Failed in Health

"My mother died six years ago," writes Miss Ruth Ward, of Jerseyville, Ill., "and left me to care for six children. I had never been strong; and this, with the shock of her death, was too much for me. I failed in health. I was tired all the time and did not want to go anywhere, nor care for company. I had the headache all the time and such bearing-down pains. A very dear friend advised me to take Cardui, as it had done her so much good, so I commenced to use it and now I am in good health."

SENATOR STEPHENSON CHARGED WITH BRIBERY

Committee Wants to Oust Wisconsin Man From Seat.

United States Senator Isaac Stephenson is charged with a number of violations of the laws of Wisconsin. The charge is made in a lengthy statement filed with Governor F. E. McGovern by the 1909 state senate committee which investigated the primary campaign and election of Senator Stephenson.

The committee recommends that a copy of the report be submitted to the United States senate and that body investigate Mr. Stephenson's election.

It is charged that he violated the law which prohibits any one from contributing money to assist candidates for the legislature who reside outside of the district in which the contributor resides; that he gave a sum of money to a supporter of McGovern for United States senator, such supporter afterward switching to Stephenson, and that he paid large sums of money to others which was afterward used by them to induce other persons to assist in procuring his election. The report in part:

On the whole record, therefore, Stephenson is charged with knowledge of the manner in which his campaign was being conducted and the purposes for which money was being disbursed. The findings of the committee are that the nomination in the primary and the election to the United States senate by the legislature of Isaac Stephenson of Wisconsin is null and void on account of attempted bribery and corrupt practices by himself and by his campaign managers, agents and workers and of violations of the law of Wisconsin defining and punishing offenses against the elective franchise. When Senator Stephenson was informed of the charges filed with the governor of Wisconsin he said the majority of the committee which investigated his election filed its report two years ago and that there was no minority report at that time. He said that there was a minority of the committee opposed to him, however, and that he supposed that it was now making a report.

LARGEST WARSHIP LAUNCHED

Miss Mary Macon Was the Sponsor For the Arkansas. Splashed with the traditional bottle of champagne, the battleship Arkansas, the largest warship in the world, was launched from the yards of the New York Shipbuilding company at

Camden, N. J. Miss Mary Macon, daughter of Representative Robert B. Macon of Helena, Ark., was the sponsor for the ship. There was an unusual feature to the launching, the absence of an official delegation representing the state government of Arkansas. It has always been the custom for the governor of the state for which a ship has been named to head the launching party of to be represented by some one officially designated by him.

SENATORIAL FIGHT IS WAGED TONIGHT.

Friends of Sheehan and Shepard Are Confident.

The New York Democratic joint caucus of senators and assemblymen to elect a United States senator to succeed Chauncey M. Depew will meet in the assembly chamber at Albany tonight, immediately after a short session of the senate and the assembly. The friends of Edward F. Shepard declare that this caucus may last until early tomorrow morning.

The friends of William M. Sheehan gave it as their opinion that the work of the joint caucus would not last more than two hours. There are 114 Democratic legislators, twenty-nine senators and eighty-five assemblymen. The followers of Mr. Sheehan express the deep conviction that Mr. Shepard will not have more than nine Democratic senators and thirty-five assemblymen. But, then, the names of Martin W. Littleton, D. Cady Herrick, Supreme Court Justice James W. Gerard and Alton B. Parker are to go before the caucus.

The Shepard people insist that the votes of Littleton, Herrick, Gerard and Parker, together with those for Shepard, will prevent the naming of Sheehan on the first ballot. Then, too, William R. Hearts is to have two votes, one senator and one assemblyman, and a being investigated by the league. It is to be a free for all race.

Governor Dix, Thomas Mott Osborne, William Church Osborne and Charles F. Murphy went into conference at the executive mansion late last night. The conference broke up at 10 o'clock this morning. After leaving the executive mansion at the close of the conference Thomas Mott Osborne said:

"If Shepard was not elected up tonight he is elected now."

GENERAL NEWS

EXTRA P. PRENTICE, chairman of the New York state Republican committee, has announced his intention of resigning that position at a meeting of the state committee called for Jan. 21 in a letter to Samuel S. Koenig, former secretary of state. A copy of the letter was sent to all members of the committee. At the meeting on Jan. 21, to be held in the state headquarters in New York, the matter of Mr. Prentice's successor will be taken up.

Commander William S. Sims, commanding the battleship Minnesota, will be reprimanded publicly for his alleged indiscreet "last drop of blood" speech made in London Dec. 3 last week, in being investigated by the state department of health. The disease appeared in practically every county in the state and caused about fifty deaths. State Commissioner of Health Porter has secured the aid of the federal government in the investigation and Surgeon W. H. Frost of Washington has been detailed to make a report on the outbreak.

