

FACULTY FOR CITY SCHOOLS

Faculty Named for 1922-23 Session One of Best That City Schools Have Ever Had.

After a search and investigation covering the last five months, the Appointment Committee of the Hendersonville School Board is ready to announce the faculty for the school session which opens September 11th. Twelve new teachers appear on the list, six in the High School and six in the Elementary School.

According to a recent ruling of the State Department of Education, schools having less than fifty teachers will be allowed only one part-time Principal to direct the larger unit of any given system. As the Elementary School is approximately three times the size of the High School Miss Rosa Edwards was continued in charge of the former unit. The ruling thus made it necessary for the Superintendent to become responsible for the duties of the High School Principal. He will have associated with him in the High School unit the following teachers, all of whom have had successful teaching experience:

Miss Helen Baker, M. A. Graduate of Columbia University, New York—History and Civics.

T. W. Valentine, A. B. Trinity—Latin.

BIBLE CONFERENCE TO BEGIN MONDAY

Bible Conference Will Begin Monday; Y. P. C. U. Meeting Closes.

The Y. P. C. U. and Sabbath School conference at Bonclarken will close tomorrow, after a week spent with profit and pleasure. There have been 175 guests at the assembly ground for the conference, and they have enjoyed their stay immensely. Work has been done in mission study, and many speakers bearing inspirational messages have been heard.

The Bible conference will open Monday, with Rev. S. W. Reid as leader. For this also there are a number of interesting speakers on the program, and it is planned to make the week of this conference as interesting as the one just closed.

Woman's Work will be one of the interesting courses offered at this conference, besides the many others, for which many are enrolling. It is thought that Bonclarken will have to secure additional rooms for the second conference as it did for the first.

An invitation has been extended to William Jennings Bryan, who has been teaching a Bible class in Florida for some time, to speak at the conference.

CONFEDERATES FORM NEW CAMP

Confederate Veterans Form Watt Bryson Camp at Well Attended Meeting on Last Thursday.

Thirty-seven Confederate veterans of Henderson county met at the city high school for their annual reunion yesterday, enjoyed a generous dinner furnished by the local Daughters of the Confederacy, and heard a number of good speeches.

The main address of the day was by Rev. J. D. Mauney, of the Lutheran church. He acted as chaplain for the camp also, and made a speech that the veterans appreciated, and did not hesitate to say so.

The veterans met on the porch of the high school building before the dinner, and swapped reminiscences and anecdotes of the war, enjoying greatly the opportunity to meet old friends again.

Dinner was served in the gymnasium. According to all reports, the old soldiers did full justice to it, and each one interviewed swears that his brother ate more than he himself did.

E. B. Wooten, besides furnishing the music for the occasion, very kindly invited the veterans to dinner at the Carolina Terrace, but as the Daughters of the Confederacy had already prepared an elaborate and bountiful dinner, the invitation could not be accepted. This dinner was indeed bountiful. It was noted that there were 12 kinds of cake set before the veterans. After the meal, cigars were furnished the guests.

The coffee for this occasion was furnished by Raymond Edwards, who makes this his annual custom. A very generous gift was made by Mr. Edwards to the Daughters, consisting of a large coffee pot, a number of cups and saucers and many other utensils to be used on future occasions.

The blessing for the dinner was asked by Thos. Shipman, and at the conclusion of the dinner, a very happy little speech on behalf of the veterans was made by A. Cannon.

Among those who made interesting talks on the day were W. M. Case, of Horse Shoe, A. Cannon, Tom Shipman, Preston Lane, Dick Leverette, of South Carolina, C. C. Young and Mack Kinzey.

One of the features was a Chamber of Commerce will be featured in a spectacular pageant of progress which will be held, following the "Hendersonville of Tomorrow" dinner, at the convention hall of the Carolina Terrace.

The dinner will be served promptly at 6:30 o'clock. More than 300 ladies and gentlemen have already reserved plates through the chairman of the entertainment committee, Mayor J. Mack Rhodes.

Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt will be the honor guest.

Dr. D. W. Daniel, of Clemson College, will address the dinner guests on a subject of community interest.

E. W. Ewbank will talk on the "Hendersonville of Tomorrow."

J. O. Bell, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will preside.

The pageant will begin at 9 o'clock. Several hundreds of persons whose business will prevent their dinner attendance may come earlier than the pageant hour, however, and hear the speakers. The doors are to be thrown open at 7:30 o'clock. The general public is invited.

The dinner and pageant will be attended by many persons from Asheville, Spartanburg, Greenville, Charlotte, Raleigh, Winston-Salem and Charleston, persons interested in the leadership of their communities. There will be many visiting newspaper men.

