to give us a little inside baseball dope on what was meant by a recent remark we heard, "the bleachers went wild." We have figured out that it referred to a couple of peroxide blondes who made a big fuss when Babe Ruth struck out. What's your version of it? Don't pass up another good chance to secure such pure and choice groceries at such rockbottom prices. We are making special offers to the housewife this week.

Nervous hot flashes

"SOME time ago when in a very nervous, run-down condition," says Mrs. Martha F. Marlow, of Broken Bow, Okla., "I tried numerous remedies to try at least to keep going, but I could not. I was weak and tired—just no good at all. My back ached and I had hot flashes until I was so very nervous I smothered."

"I couldn't sleep and I was never hungry, and I kept getting weaker. I couldn't stand on my feet. This was an unusual condition for me as I had been pretty strong all along. I knew that I would have to do something, and that pretty soon."

"Some friend suggested that I take Cardui, and it certainly was a good suggestion, for after taking one bottle I could tell I was stronger and better. I didn't quit. I kept it up all through the change and did fine. I felt like a different person after I began taking Cardui."

Cardui has helped thousands of suffering women.

TO VOTE FOR QUEEN OF THE SPEEDWAY

Towns and Cities Urged to Send in Nominations for Exciting Voting Contest.

Charlotte, June 14.—The Charlotte Speedway is going to conduct a sponsor voting contest for the world's sprint race classic which will take place at the Charlotte Speedway Monday, August 23.

The various towns in North and South Carolina are nominating sponsors to represent them on this occasion.

All Speedway tickets will have attached to them a coupon which will entitle the purchaser of the ticket to cast 10 votes for some sponsor for each dollar represented in the ticket. In other words, a purchaser of a $5 ticket will be entitled to 50 votes for a sponsor.

The sponsor receiving the largest number of votes will be crowned the "Queen of the Speedway," at a very elaborate coronation ceremony at the Speedway just prior to the races. She will be presented with a large engraved silver loving cup, transportation to and from Charlotte and will occupy "The Royal Suite" at the Hotel Charlotte as guest of the Charlotte Speedway. Each sponsor will be allowed to appoint six maids to assist her in the contest.

The sponsor receiving the second largest number of votes will be presented with a large engraved silver loving cup, $150 in cash, and she and her maids will act as "Ladies in Waiting" to the queen in the coronation ceremony.

The sponsor receiving the third largest number of votes will be presented with a large engraved silver cup, $100 in cash, and she and her maids will act as "Ladies in Waiting" to the queen at the coronation ceremony. The sponsor who receives 10,000 votes will be presented with tickets to grandstand "A" for herself and each of her six maids, she and her maids will be guests of the Speedway at the Speedway Ball the night of August 23.

The mayors and various organizations in the cities and towns of North and South Carolina are urged to send to the Charlotte Speedway nominations from which a sponsor may be selected.

BLAZING CROSS TO OVERLOOK NEW LAKE LURCH CHURCH

Chimney Rock, June 14.—As an example of the use of the cross as a symbol of Christian reverence, a site overlooking the Lake Lure church now under construction here, is being sought by a group of friends who advocate the erection of a giant electric cross on a mountain top.

The proposal has aroused the interest of visitors from all parts of the country as well as the home folks, and it is very probably that funds necessary for its erection will be easily available.

According to the plans mentioned the cross will be brilliantly lighted by a large number of electric bulbs, which at night will shine upon the mountainsides and light the church ground, the lake and the valley below. It will stand upon a high point overlooking Lake Lure. It will cast a reflection upon the waters which will be visible to practically all residents in the community as well as guests at the hotels and boarding houses in this region. It will constitute one of the beauties of this section and be a silent reminder, many believe, of loyalty to trust and fidelity to duty. It will broadcast a silent message of love of home and country and the higher things of life.

It can be easily built of rough stones gathered from the community and the electricity will not be expensive when the great dam now under construction is completed and begins to generate its 13,000,000 capacity hydro-electric power.

A farmer traveling from Edenton to Willard states that he left cotton and peanut section and traveled through tobacco, Irish potato, strawberry and dewberry sections into a region where lettuce was grown. He was deeply impressed with the crop producing possibilities of eastern Carolina.

Farm mothers of North Carolina will gather for a short course at State College, June 14 to 19.

