

Don't Be Fooled!

The election will be held Tuesday, November 8. Vote for John Grant for congress, and vote the entire republican state, county and township ticket.

Be sure you vote the right ticket. Don't be fooled. All sorts of strange tickets are afloat. Examine yours before you vote it; see that it is right from top to bottom. Watch for bogus tickets and other attempts to deceive you.

Don't be fooled.

Forecast

The following is the forecast made by the Tenth congressional district, a man, who is in a position to know as far as it is possible for any man to know, what the situation is. The forecast is made upon the idea that a full vote will be cast, and is as follows:

Counties	Majorities
	Gudger	Grant
Ashe	25	25
Wayne	500	50
Henderson	---	50
Swain	---	25
Chatham	---	100
Transylvania	200	250
North Carolina	7:25	1320

This forecast shows Hon. John G. Grant a winner by a majority of 700. It must be borne in mind, however, that this forecast is made upon the idea that a full vote will be cast on election day. It will be seen that according to this forecast, Grant's majority is not a very large one, but is a safe one, even if the figures given. But the Republicans of Henderson, as well as of all other counties, must see to it that every man who will vote for Mr. Grant, gets out to the polls on Tuesday next. If a full republican vote is polled throughout the district Mr. Grant will be elected by a larger majority than is shown by the above forecast. Let Henderson give Mr. Grant at least 600 majority.

S. W. HAMILTON

S. W. Hamilton died at his home in Hendersonville at 6 o'clock Thursday morning, November 3, aged 66. He had been in feeble health for a number of years.

The death of Mr. Hamilton will be felt as a great loss to this community. He was a man who had the respect and high esteem of all who knew him. He was a veteran of the Civil War. In more recent years he served as a county commissioner and a justice of the peace and rendered very efficient services in those capacities. He was a life-long member of the Baptist church. In politics he was a staunch republican but had countless friends among men of all parties and opinions. For many years he was a leader at many of the old-time singings, and will be sadly missed at those gatherings.

There survive him his wife, two brothers, four sisters, one son, three daughters and several grandchildren—all of whom have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

GRAND RALLY

Don't forget the grand rally, the closing rally of the campaign, Monday, November 7, at the auditorium. Come everybody, and bring your folks, and have a good time.

Speakers of state-wide reputation will add to the pleasure of the occasion. Among those who are expected may be mentioned Hon. I. M. Meekins, Judge Ewart, Hon. Thomas Settle and Congressman Grant.

Letter from M. N. Conner

Editor Times:

Will you allow me space in your paper for a few remarks from this county of Rutherford. I am a true republican from old Henderson county and expect to remain one as long as I live for we have had prosperity ever since William McKinley was elected president of the United States and prosperity back in Garfield's administration. The fair minded democrats are coming into the republican camp every day; they are getting on Grant's and the republican band wagon every day. Grant is going to snow Gudger under so deep on the 8th of November that Mr. Gudger will be like William T. Crawford who, in Old Fort, said that he would not run for office any more if a man like Grant could beat him to congress. Yes, Mr. Crawford is sorry he can't stand as high as Congressman Grant can in North Carolina in the Tenth congressional district; and Hon. J. M. Gudger will be as sorry and worse defeated than Hon. W. T. Crawford was last election.

The Henrietta democrats say they don't think but what Grant will be elected back to congress again. Some of the democrats think it will be very close between them in Rutherford. I believe Grant will win in this county and I believe further the republican ticket will be elected in Rutherford, and Cleveland is going to be very close.

The fair minded democrats are getting on the republican band wagon every day in North Carolina. The farmers are in the best condition they have ever been in since President McKinley's first election; and if the farmers wish to stay on top and get big prices for their farm products, vote for Hon. J. G. Grant and the republican ticket, and the American people will have protection to the farmers and wage earners in Western North Carolina. And if the voters want the rich man on top, vote the democratic ticket,—and let them produce soup houses again and bring labor down again in Western North Carolina as they did in Cleveland's administration.

Hon. J. G. Grant will carry Henderson county at the least account 700 majority and if it is thought the republicans will carry McDowell in the approaching election.

If Mr. Gudger had not denied what Congressman Grant did for North Carolina, he could have run Grant pretty close; but he can't fool the voters all the time; he fooled them at the beginning of the campaign but they soon found out he was telling falsehoods and trying to deceive the people of the Tenth district, democrats as well as republicans, for the purpose of getting back to congress.

I am a well wisher to all of the republicans of Henderson county. I have been in South Carolina for awhile and as I can't vote this election I hope to hear on the 8th of November of every republican in Henderson county being elected. I wish I could vote for them all from Grant to constable.