The president and board of directors of the Asheville Chamber of Commerce have accepted invitations to attend as a body.

President Bell has received many letters congratulating the folks of Hendersonville in their efforts to broaden their scope of appeal.

The dinner and pageant will mark the beginning of a three-year publicity and development campaign which is designed to give Hendersonville the publicity she deserves in the matter of attracting tourists and industries, and of developing her great resources.

It is thought a greater Chamber of Commerce, according to President Bell, that Hendersonville will come to her own. In order to accomplish most, he says, it is necessary that a careful plan of operations be drawn up. This has been done by the directors, with the approval of the membership, and with the introduction of a reorganized Chamber of Commerce next week Hendersonville will present a "solid front" for civic growth.

High School Will Take Part in Pageant on 14th

With all the business houses and firms in the city registering representatives in the pageant for the night of August 14 at the Carolina Terrace, the city high school has announced that it will not be behind the times, and has entered not only one representative, but eight, two from each class in the high school.

A boy and girl from the senior, junior, sophomore and freshman classes will be in costume representative of their classes, and the eight high school students will no doubt be one of the chief centers of interest in the pageant.

DINNER WILL BE LARGE AFFAIR

Three Hundred Dinner Reservations Made; Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt Will Be Honor Guest.

Hendersonville takes a look at herself Monday evening. Her religious life, her educational facilities, her industrial productions, her tourist good will, her hotels and boarding houses, her stores—all Hendersonville, in fact, are to be the subjects of a Chamber of Commerce will be featured in a spectacular pageant of progress which will be held, following the "Hendersonville of Tomorrow" dinner, at the convention hall of the Carolina Terrace.

$200,000 MORE TAX ASSESSMENT

Some Property Trebles in Value Since Last Assessment, and Many Increases Recorded.

Increase in the tax assessment of the city of Hendersonville was made yesterday at a meeting of the equalization board to the amount of approximately $200,000.

On about 20 hotels and estates in the city. On some of these the increase was great, on account of greatly increased valuation due to improvements or any other cause and on some was very slight.

The increase of the above named amount on Hendersonville property indicates in a graphic manner the steady, ever increasing, value of property in this city, and the vast improvements that have recently taken place, most of these improvements being made for the benefit of the tourists who come here in the summer.

One of the instances showing the increasing valuation of property in Hendersonville is that of Laurel Park, which more than trebled in value. There are several other instances in which hotels and private estates show great increase in valuation.

The commissioners will hold another meeting Saturday, at which time they will levy the taxes. The assessment has been completed.

HEAD KIWANIS SPOKE HERE

Kiwanis Governor Pleased With Local Club's Progress; Good Speeches Heard.

The guests of Col. J. C. Woodward at Highland Lake Inn, members of the Hendersonville Kiwanis Club on Thursday evening, with their ladies, enjoyed a most hospitable dinner and dance, and had the pleasure of witnessing the cadets formally salute the flag. Col. Woodward reiterated his belief in Hendersonville and made a most delightful speech, declaring that all Hendersonville must display the Kiwanis spirit to the visitors and that he noted very pleasingly that a greater Chamber of Commerce is growing up through which Henderson County might express its high civic purposes and aims.

The district governor of Kiwanis clubs in the Carolinas, W. B. Merrimon of Greensboro, addressed the club on Kiwanis philosophy. He said that there were 42 clubs in the Carolinas and that each club prided itself on the quality of their membership rather than the numbers on the rolls. "I am glad," he said, "that the Hendersonville club is progressing so nicely, and that it is backing the Chamber of Commerce in its every move toward 'community progress and betterment.'"

The president of the Jacksonville, Florida, club, Dr. McNair, a Presbyterian minister, in a brief address, declared that Kiwanis stood for a high degree of citizenship and that a man cannot be a Kiwanian and not do his best to stamp out of his community any spot or aspect of "civic disease."

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Curry and son Graham are home from Greycourt, where they attended the annual reunion of the Curry family.

GREAT AMOUNT PROPERTY SOLD

Week's Transactions in Real Estate Show Ready Market For Home Sites.

The total sum of real estate sold in Hendersonville the past week by auction sale is approximately $30,000, and there is perhaps more than that. The majority of the transactions we have not calculated were in the city.

The Mims property in Flat Rock sold for between $5,000 and $6,000 and consisted of seven lots and one house. The Mims property is about three-quarters of a mile outside the city limits, and is just opposite the Maybank place. The lots sold were some of the most desirable building sites in Flat Rock. The sale was put through by the Justice, Lee and Rector real estate company.