The news that Wu Ting Fang, former minister to the United States, is to cut off his Jan. 30 and that Chinese merchants in San Francisco will follow his example is affecting the human hair market, according to reports in New York. Augustus H. Skillin, receiver in bankruptcy of Louis Leverson, manufacturer of human hair goods, said that the hair market had been affected by the reports.

It was learned in Concord, N. H., that Dewitt C. Howe, attorney for George W. Glover, has filed with the clerk of the superior court, setting in equity, setting forth his claim that Mrs. Eddy's will was illegal, and praying for a construction thereof. Also asking that Henry M. Baker be enjoined from paying out any money on account of this investigation, and such questions are settled.

A bill which will legalize the so-called "unwritten law" if it is enacted by the Missouri legislature has been introduced in the house by John C. Holmes of Phelps county. The measure gives a husband the right to stay the destroyer of his home. Practically every member of the family is included in the list of those whose honor must be maintained.

Senator Robinson has prepared a bill to be introduced in the Kansas legislature which will provide a fine of not less than $500 for any adult person who tells a child that there is no such person as Santa Claus. It is the greatest tragedy of childhood to scatter such an illusion, Senator Robinson says.

President Taft has asked congress in a special message for further legislation to control the purchase and sale of opium, morphine, cocaine and other habit forming drugs in the United States and possessions. The president suggests several changes in the opium exclusion act of Feb. 9, 1909.

Bills have been introduced in the Washington legislature abolishing the death penalty for murder and treason and providing for the commission form of government for the state.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

Blackened and charred though it was, with the gay border of its little tablecloth burned away, the miniature tea table that five-year-old Marion Yarrow had set for the supper of the china doll was still standing neatly set with its bits of cups and saucers when the firemen burst through the locked doors of the Yarrow home in New York. Lying on the floor beside the little table badly burned were little Marion and her mother. The child died a few hours later, and the mother's death followed closely.

Marcus Molen and Joseph Vincent, employees of the Bailey Kitting mill at Fort Plain, N. Y., were chaffing each other when Vincent, the more powerful man, grabbed Molen, wrapped a shirt around his neck, lifted him to his back and carried him around the shop. Vincent carried Molen for a time on himself. When he became passive Vincent dropped him to the floor, expecting that Molen would arise and continue the play, but Molen lay quiet and helpless, and he slumped back in that condition despite efforts of doctors to arouse him and is dangerously near death. Besides being all but strangled Molen seems to have injured his neck by some way, although it is neither broken nor dislocated.

Benjamin Cramp, a member of a famous family of Philadelphia shipbuilders, was found unconscious in the bathroom at his residence and died two hours later of gas poisoning. He was found by Mrs. Cramp on her return home from a visit to the home of a friend. Smelling gas as she entered the front door, Mrs. Cramp commenced an investigation. Finding the bathroom door locked, she forced open the door and found her husband on a chair, with his pipe and a magazine close beside him. The bathroom was filled with gas, which had escaped from an open jet.

Michael Belangie, a contract miner, and James Arvey, a shift boss in the Bell and Diamond mine at Butte, Mont., were killed by timber gas arising from a fire that broke out underground in the Modoc mine, an adjoining and connecting mine. Twelve other miners were overpowered and revived. Belangie, who was a Spanish war veteran, lost his life while rescuing other men. He succeeded in placing two unconscious pump men on the cage and sending them to the surface, when he collapsed and died.

To get even with Conductor Henry Erdman, author of the Erdman national arbitration act, died at his home in Allegheny, Pa., aged sixty-three years. When he entered congress in 1893 he drafted the bill for the prevention of strikes and settlement of labor disputes that bears his name.

FOREIGN NOTES OF INTEREST. A visit by the Duke d'Albuquerque of the United States before the end of the present season is one of the rumors which has reached Washington from Boston court circles. The duke is now in London and he is believed to be better and would recover. He is said to have had cancer of the stomach and septic poisoning set in.

Former Congressman Constantine J. Erdman, author of the Erdman national arbitration act, died at his home in Allegheny, Pa., aged sixty-three years. When he entered congress in 1893 he drafted the bill for the prevention of strikes and settlement of labor disputes that bears his name.

Miss Mary G. Crossman of Huntington, N. Y., a Cornell co-ed, was injured by an explosion in the chemical laboratory in Morse hall. She had been performing an experiment. By a mistake she poured a wrong chemical substance into a glass tube which already contained other chemicals. The fusion of the two caused the explosion. The tube was shattered, and a good many pieces of glass lodged in Miss Crossman's face and neck.

Henry Roger Whitmore, sixty-eight years old, former assistant secretary of the St. Louis Merchants' exchange, died from the eighth floor of the Markham hotel in St. Louis, Dec. 15, by instantaneously. He left a note in his room in the hotel saying: "The doctor says I will be utterly helpless and bedridden the rest of my life. I prefer death."

One man was fatally and another seriously injured in the basement of an apartment in New York when a partially filled barrel of a preparation of coal tar became ignited.

