July Records

The Hendersonville weather record for July 1910, which has been taken by the section director of the U. S. weather bureau, shows normal temperature and precipitation. The data for the month are as follows: Maximum, 86 on the 26th; minimum, 58 on the 20th; mean maximum, 72.4; mean minimum, 61.5; mean precipitation, 9.58 inches. Of heavy rainfall, (surpassed in one July in the past eleven years), more than two-thirds fell in the first eleven days of the month; the remainder of the month exceedingly pleasant. The temperature was moderate throughout.

Considering the temperatures recorded for Hendersonville, it should be remembered that the instruments are located at a height of about 5 1-2 feet above the ground, and that consequently they record the actual temperature. The highest temperature recorded here this year was 88; and that means a temperature 5 1-2 feet above ground in a slatted box set in sunshine. A recorded temperature of 88 in one of the large cities that cooler regions 100 to 200 feet above ground had recorded that year, and that the actual street temperature in that city would be less than 100.

Following are the local July records beginning with 1899:

Max.	Min.	Mean	Prc'n
95	47	72.4	4.07
90	50	73.4	5.75
94	57	75.0	5.22
93	51	73.7	1.74
91	51	73.4	6.50
91	50	69.8	3.65
88	55	70.7	12.90
87	57	71.1	6.72
93	56	74.5	2.91
90	55	73.2	6.81
89	53	70.7	5.40
89	53	72.5	5.57
88	52	72.4	9.58

The Seaside Inn already has room for twenty-five guests with the coming.

Fire

Causes Very Heavy Loss at Saluda

At a late hour Tuesday evening a destructive fire occurred at Saluda, destroying one block in the business part of the town. The loss is estimated at $20,000 or more, not covered by insurance.

The fire, whose cause is unknown, is believed to have started in S. D. Staton's store building, and when discovered had progressed too far to be controlled. The stores of S. D. Staton and Thorne & Boone, Q. C. Sonner's warehouse and L. M. Tiner's shoe shop were destroyed. Mr. Staton's loss is probably between $5,000 and $6,000.

Universal sympathy is felt here for the men who have lost so heavily by the fire. They are well known business men and leading citizens of Saluda. Mr. Staton is a brother of R. H., B. F. and D. S. Staton of Hendersonville.

TAFT LIKES BRYAN

And Favors Him for the State Legislature

Taft has always thought very highly of Bryan and this good opinion continues to grow. We are not speaking of the President or the orator from Nebraska; we are speaking of the thriving little town of Taft, S. C., and its most prominent citizen, W. D. Bryan, who arrived in Hendersonville last week.

Mr. Bryan has been coming to Hendersonville every summer for several years and owns some attractive property in the northwest part of this city. He has many friends here and is exceedingly popular in his home town. He has been an efficient member of the South Carolina legislature and his fellow citizens are anxious to reelect him.

During the last campaign, the people of Taft, who are democrats, learned with dismay that a man who was named for their town was running for President on the republican ticket. They talked of starting a movement to have the name of that burg changed from Taft to Bryan; and when they talk of Bryan down there, they mean W. D. of South Carolina, not W. J. of Nebraska.

Speak easy patrons often are loud mouthed.

A pleasant thought that is told is better than a pleasanter one unsaid.

Morehead

Elected State Chairman by Acclamation at the Great Convention at Greensboro

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES

Greensboro, Aug. 10.—The state republican convention,—a gigantic gathering which surpassed all of its predecessors in size, in vitality and in representative character,—has elected as state chairman John Motley Morehead, the business man who redeemed the Fifth district in the face of an enormous democratic majority. Morehead was put forward for the state chairmanship as the choice of the rank and file of the party; and the rank and file captured the convention, and with a wave of enthusiasm brushed away those who had previously been in control, and installed a new man as the harbinger of a new day.

Twelve hundred intensely earnest delegates and two thousand spectators, assembled in a metal-roofed structure which intensified the awful heat of sultry Greensboro, almost forgot their physical sufferings in the absorbing interest with which they followed every stage of the great battle. Each side had claimed victory; the credential committee was eight to two for Duncan; but when the first test vote was taken (on the election of a chairman for the convention) the Morehead men were successful by 737 to 378.

The victory was complete. When the time came to elect a state chairman, Duncan's name was withdrawn by his followers and Morehead was elected by acclamation.

Nominations for state officers were made as follows: For the supreme court, T. T. Hicks for chief justice and E. W. Timberlake and Harry Skinner for assistance justices; James H. White and C. M. Hoover for corporation commissioners.

The platform contained a ringing declaration for local self-government.

The revolution which was effected was a peaceful revolution. Feeling ran high but the convention ended in a love feast. Morehead's speech of acceptance was praised even by those who had fiercely opposed his election. The platform adopted is an able document which rings true to republican principles.

Road Work

The county road force, otherwise known as the chain-gang, is still at work in Hooper's Creek township. And some persons are wondering why it is there. To this natural question the county road supervisor gives an equally natural answer.

Long ago he announced that work would be done first where the biggest inducements were offered. The people interested in the road from Fletcher to Fruitland offered work and material to the value of $400; therefore that road was worked. Then persons interested in the road from Fletcher to the Buncombe line put up $700 or $800 (including a check for $100 from a resident of Asheville, Dr. Hall Fletcher). Therefore that road is being worked now.

Some people act as if they planned their own pedigrees.
