

Educational Rally

Superintendent W. S. Shitle requests us to publish the following announcement:

There will be an educational rally (held in connection with the teachers' institute now in session) Friday, May 27, at 10 a. m., at the college building. Addresses will be made by the following speakers: Profs. R. M. Ivins and D. L. Ellis, Revs. R. B. Grinnan and J. W. Moore. McD, Ray. The public is cordially invited to be present. It is especially urged that all committeemen and school boards be present. The exercises will close promptly at 12 o'clock

The Teachers institute for Henderson county was opened at the graded school building in Hendersonville May 23, with two state institute conductors in charge of the work. The following outline is followed:

Professor D. L. Ellis: Pedagogy and school management, arithmetic, grammar, geography, agriculture, aesthetics and history.

Mrs. D. L. Ellis: Primary methods in reading, language, number work, writing and aesthetics.

The daily sessions begin at 9 a. m. and close at 4 p. m., with a noon recess of one hour and two ten minutes recesses morning and evening. Public addresses are to be given distinguished speakers on Friday afternoon of each week.

List Your Taxes!

W. C. Lyda, list taker for Hendersonville township will be at the following places at the times named: At Hendersonville, June 7-11. At Horse Shoe, June 13. At Rock, June 14. At Hendersonville, June 15-30. List your taxes and give in your poll, as required by law.

Raleigh Letter

Raleigh, May 23.—The entry of Ed Abell of Johnston County, into the race for Solicitor of the Sixth Judicial district is a piece of shrewd politics. Mr. Abell is said to be the manager in Johnston county for Frank Daniels in his race for judge of the superior court. Herbert Norris of Wake is a candidate for solicitor and J. C. Clifford of Harnett is a candidate for judge. It seems that Norris is not aligned with either faction in Wake, but that Clifford is supported by the so-called Ring. It is said that Norris will control the Wake and Harnett delegation; that the Johnston delegation will be instructed for Abell, owing to the "unit rule" prevailing in Johnston; and that the Wayne delegation will be instructed for solicitor. In addition to the vote of Wake and Harnett, Norris will need about twelve votes to secure his nomination; and to secure these Wake's vote for judge must be given to Daniels. This indicates that Frank Daniels will be nominated for judge and Herbert Norris for solicitor.

Commencement

The second part of the closing exercises of the graded school took place at the Auditorium Friday night, when the graduating essays were read and the diplomas awarded. There were fifteen graduates.

The attendance was very large. The essays were carefully prepared and very well delivered. An excellent musical program added greatly to the pleasure of the evening.

At every commencement in Hendersonville for a number of years past, the violin numbers have deserved and received high praise. In recent years, thanks to the untiring efforts of Mrs. R. M. Ivins, the vocal talent of the students has been developed with results which are already exceedingly gratifying and will mean much for the musical future of this town.

An attractive feature was the rendition by Miss Inez Motz of the selection which aroused such intense interest in Asheville recently.

That Horse

An event somewhat out of the ordinary took place in the court house Tuesday, when a lawyer bought a horse from a witness while he (the witness, not the horse and not the lawyer) was on the witness stand.

This unusual event occurred while T. A. Jackson was suing the town of Hendersonville for damages on account of an injury to a horse. Mr. Jackson was being examined as to the present worth of the horse and Mr. Smith was trying to prove that the animal was worth at least $50. Mr. Jackson said he had not found a purchaser at that price. "Would you take $50?" asked Mr. Smith. Mr. Jackson said he would if he could get that much. Mr. Smith then offered to pay $50 for the horse, and Mr. Jackson accepted provided the money were immediately forthcoming. Mr. Smith then asked for a recess of court while he paid the money.

Tilman Brock, a subsequent witness, testified that Mr. Smith had paid more than he (Mr. Brock) would pay for the animal.

[P. S. Mr. Smith has sold that horse. The purchaser was Mr. Jackson].

This recent aggressiveness on the part of the republicans shows that the confidence of democratic leaders as to the outcome of the election this year is not well founded. The fact of the matter is that while democratic politicians and the democratic press have been claiming everything in sight, the republican leaders have been working quietly but most efficiently, and if at any time there has been any doubt as to the complexion of the next house it will be entirely dissipated long before this session of congress comes to an end.

Expression of Appreciation

May 19, 1910.

At the closing morning session of our schools on the above date the whole High school body was called to order in a business session and the following resolutions were passed and signed by those present:

"Resolved that we express our appreciation and extend our thanks to Mr. Saylor who has, by his own efforts, and at his own expense, so materially improved the appearance of our campus. He has taught us one of the great lessons of life; viz. that of our duty to others even in civic affairs, he has been a real genuine living example, before us from day to day of what we have studied theoretically, and found so hard to get from our civil government".

We feel deeply, grateful to Mr. Saylor for the time and money he has expended in beautifying our grounds and we especially thank him for the spirit that actuated him to aid the teacher in efforts to instruct the students in an esthetic way".

"Resolved that a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mr. Saylor, with the signatures attached and a copy be sent to The Times and to The Hustler for publication".

Echoes of the Famous Contest

Charlotte Observer.

That declaimers' contest which the Asheville high school held continues to re-echo and reverberate in the mountains. Every mountain between Asheville and Hendersonville has found a tongue. From peak to peak, the rattling crags among, leaps the live thunder. Somewhere upon the gusty summits sits Mr. Locke Craig, who did not find any tree high enough when contention over his award began, with Asheville's fair sex and Hendersonville's ditto as the contending parties.

It will be recalled by all persons familiar with current history that the three judges unanimously awarded the handsome silver cup to Miss Inez Motz of Hendersonville. "The judges' decision," says the Hendersonville Times, just come to hand, "was made very promptly, for there was no possible question in their minds as to the superiority of Miss Motz's effort. The Mars Hill, Weaverville, Waynesville and Asheville competitors did very well but they were clearly out-distanced by the ability and superior training of the Hendersonville girl. The announcement of the award was followed by a scene which has never been paralleled in this section." It was indeed, like the scene which resulted when the umpire called the first strike on Casey, only there was no Casey to still the maddened tumult. "Kill him! Kill the umpire!" must be termed mild expressions by comparison. "Lynch him!" was the least strenuous denunciation which the Asheville women hurled at their distinguished townsman; they crowded threateningly around the unfortunate judges. We assume, though there is no mention of this in the published reports, that hatpins were drawn. Mr. Craig, who was held to be the causing cause of the decision against the home team, reflected upon his life insurance with consolation. But happily the worst did not come to the worst. Watching his chance or ever any blow had fallen, he darted out and away. The Hendersonville Times prints a picture which shows him in headlong flight through the mountains on horseback, staying not for brake nor stopping for stone.

Truly, all the world hates an umpire. If Mr. Craig remains long a refugee, however, Hendersonville may be trusted to furnish him "wood and water," meaning a safe place to hide out, until Asheville has simmered down. We regret that so agreeable a gentleman should have had an experience like this, but the lesson for every public man cannot be mistaken.

DEATH OF WM. JONES

William Jones died Sunday morning at his home in Hendersonville after a short illness. Funeral services, conducted by Rev. J. L. Brookshire and the Odd Fellows, were held at Beulah Sunday afternoon. Mr. Jones was forty years of age. He was a son of Hicks Jones. For about a year he had been one of our rural mail carriers and served very sufficiently. He is survived by his wife and five sons. He was highly esteemed by those who knew, and deep sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

Dr. Arthur R. Guerard reports that the indications for a big fruit crop are very favorable. The apple and peach trees at the Heidelberg are loaded.