SPORTING AFFAIRS. Tex Rickard admits that he would stage another battle between Jeffries and Johnson soon. He will go to Los Angeles in an endeavor to get Jeffries' signature to a contract. Rickard said he would offer a purse of $50,000, but that there would be no bonuses. He will try to stake the battle in the state of Nevada. He declined to state his further plans at this time.

Philly McGovern whipped Young O'Leary, the east side bantamweight, in a fast and exciting round bout at the Bostwick Beach Athletic club in South Brooklyn. It was O'Leary's first appearance in the ring in several months, and his lay off did not appear to have done him any good. He started off well enough, but after the third round O'Leary's blows lacked sufficient steam to bother Philly to any extent. O'Leary depended mainly upon a straight left jab, which, though it sent McGovern's head back at times, failed to do any real damage.

Sam Langford received the decision over Joe Jeannette of New York at the end of the twelve round bout at the Army Athletic association in Boston. The men have met six times before. Langford is setting two decisions. Jeannette one, two were no decisions and the other a draw, but Jeannette did not receive such severe punishment in them all that was handed to him in this last bout. In every round

3 NEGROES LYNCHED BY KENTUCKY MOB

Two Shot as They Try to Escape; Other Is Hanged.

A mob of only twenty masked men visited the jail at Shelbyville, Ky., and lynched three negroes who were in the jail. Two were held on the charge of attacking white women, and the third had been convicted of murdering an old negro woman.

Before visiting the jail the mob raided a blacksmith shop and took a sledgehammer, a bolt-cutter and various other tools. They went to the jail and demanded the keys. Jailer Thompson surrendered the keys without resistance. The men entered the jail and cut the bolts which held the doors of the cage that held the prisoners.

The three negroes—Eugene Marshall, who had been sentenced to be hanged for the murder of an old negro woman; Wade Patterson and James West, charged with attacking white girls—were hurried to a railroad bridge.

The ropes which held Patterson and West broke, and the two ran into the woods to escape. The members of the mob fired on them, and both fell dead. There was no excitement on the streets, and not a person could be found who knew that a lynching took place. The town was not aroused.

The coroner will hold an inquest, but it is believed the case will not be pushed.

VAN DYKE QUIT FOR GOOD.

Was Not Wanted, Says Princeton Professor, on Second Resignation. Dr. Henry Van Dyke's recent decision to sever relations with Princeton university of Princeton, N. J., as Murray professor of English literature, which has been the subject of conjecture among his friends, was in part explained by himself. He resigned because he felt he was not wanted, and, much as he liked the work, he chose to break with associates who failed so far in respect for him as to deny him a voice in faculty affairs.

Three years ago he became so resentful of this treatment that he tendered his resignation, but was induced to withdraw it. This time, it is believed, he has withdrawn for good.

SKELTON ENDS MYSTERY.

Bones Found in Old Trunk in Indiana Believed to Be Those of Man Who Disappeared Long Ago.

The disappearance of Eugene Woodman in 1867 from Noblesville, Ind., on the day he was to be married, is believed to be solved by the finding of an old trunk with parts of his body in it, in what was an old road house at the time. The excavation under the house was made as the result of finding human bones just under the surface a few days ago. In digging under the old house a spade struck the lid of a trunk. When the lid was broken off the skeleton was found.

Woodman went to Noblesville to marry Sarah Vitt, and after reaching the city he arranged the details. His mother and father had gone with him from their Illinois home to be present at the wedding. He was never seen after leaving the minister's in the street. The young man had a large sum of money on his person, and it is believed that he was murdered.

TAFI NOW A PEDESTRIAN.

Forsakes Automobile to Enjoy Walk. Washington, Jan. 18.—President Taft has forsaken the big White House automobile that can make its sixty miles an hour any day for the leisurely joys of walks about the capital. Almost every afternoon, rain or shine, the president, with Secretary Norton or Captain Butt and two secret service men, has left the White House just after luncheon and has spent several hours in the parks and on the city streets.

Great Cement Demand. Two years ago there was an over-production of 100 per cent. starting cement manufacturers in the face, as the estimated capacity of the plants at that time was 100,000,000 barrels per year and the consumption only 50,000,000. Present conditions indicate a consumption of 75,000,000 barrels this year. This increased demand, coupled with the fact that large Eastern manufacturers for two years have sold large quantities South and West at unprofitable figures, has caused the advance.

Life Insurance.

The best business men and farmers carry life insurance because their money is safely invested and again their lives are protected in case of death. It makes young men save their earnings for after years, for the rainy days and for a large estate that in this way is created by a smaller cost than any other way. The Mutual Life of New York, is the oldest and strongest in America. Get in the best possible company when you do insure. See Hines—the agent, at Kenansville, who represents the strongest Company of any kind in the world. Men and women should insure while they can be offered at a lower rate than will ever be offered again.

Keep the wolf from the door. Prepare for old age. Be independent in life. Save a part of your earnings. THE MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK, D. S. HINES.
