English and physiology. In order to receive the diploma, passing grades must be obtained upon at least five of the six subjects. The pupils will be allowed to use either pen or pencil in writing their answers. No papers or books are to be carried to the examination

RED CROSS WORKERS OUTLINE BIG CAMPAIGN TO BEGIN MONDAY

Having gone far over the top in the Third Liberty Loan (thus finish-ing up one item in the big job of pushing Kaiser Bill back over on his own side of the Rhine where he properly belongs) Henderson county and Hendersonville have taken hardly a breath before tackling the next item on the list, the task of bearing the town and county's share of the bur-den in the second War Fund drive of the American Red Cross. As guests of John Wooten, owner of Kentucky Home, a party of men and women from every section of the county met Saturday for luncheon at the big hotel on Fourth avenue for a discus-sion of plans to make sure that our home town and county shall not be slackers in the work of mercy which confronts the nation.

The luncheon was presided over by Michael Schenck, Esq., chairman of the campaign. During the course of the luncheon, however, very little "pressing" was necessary, as Mr. Wooten had made it very certain that the delegates had other things than speeches to occupy their attention. A recent number of The Gas Attack, the soldiers' paper at Camp Wadsworth, happily describes Kentucky Home as "The only hotel in the known world where a fellow can get enough chicken," and the description was heartily endorsed by every guest.

After the luncheon the guests ad-journed to the hotel parlor, where business matters were taken up in earnest. The scope and plan of the campaign were outlined by Mr. Schenck, who then called on J. C. Sales, of Fletcher, who pleaded ear-nestly and impressively for the co-operation of the delegates in the work, and pledged his own services to the limit. Short talks by C. F. Bland and Noah Hollowell carried valuable suggestions for the campaign, and addresses by Dr. A. C. Tebeau and C. N. Wrenshall would doubtless have been equally inspiring—except for the fact that these gentlemen were overcome by bashfulness and declined to address. Dr. E. E. Bomar, pastor of the First Baptist church, and re-cently of Owensboro, Ky., where he was an active member of the Daviess county chapter, gave an encouraging promise of hearty team-work, and then closed the more formal session with a prayer for the successful ac-complishment of the task before the delegates.

Mr. Schenck then stated that every penny of expenses for the campaign in this county had already been "un-derwritten" by business men of Hen-derson county, and that absolutely every penny contributed to the sec-ond war fund would be applied di-rectly to war relief, thus meeting in advance an objection which is some-times made, that the expenses of such campaigns consume too large a part of the funds. After making this point clear Mr. Schenck then called upon all the delegates present, in turn, to state as well as they could the con-ditions in their respective districts, and the prospects for success in raising the amounts allotted to the different auxiliaries and branches. The re-sponse was hearty and encouraging in the extreme, many of the organi-zations reporting considerable funds already available in case of need, and nearly all stating that in the absence of unforeseen difficulties their organi-zations would follow the prevailing fashion in Henderson county, and go well over the top with any task that was set them to aid the boys in France.

Another meeting will in all prob-ability be called before next Monday, when the actual work of the cam-paign starts, after which it will be a case of "go to it," with a practically sure prospect of showing again that this section of the U. S. A. is able and willing to bear a full share of this work; a work that perhaps comes closer to one's heart than any other of war's many activities. A list of those attending the luncheon follows:

- Mrs. L. P. Carter, Fruitland chap-ter.
- Mrs. M. T. Sadler, Blue Ridge school.
- Miss Dorothy Mallett, Bowman's Bluff.
- Mrs. L. E. Davenport, Horse Shoe.
- Mrs. John Perry, Jr., Flat Rock.
- Miss Carrie Freeman, Bat Cave.
- Mrs. P. S. Moore, Barnwell Church.
- Miss M. R. Sampson, Fassifern.

- Mrs. W. R. Kirk, Hendersonville.
- Michael Schenck, Esq., Hendersonville.

- Dr. A. C. Tebeau, Hendersonville.
- J. C. Sales, Fletcher.
- C. F. Bland, Hendersonville.
- Noah Hollowell, Hendersonville.
- C. N. Wrenshall, Hendersonville.

COUNTY FAIR MEETING HERE NEXT SATURDAY

The Hustler last week carried the call of John T. Staton, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, asking that the people of the county meet at the court house next Satur-day at 11 o'clock for the purpose of organizing for a fair next fall.

The call requests all classes of peo-ple to attend, men, women and chil-dren for it will take team work to make a good fair.