Fifteen lots in Lenox Park, belonging to A. R. Hanson and P. L. Wright, were sold by the Hendersonville Real Estate Company at auction yesterday afternoon. The 15 lots were sold in the short time of one and a half hours, all of these going to out-of-town people. The average sale price of the lots was $300. The lots were all building sites, and no houses were included in the sale.

Those who purchased the Lenox Park lots were: J. T. Jammaer and A. E. Graham, four lots, Mrs. T. W. Tillman, one; J. C. H. Baggett, one; F. O. Williams, one; Mrs. M. O. Epstein, one; W. B. Herring, one; C. Buckner, one and Mr. Turner, one.

Main street property this morning found a ready market. The lots adjacent to the Times office were auctioned off, and some of these went at extremely reasonable prices. Two of these lots were sold to R. P. Freeze, one to Miss Annie Crowder, nine to Mrs. Sadie Melnick, of Atlanta, Ga. The approximate total of these lots was $12,000. This was the property of Claude Brown.

Sale of lots on Seventh avenue yesterday was also very brisk.

Two lots belonging to A. Ficker were sold to Erle Jackson, and two by W. F. Israel to H. D. Hyder. These lots sold for $6,000.

The brisk market for building lots in Hendersonville indicates that there are many people desirous of locating here. It will be noted that the majority of the sites offered were taken by out-of-town people, and that the majority of them were small home sites.

Chamber of Commerce Issues Map of City

One thousand maps of Hendersonville and surrounding territory have been printed by the Hendersonville Chamber of Commerce, and may be obtained at that office. These maps show in detail many of the beauty spots of this section, such as Chimney Rock, Kanuga, Laurel Park, and Lake Summit, and the roads leading to them are clearly outlined. Besides this, the schools, public buildings and hotels of the city are depicted.

The map was made by Walter Allison, whose cartoons appear in the Times from time to time, and it is one of the best pieces of work that this talented young man has turned out. It is not printed in colors, but shows in plain black and white, the lay of the city and the positions of the most popular centers of interest. Measuring 27 by 22 inches, and printed on fine white paper, the map is easy to understand, and will be an invaluable aid to tourists.

L. G. THORNTON RETURNS HOME

Boy Who Disappeared At 15 And Took Assumed Name Returns To Hendersonville.

L. G. Thornton, who disappeared in 1916 at the age of 15 has returned to his home here.

From the time Mr. Thornton disappeared until the present, no one here was aware of his exact location. It was rumored that he had joined the navy, which later turned out to be the case.

Some time ago, a girl came to Hendersonville claiming to be the wife of Leon Trice, but upon investigation, it was found that the Leon Trice of Hendersonville was not the man she had married, and a picture she had recognized as that of Thornton, who had disappeared.

Suit was then entered by the wife, who claimed that she was deceived and mistreated, and that Thornton had assumed that name of Trice to throw her off the track.

Mr. Thornton, however, explains that he took the name when he was a boy to elude pursuit which would return him to his home here, and he had no false intentions in doing so.

In order to absolve the real Leon Trice of any connection with the matter, the following statement has been made by Mr. Thornton.

"Hendersonville, N. C. August 11, 1922.

"Editor Western N. C. Times:

"Some time ago there appeared in your paper an account of Leon Trice as having married in Brooklyn, N. Y., and having abandoned his wife who afterwards learned that her husband was not Leon Trice, but Leonadas G. Thornton.

"In order that Mr. Trice may be absolved of any connection with this alleged abandonment I beg to advise that I am the man of whom it is alleged that he abandoned his wife and while it is true that I was married, and have lived under that name for seven years, I assumed that name when I was a boy 15 years of age in order that I might not be traced and brought back home and not for the purpose of perpetrating any sort of fraud.

"The merits of the case in question will be thrashed out in the courts of this county in due course, but I desire to absolve Mr. Trice of any connection with the matter whatever. The fact that I took his name when I was fifteen years of age is due solely to the whim of a boy without judgment and for no purpose than that of eluding pursuit that might return me to my home which I knew would be probable if I could be located.

"I have been in the United States Naval service ever since I left here at that age and have an honorable record which I propose to maintain.

"Yours truly,

"LEONIDAS G. THORNTON."

Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt To Attend Dinner

Mrs. Edith Vanderbilt, president of the North Carolina Agricultural Society, has written the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce that she will be present at the dinner for "The Hendersonville of Tomorrow," which will be served at the Terrace Monday evening, August 14th.

Mrs. Vanderbilt's letter commends Hendersonville on her progressive nature, and closes with the following paragraph:

"Thanking you for your interest, and looking forward to the dinner of 'Hendersonville of To-morrow' I am,

"Yours truly,

"EDITH VANDERBILT."
