Our May series will open Saturday, May 8, and will be the earliest possible date to get shares if you let this Saturday pass and do not take advantage of the opportunity that is now knocking at your door.

Weep

You well may if you fail to get your suares in the biggest series in the history of this association.

Quarantine Is Still On At Rutherfordton

Rutherfordton, Feb. 9.—At a joint meeting of the town councilmen and the board of trustees of the Rutherfordton graded school held here last Friday afternoon, it was unanimously agreed to postpone opening the school for another week, or until February 16th. If the situation continues to improve, it is hoped that the quarantine may be raised by next Sunday, but it cannot be fore told at this writing. There have been no fatalities in town so far from the influenza, but two deaths have been reported in Union township.

Robert Davis, colored, the alleged bogus census enumerator and life insurance agent who was arrested here last week, was given a preliminary hearing Friday before United States Commissioner R. W. Logan and placed under a $500 bond for his appearance at Federal court at Charlotte. Upon his failure to give the required bond he was remanded to jail. Davis was thought to be the man wanted at Reidsville charged with murder, but officer sent here from that town said that Davis is not the man wanted. However, he is wanted at Hickory Grove, S. C., for crime committed there more than a year ago.

Judge J. Bis Ray, of Burnsville, spent several days here last week hearing motions from counsel for the few cases brought before him, the regular term of the Superior court for February being automatically suspended on account of the quarantine against the influenza. Judge Ray, who was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Judge M. H. Justice for this judicial district, is a candidate to succeed himself. He has as his opponent Attorney Michael Schenck, of Hendersonville.

Republicans Nominate Asheville Millionaire

Hendersonville, Feb. 7.—L. L. Jenkins, a millionaire banker of Asheville, was this afternoon selected as a candidate for Congress and "recommended" to the June primary by the republicans of the Tenth North Carolina congressional district, in a meeting held here.

The Henderson county courthouse was crowded and delegations from every county in the district save Clay were present.

J. J. Britt, of Asheville, presided. The only fight over any position was between C. J. Harris and J. B. Ensley, both of Dillsboro, wanting to be delegate to the national convention.

After some debate Ensley withdrew, and Harris and Brownlow Jackson, of Hendersonville, were selected delegates, with C. Brewster Chapman and Ensley as alternates.

Dan W. Hill, chairman of the Buncombe republican executive committee, was endorsed to the state convention as candidate for delegate at large to the national convention.

W. R. Chambers, of Marion, was named as presidential elector over T. L. Green, of Waynesville.

The republicans endorsed Judge Pritchard for president, J. J. Britt for governor, F. A. Linney for state chairman, and J. M. Morehead for national committeeman.

They went on record as favoring woman suffrage.

Brownlow Jackson will probably be named again as chairman of the district convention, and is expected to be selected by Jenkins as campaign manager.

A resolution favoring the ratification of the peace treaty and league of nations, "but with only such reservations as will, beyond doubt, protect the sovereignty and independence of the country." was passed.