As to the importance of a county fair, something in which Henderson county is a long ways behind what it should be, the following from the Progressive Farmer will be of inter-est:

There comes a time in the lives of men and women when they no longer go to school, using the term "school" as it is usually understood. But there never comes a time in the life of any person when he or she is too old to learn.

Fairs in their true sense are "schools" for rural people of all ages—in other words, an experience meeting or a common pooling of knowledge and experience about farm and home subjects. Therefore a farmer who attends a fair that has been worked out along right lines cannot help but be benefitted.

As an educational agent, we be-lieve the community fair is now rather more effective than the county fair or state fair. It is true that State and county fairs may show better arrangement of exhibits and even livestock and produce of better quality. But at many of these larger fairs there is so much to see and the amusement and recreative features have been emphasized at the expense of educational features. The com-munity fair, on the other hand, has fewer exhibits; there are no side shows to distract one's attention; and the points of merit and demerit of each exhibit are explained by the judges so that the fair becomes a thing of real educational worth. Moreover, a farmer who has attend-ed a community fair for several years will be in a position to get more out of a State and county fair, equipped as he will be with his knowledge of what constitutes quality in exhibits.

Perhaps the greatest defect of State and county fairs is that as a rule no explanation is given as to why awards are made. If a com-petent man were placed in every de-partment to explain the points of ex-celence of the prize-winning exhibit in that department, the benefits would be almost inestimable.

LOCAL PUBLIC SCHOOL CLOSSES NEXT THURSDAY

First of Commencement Exercises on Thursday Night of this Week and Last on Next Thursday Night; Baccalaureate Sermon Next Sunday.

The public school of Hendersonville will close on Thursday night of next week with appropriate commencement exercises, the first of which, the recitation contest, will take place on Thursday night of this week.

On next Sunday morning the bac-calaureate sermon will be preached at the First Baptist church at 11 o'clock by the Rev. P. H. Mears, of Asheville. It is understood that the most of the other churches will join in these services.

On next Tuesday night the grad-uating exercises will be held. No commencement address will be made.

On Thursday night of next week the school will render a play entitled "The American Flag." It will abound in patriotism, humor and wit, and the proceeds will go to the Red Cross. On Friday of next week the public school will participate in the county commencement exercises. A part of the school work of the past year will be demonstrated. The exhibits will consist of work done in school during the year and the faculty is anxious for the patrons to inspect the work which will be displayed with that of other schools in the county. The exhibits will be on display at the court house.

The graduating exercises will be rendered on Tuesday night of next week at the city hall and the parts to be taken by the graduates will be as follows:

- Valedictorian, Miss Vada B. Orr.
 - Salutatorian, Miss Mary Brooks.
 - Prophetess, Miss Minnie Patterson.
 - Poetess, Miss Allene Durfee.
 - Orator, William Penny.
 - Musician, Miss Elma Johnson.
 - Historian, Miss Dorothy Guice.
- Miss Katherine Bacon will prepare the last will and testament of the class and Jefferson Donnahoe will preside over the exercises. Other graduates are: James Duff, Misses Sarah Ladson and Sara Steedman. The diplomas will also be presented.
- The school has done a very satisfac-tory year's work. Superintendent G. W. Bradshaw has from month to month reviewed in the newspapers the work accomplished, giving statis-tics on attendance, punctuality, etc., and pointing out the bad parts as well as the good, thereby giving the patrons a very comprehensive idea of the work.

People who are in a position to judge the work have expressed grati-fication for what has been accom-plished and they naturally feel proud of the fact that efficient and well trained teachers have been devoted to the work in hand and have dis-charged their duties faithfully in the face of inducements in the way of offers of much larger salaries.

Contracts have not been entered into for the coming year's work and it is feared that the school will suffer the loss of some of its teachers by reason of the very small salaries they receive for their work when other lines of endeavor offer more attrac-tive pay.

The declamation contest will be at 8:30 o'clock at the city hall on Thurs-day night of this week, when one of the contestants will be selected for the county commencement contest.

- The program follows:
1. Connie Wilson—Miss Rastus and the Wedding.
 2. Denholm Reid—Aunt Sophronia Visits the Opera.
 3. Irene Briggs—Sally Anne's Ex-perience.
 4. Sara Gregory—The First Set-tler's Story.
 5. Irene Caldwell—As the Moon Rose.
 6. Elma Johnson—The Sniggles Family.
 7. Minnie Patterson—Mirandy on Thanksgiving.
