SCHOOL NEWS

A Bible study contest conducted under the auspices of the State Y. M. C. A., has been entered by the high school boys. The course will extend over a period of eight weeks and will be on "Jesus the Leader." It is expected that great good will accrue to each one taking part. Incidentally the school expects to win one of the prizes offered by the Y. M. C. A.

Mid-term examinations have been completed at Spindale school. Miss Grace Ellington, a member of the eleventh grade class, is still out of school, as a result of an operation. She will soon be able to be back at school, however.

EXTENSION COURSE CLASS

An extension class, conducted by the University of North Carolina was begun Feb. 3. It will meet alternatively in the Spindale and Rutherfordton school buildings. The completion of the course, which is sixteen weeks in duration, will give certificate and also reading circle credit. Those who desire it may receive degree credit for the work. Dr. Terry who has charge of the course, is a delightful teacher.

This is a rare opportunity for the county teachers to get off their reading circle work and at the same time receive credit toward raising their certificates.

The next meeting will be held at Rutherfordton February 10, at four o'clock. By joining the class on that date, you will be able to obtain full credit.

GROSE MAKING GOOD

The many friends of Mr. J. U. Grose will be pleased to hear of his success in athletics, at Richmond Military Academy, Augusta, Ga., where he is a first year cadet. Tuesday's Augusta Daily, in commenting on the military academy's splendid team and its schedule, had this to say of Grose, "Big Boy Grose, the tallest member of the squad, is going like a house on fire. This tall, lanky lad from the foothills of North Carolina is one of the best shots on the team and has worlds of speed which he hopes to display in the game Saturday against the Wilmington, N. C., Highs, the state champs of 1924."

J. U. is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Grose, of Spindale. This is his first year at Richmond Military Academy.

Pictures Framed

Many times there are about the house old prints and other old pictures that would make real beautiful pictures when properly framed.

Many calenders that are cast off as useless just because they are out of date are real faithful copies of masterpieces and in a well-selected frame make things of beauty and joy in the home.

Photographs of loved ones are better kept and look much better in a good frame.

Our work is of the highest quality and very reasonable