ZEB WEAVER IS CONGRATULATED

Alley, Losing Congressional Nomination, Suggests Joint Addresses

Hon. Felix E. Alley, defeated candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from the tenth district, whose brother, Z. B. Alley, met an untimely and tragic death on election night when he was carrying the election news to Sylvan, has addressed the following letter of congratulations to Congressman Weaver, pledging his co-operation and aid in the general campaign next fall:

"Honorable Zebuion Weaver,
"Asheville, North Carolina.
"My dear Sir:

"The tragic and untimely death of my brother on the night of June fifth has so completely overwhelmed me that I have had no earlier opportunity to extend to you my congratulations upon your decisive victory in last Saturday's primary election.

"You knew my brother well, and I am sure you will agree with me that until I became a candidate for Congress he was one of your most loyal supporters.

"For forty years it was his custom on each election night, to carry the returns to the county seat so that he might rejoice with his friends who had won and console those who had lost. This was his mission when the light of his life was snapped out; and truly may it be said of him that 'Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends.'

"His virtues were many; and two of them were particularly outstanding, which I have sought in my small way to emulate—fidelity to friends and unshaken faith in the ultimate triumph of Democratic principles.

"In obedience to these sentiments I am writing this letter for the purpose of tendering to you and the entire Democratic ticket my hearty support and co-operation in the coming campaign.

"For the past twenty-five years, in every political contest that has been waged in this section, at my own expense, and at the sacrifice of my own time and business, I have done all I could to cause the Democratic banner to stream triumphant above the field of battle; and if my life and health continue, twenty-five years longer I will continue, without reward, to fight for the triumph of the Democratic faith, because I believe that the institution of our country can be made to endure only by the application of Democratic principles in government.

"On a number of occasions since you have been running for Congress, where our speaking appointments conflicted, we have spoken from the same platform in behalf of the Democratic cause; and I suggest that we make the campaign together this fall.

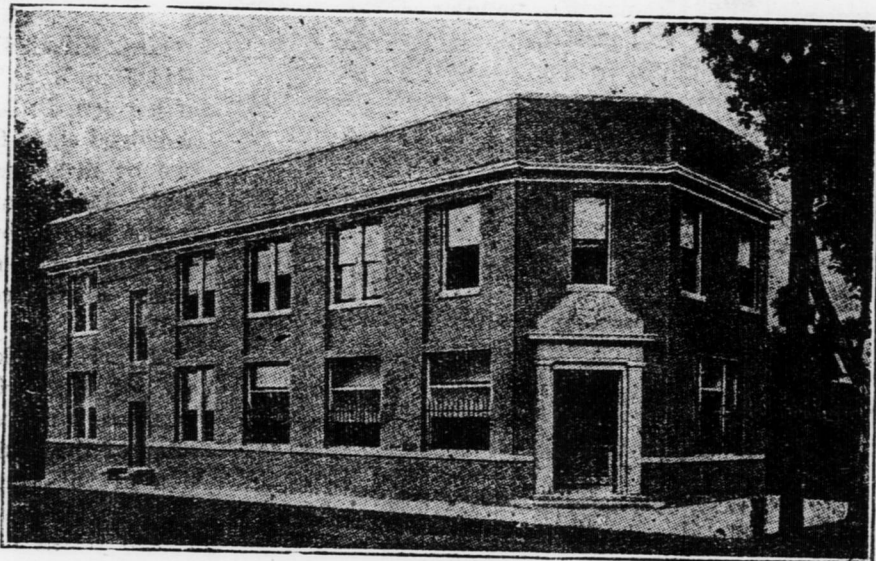

"It appears to me that this arrangement would have several advantages. Since we are in complete accord on the political issues of the day, we would, at the same time, present to the same audience, from the same viewpoint, the Democratic side of every question against the Republican position. The arrangement would insure us larger crowds, with less inconvenience to the public with less expense to us, and at the same time would demonstrate complete harmony and co-operation between us for the success of our party in the fall election.

"If this suggestion meets your approval we can work out the details later on.

"With best wishes for your success, and trusting that you will at all times be able to improve the opportunity for service which this nomination affords you for the good of our district and state, I am,
"Yours very truly,
(Signed) FELIX E. ALLEY."