Yours truly,
M. N. Conner.
Henrietta, Rutherford county.

The difference between the democrats and republicans is just this: The democrats want to do nothing and still have some money to buy things cheap, while the republicans want to keep busy and have things to sell at a good price. One is a silly dream and the other is a sensible reality.—Greensboro News.

Madrid, Oct. 30.—The Duke of Veragua, a descendent of Christopher Columbus and former minister of marine, died today. He was born in 1837.

He visited the United States in 1892 on the occasion of the Columbus celebration, and was received with high honors as the representative of the Columbus family.

Bibles

The Outlook

The American Bible society's report figures up a total of 2,826,831 volumes, including entire Bibles, New Testaments and smaller portions of scripture, as issued during the year just ended, an advance upon the issues of the preceding year of 673,803 volumes. One reason for this great output, of which a very large portion have been sold, is that its field is the world. Besides the central press in New York are presses in Turkey, Syria, Siam, China, and Japan, co-operating in the supply for readers in nearly seventy languages and dialects. Another reason is the number of agents canvassing the world field, eight hundred in all, three-fourths of them in foreign lands. The third reason is the fact that the business is not carried on as a self-sustaining business. The expenditure of last year was offset by a return of less than one-third of it from sales, the balance being made good by benevolent gifts to the society's treasury.

Autumn

The Autumn and the keen and frosty morn!
The wild blood kindles to the task we set,
To whip along the fields of wig-wamed corn
Past where ungathered apples swing and fret.
And oh, the tawny beauty of the land,
The lazy, lazy languor everywhere,
As if Dame Nature's decorative hand
Had spilled its talents on the very air!

Vice-President Sherman Makes a Strong Speech

Asheville, Oct. 28.—Vice-President James Schoolcraft Sherman was here tonight and made a fine speech. A sudden change of weather brought unexpected snow and biting winds; but in spite of these disadvantages, a large, representative and appreciative audience gathered in the opera house where numbers of persons who could not find seats stood in crowded ranks, and, thanks to the genial warmth of the Vice-President's address, were able to forget the chill discomfort of the arctic temperature of the building.

In presenting Mr. Sherman, Mr. Britt said that it now looked as if the south will come again into its own in national prominence, but that this will come only when the republican party makes great gains in the south. The south now has the honor of entertaining a person who for years has stood in the house as an exponent of protection and who is giving the south a small part of his time, asking southern people to vote for the republican policies.

When Mr. Sherman arose he was greeted with tremendous applause. He held his audience's attention throughout.

In beginning Mr. Sherman thanked his hearers for the cordial welcome he received both here and all over North Carolina.

"I have come here to preach the gospel of republicanism," he said, "and I love to talk about that gospel for it's true. I come here, not as Vice-President, but as one who believes in the doctrine of republicanism. I do not attribute to democrats any lack of patriotism for their views; they have as great a desire to make and do things for public good as we have, but they have the fatality of not being able to discern what a given state of facts will do under a given condition. They believe their policies are as good as ours, but have not had opportunity to put them into practice except once, and then the country was thrown into a panic."

Speaking of republicans carrying out pledges, he said: "Every time we have said we are going to do a thing we did it. Our policies have worked out all right. Does any democrat want to repeal the act of 1875 establishing the resumption of specie payment; of the gold standard? I do not believe you now want the party to do away with protective tariff. In 1892 the democrats got to business and the country quit business. No one wants to return to conditions like those under Cleveland. Then, for heaven's sake, why don't you vote that way?"

"I heard Champ Clark, in the house of representatives, say that he had voted for the Wilson-Gorman bill and that he was sorry he did it. The democrats oppose our policies, but after the matter has been settled, they admit that they were wrong. They are as patriotic as we are, and they want prosperity as much as we do; but their judgment is bad; they cannot properly estimate in advance the effect of the application of certain principles to given conditions. They lack foresight; they remind me of the poem about the lightning bug: 'The lightning bug is brilliant, But he hasn't any mind, He goes through his existence With his headlight on behind.'"

Mr. Sherman spoke of the large amount of valuable legislation already enacted by congress during this administration in fulfillment of the pledges of the republican platform, and he said that the other pledges in that platform would be carried out before the close of the administration if the next house is republican. In order that the administration may complete the work of carrying into effect all of its promises, it is necessary that the President shall have the backing of a majority of the house; and Mr. Sherman strongly urged his hearers to do all in their power to return John Grant to congress.

A man can get a swelled head just by thinking how he hasn't one.
