Bible Class.

The organization of the Wesley Adult Bible class, which has been in progress for some time, was completed last Sunday evening with an enrollment of thirty-five. A few short talks were made by Dr. F. V. Hunter, Dr. C. Few, F. S. Wetmur, the pastor and others.

The following officers were elected for a term of six months: H. F. Stewart, president; F. H. Kincaid, vice president; S. K. Breeding, teacher; F. S. Wetmur, assistant teacher; Cecil Rymer, secretary; W. C. Braunton, treasurer.

Committees were appointed as follows:

Membership committee—Rev. A. L. Sanford, James P. Byers, F. V. Hunter and William Twyford.

The Sick committee—whose duty will be to visit the sick member, and all the sick whether members or not: W. S. Miller, F. S. Wetmur, S. J. Harris.

This organization is for the benefit of visitors in this city. It meets every Sunday morning at 9:45 o'clock, at the Methodist church.

Australia Claims Healthiest City. Sydney, Australia, is claimed to be the healthiest city in the world. At the Australian Medical congress, held recently, it was stated that the town has the lowest death rate of any city in the world.

On January the 2nd, a number of friends and relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Orr, as invited guests to join with them in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Orr are two among the old people of our community whose lives are highly appreciated by all. They have raised a family of nine children who command the respect of all whom they meet. Six of the children were present: Robert K. Orr, Benjamin F. Orr, Morris N. Orr, Mesdames W. A. Morris, C. E. Campfield, J. A. Laughter. Also the sons-in-law, Rev. W. A. Morris, C. E. Campfield, and Jas. A. Laughter, and daughters-in-law, Mesdames R. K. Orr, B. F. Orr, M. N. Orr, and several grandchildren. Among others present were: B. B. Middleton, E. D. Middleton, Mrs. A. B. Fullam, Mrs. Naomi Huggins, Mrs. Elsie Corn of Brevard, brothers and sisters of Mrs. Orr, and Samuel Sentell, H. D. Drake, and J. B. Drake and wife.

At one o'clock the pleasing announcement was made, "Dinner is ready." Then we marched into the dining room and surrounded a table teeming with the good things that had been prepared for the occasion. It looked like a wedding dinner indeed.

After dinner we reassembled in the sitting room and listened to some excellent music led by R. K. Orr. The choir was composed of his brothers and sisters. A devotional service consisting of a short lesson and prayer was conducted by the writer.

The most enjoyable feature of the day was an address by Uncle Sam Sentell whose subject was "The old settlers of the community," and he closed by relating his religious experience. Uncle Sam is ninety-two years old, getting rather feeble but his mind is still active. He wore as a souvenir his father's coat of home spun blue jeans.

Following this address prayers were offered by H. D. Drake and Mrs. W. A. Morris. Then the children formed in line and their father came forward and gave them each a present of silver.

The day was highly enjoyed by all present. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Orr and their children many more happy years.

T. A. Drake.

How It Was in Rome.

In the golden age of 300 peaceful years under Imperial Rome crime almost ceased. Gibbon says, because no man could escape the jurisdiction of Rome, for Rome then was the whole world.

Longevity of the Earth.

That the age of primitive man in France runs back at least two hundred thousand years has been satisfactorily proved by Lyell and other geologists, who showed that it has taken at least this long for the rivers to wear away their beds below the caves where they once flowed.
